

MADERO DEFIES THE SENATE

Declares That He Has Been Elected By the People and Will Die Before He Will Resign the High Office.

DENIES HIS PRESENCE IN THE NATIONAL PALACE WHEN SENATORS CALL TO URGE RESIGNATION

Failing to Make Any Progress in Negotiating With the Executor the Members of the Congress Tell the People on the Streets of a Probable Intervention.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—While the federal guns pounded the Diaz fortifications in the arsenal and the rebels sent back shell for the shell, the senate met today and discussed the ousting of Madero from the presidency. Confident of ultimately defeating Diaz, Madero defied the senate and ignored the counsel of Francisco de la Barra and other friends. He absolutely refused to resign, but did not take the trouble to make known his decision personally to the senate. The fighting in the streets was as savage as on any other day of the week's battle.

The American embassy again came directly within the line of fire, and the American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, had a narrow escape from a bullet, which whistled close to his head within the embassy. Shortly before 6 o'clock the German legation was struck by a shell.

An American Killed. There were numerous casualties among non-combatants of strange nationality. A man named R. M. Tremont of Troy, Ohio, was killed by a bullet which passed through the streets. Today a shell crashed into Porter's hotel and killed him. Sidney Sutherland, correspondent of a Salt Lake City newspaper, but a resident of Mexico City, was killed by the same shell.

The situation in Mexico City, apart from its terrifying aspect, is a remarkable one. Friends of President Madero fully expected his resignation, but as the day wore along he became fixed in his determination to retain his position.

To the Spanish minister, Senor Coloman y Coloman, he said: "I will not resign. I am elected by the people. I am the constituted president. I will die before I will resign."

Applies the Consensus. And amid all the confusion and alarms, at 1 o'clock the Mexican government applied the consensus to all dispatches and cable messages. This will necessarily increase the difficulties of informing the outside world of the operations within the Mexican capital and will effectively suppress incoming dispatches regarding conditions in other parts of the republic.

During the night messengers went about the city locating senators and asking them to attend a special session to discuss the situation and attempt a solution of what is recognized by almost all Mexicans as critical.

Senators Attend Meeting. More than a quorum of senators was present at the meeting, which took place in the chamber of deputies instead of in the senate chamber at the national palace. The discussion lasted a long time and a great crowd surrounded the building.

The scene was almost identical with that when the senate was called to order by bringing about the resignation of Porfirio Diaz. In one matter respect it differed—there were no mounted police or soldiers drawn across the streets, and it was only after considerable time that a detachment of rurales, armed with the fighting line, appeared and dispersed the crowd.

This required little effort. Overawed by incidents of the week, the crowds moved quickly away from the building, behind the doors of which the senators were frankly admitting the imminent danger of intervention if the conflict in the capital were continued.

Senators Call at the Palace. A resolution was adopted providing that a committee of the whole wait upon the president at the palace. Twenty senators proceeded there, including the president of the senate. They were informed that Madero was not in, and it was intimated that he was on the firing line with General Huerta.

Only a few minutes before, however, Madero had been in conference with the Spanish minister, to whom he made his declaration of defiance to the rebels.

Mexican attorneys say the senate has no power to force the president to resign. Joint action of the two houses practically is impossible, because there are probably not enough deputies in the city to make a quorum. It is also considered questionable whether any action of the senate would be valid in view of the proclamation of martial law.

It is expected that the senate's main strength will be before tomorrow morning. The imminent danger of intervention is referred to.

The news of the senate's intention and the failure of Madero to receive the committee was given to the public by Senator Sebastian Camacho, a rich and aged Mexican of the old regime, who stood on a street corner and told the people what had been done. He described the preparations made by the United States for the protection of Americans and other foreigners, in view of which the senate had decided to depend on the patriotism of the people.

The delegation of senators had gone to the national palace to see President Madero, but they did not succeed in finding him. From the carriage in which they had driven they informed the public: "President Taft has just telegraphed the British minister that American troops are coming to Mexico City. We consider intervention inevitable." The Mexican senators also informed the populace that they considered that President Madero had been defeated. They said that President Taft had telegraphed to Pedro Lascurain, the Mexican foreign minister, that at the request of the British minister here he was sending marines to Mexico to protect Americans and other foreigners.

The senator said that President Taft had declared that this should not be construed as intervention, but it nevertheless was so. Senator Camacho probably did not intend to incite the people to resist, but rather to call them to the moral support of the government in its difficulties by ceasing internal strife and joining in the restoration of order. It is thought by foreigners that the crowds are likely to interpret his remarks in the contrary way.

Another committee of the senate went to find Felix Diaz to confer with him and to beg him to cease hostilities. President Madero was said to be out on the firing line with General Huerta.

Running Story of Battle. Madero's army, Feb. 15.—The rebel guns in the arsenal have been in sporadic action during the greater part of the night, occasionally developing a very heavy fire, which provoked vigorous reply from the federal artillery.

For the first time since the remarkable battle began there was a heavy sustained cannonade lasting half an hour in the total darkness shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. The incessant bombardment of the national palace and the fierce reply of the federals were construed as indicating that President Madero had not decided to resign.

It was declared in some quarters this morning that the report of his retirement was only a strategic movement on the part of the government. The hostile forces at daylight faced each other in practically the same positions they had held all through the week.

Exodus From Danger. The exodus of the populace from the district under fire was even greater than that of yesterday. There was a constant procession of people hurrying through the streets to the suburbs long before dawn and this continued until after daylight.

The officers of the Imperial army were commanded by the federal troops this morning for use in their operations. The flashes from the opposing cannon and the reverberating reports of the exploding shrapnel shells revived the thought at one period that the government forces were about to storm the rebel positions.

The rebels extended their lines shortly after 7 a. m. and there was a constant shelling of positions by the federal troops. This resulted in a fresh exodus of those who had remained on the fringes of the danger zone.

A large force of rebels commanded by Gen. de la O is encamped a few miles outside the city. In readiness to obey the orders of Diaz, de la O this morning issued a proclamation explaining his intentions.

To Drill Recruits. Diaz secretly sent out a number of officers today to assist in drilling the recruits under de la O. He ordered them to maintain their positions, as he did not want any more men inside his lines than he could conveniently feed, and he did not regard reinforcements as essential.

At 8 o'clock this morning the rebels were persistently extending their lines in all directions to draw out the federal artillery and launching heavy shells in the direction of the national palace.

The rebel artillery threw shells at the national palace where the senators were endeavoring to devise a means to bring about peace. The general bombardment of the federal positions continued steadily throughout the morning.

A series of sharp engagements occurred at various points. All the federal forces came into action at times with much more gun and infantry firing, to which the rebels sharply replied.

The government batteries in Alameda park came into action as well as another near the Colonia railroad station, and still another on San Juan de Letran street east of the rebel positions.

After a slight lull fighting broke out afresh at 12:30 p. m. The cannonading gradually became heavier and it was accompanied by sharp machine gun fire.

Using Big Guns. The offensive tactics of gun shortly after midday by the rebels. Big guns and small arms were brought into play and the action was being continued sharply at fifteen minutes to 1 o'clock.

The federals had worked into a much closer position along the eastern side of the rebels between the arsenal and the palace at 1:40 p. m. It appeared likely at that hour that an attempt would be made to rush the rebel positions.

A notable diminution in the fire along the lines was noticeable at 2 o'clock, although it was expected that the action would be resumed with vigor at any minute. No marked advantage had been gained by the Maderistas.

Federal Battery Moves. The federal battery, the placing of which within two blocks of the American embassy had been protected against by Ambassador Wilson, was moved this afternoon by the orders and under the personal direction of Gen. Huerta, the federal commander. It had been stationed in Insurgente street, where it would sweep a large part of the American district as well as attacking to the district the fire of the rebels.

While serving under Madero, Diaz was a son of Gen. Felix Diaz, a brother of the former President, who was killed in 1871 during a revolution which the Diaz faction led against President Juarez.

Physically the young Colonel greatly resembles his uncle. Temperamentally they were very different. Where President Diaz was intolerant, suspicious, heavy handed and tyrannical, Col. Diaz was for a larger measure of liberty and used the power his uncle gave him for the good of the people. He was in fact so tolerant that on more than one occasion he fell under the displeasure of the old president.

For six years before the downfall of the Diaz rule Col. Diaz was Chief of Police of Mexico. He supported his uncle throughout the revolution, but when Madero triumphed he accepted the situation with apparent grace, and until two months before he organized the revolution in Vera Cruz remained a commissioned officer in the federal army. He understood the temper of the troops thoroughly.

Envoys Came to Diaz. Envoys came to him from most of the recalcitrant leaders asking him to attempt to unify the factions so that a hated rule could be overthrown.

Briefly, he was represented to Col. Diaz that Madero, without the force and ability of Porfirio Diaz, had become a greater tyrant than the old dictator, that Madero had failed to democratize the country, that the great land barons remained as powerful as before and that the condition of the people was as miserable as it was under President Diaz. He was assured also of the support of most of the army if he would take the leadership.

In August, 1912, Col. Diaz resigned from the army, giving as a reason that he wanted to be free and to consider what course was best for him to follow. It didn't take him long to reach a decision. Reports began to be circulated throughout Mexico that Orozco, Zapata and Aguilar, the principal revolutionists, favored Felix Diaz for provisional president and that young Diaz was organizing uprisings in Oaxaca, Puebla, Tlaxcala and Vera Cruz. The Madero administration became agitated and made every effort to silence the Diaz sentiment.

Newspapers were suppressed. Agitators were thrown into prison. The army began to stir restlessly. Officers bragged in cafes of their affection for Col. Diaz and predicted a speedy downfall of the Madero administration.

Early in October Col. Diaz proclaimed himself commander in chief of the rebel forces in Mexico and took possession of Vera Cruz, the most important port of the country. Every Federal soldier in the garrison, the police and fire departments and many citizens flocked to his banner. Diaz began the uprising with 2,000 men, however, and had an abundant supply of arms and ammunition. It seemed certain at that time that the Madero rule was lost.

In a Madero Trap. But the Madero government, forewarned, had really laid a trap for Col. Diaz. Vera Cruz is in no sense a fortress and is easily accessible by land. Madero's spies knew to the minute all of Col. Diaz's plans. On the morning of Oct. 24, 1912, the federal troops attacked Vera Cruz and captured it after two hours of almost bloodless fighting. Col. Diaz was captured. The stroke paralyzed the rebels and brought hilarious joy to the Madero supporters.

The day after the battle Col. Diaz was tried by court martial for treason. Gen. Joaquin Beltrán presided over the court with orders from President Madero that the findings, "whatever they are, are to be carried out immediately." The finding was guilty, and the sentence of the court was that Col. Diaz should be shot at sunrise on the morning of Oct. 26. When the news reached the city of Mexico there was discussion in the cabinet as to what course the president should take. The majority of the members favored the death sentence. President Madero's uncle Ernesto Madero, the finance minister, and his brother, Gustavo Madero, insisted that Col. Diaz should be shot. The president, however, without deciding whether or not to spare Col. Diaz's life, sent him to prison. Col. Diaz was placed in the San Juan de Ulloa military prison at Vera Cruz. Later he was taken to the Santiago penitentiary at Mexico City, from which he was released for his present success.

Col. Felix Diaz

Col. Felix Diaz is about 44 years old and is a son of Gen. Felix Diaz, a brother of the former President, who was killed in 1871 during a revolution which the Diaz faction led against President Juarez.

Physically the young Colonel greatly resembles his uncle. Temperamentally they were very different. Where President Diaz was intolerant, suspicious, heavy handed and tyrannical, Col. ## COLQUITT URGES INTERVENTION

GOVERNOR WIRED THE PRESIDENT THREE DAYS AGO OF NECESSITY OF ACTION.

HE MADE ANOTHER APPEAL

Reports the Capture of Nuevo Laredo By the Rebels and Offers Texas National Guard.

By G. W. Taylor.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 15.—Governor Colquitt made known tonight that he had urged the United States to intervene in Mexico three days ago. He called the staff correspondents of the papers into his office tonight and read to them the message he sent the president. On account of developments at Nuevo Laredo he decided to give out the entire telegraphic correspondence relating to the situation. It is possible the Texas troops will be ordered out to protect the border. The telegrams are as follows:

"Austin, Tex., Feb. 15.—To the President, White House, Washington: The sheriff of Webb county advises me the revolutionists have just captured Nuevo Laredo, across the river from Laredo, Texas, and are now in possession of the custom house and municipal palace, the garrison joining the rebels.

"Am also receiving reports of incursions of Mexican bands into Texas for the purpose of stealing horses and cattle along the unprotected border. I ask you to send sufficient troops to Laredo and Brownsville for protection of American lives and property in Texas. If not convenient to do so, I will send troops to take charge of the situation on the Rio Grande. Please advise what will be done.

"O. B. COLQUITT, Governor of Texas."

The message received from Sheriff Amador Sanchez at Laredo was as follows:

"A large number of rebels, said to be headed by Col. Andrew Garza Galan, Nicanor Valdez and Pascual Orozco Sr., attacked Nuevo Laredo, just across the line, this afternoon. The garrison, composed of about twenty-five volunteers and 150 federals, joined Galan, proclaiming General Trevino as provisional president. The Mexican custom house, municipal palace and all public buildings are in the hands of the rebels. Order prescribes that I concentrate at once with leaders of the rebels, requesting them not to fire across the border, as this action might bring international complications. Col. Galan promised me they would not fire across the line. People on this side tranquil. Wire instructions.

The governor gave out this telegram, which he received from Secretary Knox three days ago. It follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the telegram which you addressed to the president today wherein you urge intervention in Mexico, and which has been referred to this department. I need hardly assure you that the situation in Mexico continues to be watched with ceaseless vigilance. As you are aware, naval dispositions of a precautionary nature have been taken thus far. The policy of the president remains unchanged, subject of course to the evolution of the general situation and the ultimate effect of the sudden crisis of events occurring since Sunday at the Mexican capital."

The telegram from Knox was in reply to one from the governor urging intervention, as follows: "The continued disorder and the obligation of the United States to the world under the Monroe doctrine make it imperative that we should intervene in Mexico, not for conquest or territorial gain, but to restore order and to protect life and property, and I respectfully urge this course without delay."

General Hutchings, when seen tonight said that Texas troops are ready for action. The course of the governor will depend on the answer from President Taft, a reply which may come at any time.

The feeling at the state house tonight is that a crisis in the border situation has been reached which carries it beyond the province of diplomacy.

TAKES TOWN WITHOUT A SHOT

Col. Pascual Orozco Sr. Rides Up In Automobile and Captures Nuevo Laredo.

Laredo, Feb. 15.—Nuevo Laredo was captured by the rebels this afternoon without a shot being fired, without harm to any citizen and with inconvenience to few. Col. Pascual Orozco Sr. headed a small party, which went to the government barracks in an automobile and evidently through previous arrangement the federal troops, numbering more than 200 formally announced their affiliation with the rebel standard.

Col. Andres Garza Galan, who figured prominently in connection with the Reyes revolution, was placed in command. The revolting forces captured the municipal officers, including the chief of police, and incarcerated them in their own jail. They then took charge of the customs house, placing rebel sympathizers in charge. They also took over the control of the National Bank of Mexico, but there was no pillaging. Sheriff Amador Sanchez of Webb county, Texas, secured a promise from the rebel leaders that in case of subsequent trouble, no fire would be directed toward the American side of the border. Twenty Amer-

Hands Off Is the Policy Decided On By the Cabinet

President Taft and His Advisers Discuss the Mexican Situation Until the Sunday Morning Hours.

MADERO REQUESTS NO INTERVENTION

Decision At Washington Is to Await Developments—In the Meantime Army Is Ready to Leap Into Action. Texas Troops Will Ship From Galveston.

Washington, Feb. 16.—(Sunday)—"Hands off" Mexico for the present was the decision of President Taft and the cabinet, reached at a prolonged session which lasted until the hours of this morning.

Mr. Taft and seven of his advisers gathered in the white house and after reviewing the situation from every angle and particularly the proposal of an armistice in Mexico City, during which non-combatants are to be removed, with the creation of a neutral zone for the American embassy, determined to reaffirm the non-intervention attitude of the United States, but meanwhile to keep the army and navy ready for instant action.

The cabinet meeting broke up just after 12:30 a. m. Secretary Knox announced that Secretary Hilles would make public the only statement to be given out. Other members of the cabinet referred all inquiries to Mr. Hilles. His statement was as follows: "At a meeting of the cabinet tonight various dispatches from Mexico were considered and it was decided that the information so far received afforded no basis for a change in the policy of the government of the United States, already indicated many times in the last two years."

Madero Makes Appeal.

President Madero appealed Saturday by telegram to President Taft, asking him to withhold intervention by the United States pending the attempt to put down the Diaz revolt. Secretary Knox was instructed to draft this government's reply, but later President Taft decided to hold a night conference with the cabinet to discuss the Mexican situation, and President Madero's telegram asking that intervention be withheld.

The early night meeting broke up after half an hour's talk, to permit the president to attend the Cannon dinner, with the understanding that the cabinet would reassemble before midnight to continue the conference.

The early cabinet meeting came after a conference between President Taft, Secretary Stimson and Brigadier General Crozier, president of the army war college, who were called into conference again to go over the plans that would be put into effect in case intervention became necessary. If the army is to be sent to Mexico, the transports will be dispatched from Galveston instead of Newport News.

Army Ordered to Be Ready.

No new orders resulted from the conference, but Mr. Stimson and General Crozier were told to be ready for any emergency. The president was still of the opinion that intervention would be unnecessary. He reiterated that he would direct intervention only in case of a wholesale murder of American citizens. If congress chooses to find a cause belli in the casualties incidental to street fighting in Mexico City, the president will not oppose it.

The president said that he hoped the disquieting dispatches from Mexico would not arouse the American people and that the pressure upon congress would not become so great that a majority would feel called upon to respond to a demand for intervention. According to his latest information, there is little sentiment in congress for intervention.

A troop movement from Galveston probably would be made by commercial steamers which the war department has to have at a few hours' notice, according to arrangement which have been in force for some time.

Texas Troops Available.

The drafts would be made from the army posts in the border territory, at which troops have been on marching orders for months. The troops available for a quick movement are the Thirtieth cavalry, El Paso; Second cavalry, first battalion Eighteenth infantry and the Twenty-second infantry, Fort Bliss; one troop Third cavalry at Sierra Blanca, and one troop at Shafter, Tex.; one troop Fourteenth cavalry, Fort Clark; one troop Fourteenth cavalry, Eagle Pass; one squadron Fourteenth cavalry, Fort McIntosh; several troops Third cavalry and two battalions of the Third field artillery at Fort Sam Houston.

In posts in Arizona, New Mexico, Kansas, Wyoming and Oklahoma are several regiments of field artillery. In addition to this force, there are available at the Guantanamo naval station 2500 to 3000 marines who could be transported to Mexican ports within seventy hours. Ten battleships of the Atlantic fleet also could land approximately 5000 bluejackets in the Atlantic ports of Mexico in a like time.

Taft Leaves Dinner.

President Taft spent less than an hour at Speaker Cannon's dinner and hurried back to the White House, where seven members of the cabinet were awaiting him at the executive mansion proper. In addition to the army officers at the earlier conference, Brig. Gen. Aleshire, the quartermaster general, was present. The session began by a reading of the latest dispatches from Mexico City.

The reply to President Madero as finally framed was in diplomatic terms a reaffirmation of the attitude of the United States as expressed to Mexico in previous correspondence indicating a disposition not to interfere in Mexican affairs but reasserting a determination to keep United States forces in positions where they might speedily be used for protection of American citizens. There was an impression at the White House that the reply might not be sent tonight, if at all, and in fact it was practically determined no further communication would go to President Madero at this time.

Has Dragged a Week.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The Diaz revolution in Mexico, which has now dragged out a full week, has resulted in great loss of life and enormous damage to property. It has involved the United States in a great deal of expense through the despatch of warships to southern waters, for the purchase of large quantities of supplies for troops and the commissioning of transports. Yet officials were ready to confess today that peace seemed no nearer than it did last Sunday night. Military men believe that if Diaz had pressed his advantage that day instead of entrenching himself in the arsenal he would have prevailed before dawn of Monday.

Today was one of rumors and speculations, and the state department officials were kept busy denying that the administration had changed its policy regarding Mexico and was about to intervene.

With a degree of freedom quite undiplomatic, the representations of Ambassador Wilson and the American consuls in Mexico, even including caustic comment upon the conduct of the war, were given publicly, so that it is probable that if congress should adopt any of the pending resolutions calling for the official correspondence regarding the Mexican revolution, there would be little to add to what already has been given to the press by the state department.

Wilson Being Sustained.

Ambassador Wilson is being sustained and encouraged in his efforts to remove Americans and foreigners from the danger zone in the Mexican capital, and if need be the draft of $10,000 already made in his favor will receive additions. The state department has not yet decided upon Mr. Wilson's declaration to accept the invitation of President Madero to transfer the American embassy to other and safer quarters. But it is well understood that, should it become absolutely necessary to include the American embassy in the theatre of war and the military emergency arises, the commanding vacation of the premises, the ambassador must yield and remove his embassy.

The day closed with officials here anxiously awaiting an outcome of the efforts to terminate the week long battle through the good offices of Senor Coloman y Coloman, the Spanish minister, Coloman y Coloman.

Madero Cannot Get Ammunition.

President Madero, as well as General Diaz, is denied arms and ammunition from the United States. This necessarily adds to the desperation of the federals. The American government is rigidly enforcing the neutrality proclamation issued by President Taft several months ago. Under that proclamation the president forbade, by authority of congress, the exportation of munitions of war to the Mexican republic. It has been the policy of the president, however, to except exportations designated for the federal army or private interests, provided he was assured they would not fall into the hands of rebels. Because of the terrific battle in Mexico City and the strong position of the rebels, no such assurances can be given, and consequently the neutrality ban is being enforced against the whole state of Mexico, which includes the federal district and capital city.

PLANS OF PRESIDENT ELECT

Will Go to Washington March 3 as Guest of Student Body of Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 15.—President-elect Wilson today explained his plans for the inauguration, so far as they had been arranged.

Mr. Wilson and his family will leave here at 11 a. m. Monday, March 3, on a special train as guests of the student body of Princeton University, arriving in Washington at 4 p. m. He will attend a smoker given in his honor that evening by the Princeton Alumni association of the District of Columbia, to which Princeton graduates generally have been invited. He said tonight he would not make a speech. Mr. Wilson believes that his first speech in Washington should be his inauguration address.

The president-elect and his family will spend the night at one of the large hotels near the white house. On March 4 the usual program of the inaugural ceremonies will be followed. The Wilsons will have a few guests at luncheon at the white house, but have made no plans for any other social functions.

"We will follow precedent that a remarked Mr. Wilson.

Diplomats Invited to Discuss the Situation. Washington, Feb. 15.—Ambassador Wilson has invited the British, German and Spanish ministers and the French charge to confer with him at the American embassy on the situation raised by President Madero's refusal to resign. These diplomats are in accordance with Mr. Wilson, but consultation has been difficult, because of danger from the combatants' bullets.

J. W. Arrott, United States Sanitary Manufacturing company, $1.

In passing sentence Judge Sessions said that the department of justice had urged imprisonment for Ahrens, Torrance and Dawes, of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company. He explained the fines as imposed upon them by saying:

"Although I am firmly convinced that they were the dominating influence in bringing about the effectiveness of the conspiracy, I must take other things into consideration. The case has been tried once before, before an able judge, for whose opinion I have the profoundest respect, and he ordered the dismissal of the charge against those three men. They preferred, however, to stand trial with the rest. While I differ with the former judge in opinion, I must take into consideration the chance that I may be mistaken and I must act accordingly."

The fine against their company, the Standard, was the largest of all.

PROPOSITION FOR A TRUCE

It is Being Considered, and in Mean-time Foreigners Are to Be Removed.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—A proposition is under consideration by Madero and his ministers to declare a truce of from twelve to twenty-four hours. The matter has been referred to General Huerta, who has suspended hostilities until 11 o'clock, when his answer will be given.

In the interim, foreigners will be removed from the danger zone.

It is also proposed to define a zone about the American embassy which will be respected. Diaz has agreed, provided the federalists accept this proposition.

BREAKING INTO SMALL SQUADS.

Federal Army Appears to Be on the Verge of Collapse.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Federal batteries established near the British legation at Mexico City have been removed.

Ambassador Wilson reports that in all parts of Mexico the government troops are said to be breaking up into small squads. He says it is not known whether this means the collapse of the federal army or some change in policy which is not clear.

Looting and bloodshed have sent terror into the Chinese section of the city, several Chinese having been reported killed. Lawlessness increases and is widespread. The loyalty of large numbers of federal troops continues to be questioned, and General Blanquet and his command are suspected of leaning towards Diaz.

A large force of rurales, fresh from Oaxaca, have not declared whether they are for the federal or the rebel cause.

DECLARES HE WILL NOT RESIGN.

Madero Says He Was Elected by the People of Mexico.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—Francisco Madero declared today that he would not resign the presidency of Mexico. He said that he was duly elected president by the majority of the people and that he would die before he would resign. The president's declaration was made to the Spanish min-

Bob Payne For City Commissioner

OFFERS FOR THE PLACE TO SUCCEED P. A. GORMAN.

Bob Payne is a candidate for city commissioner, to succeed the present incumbent, P. A. Gorman, who declines to offer for re-election. In conversation with the reporter, Mr. Payne said: "It is at the solicitation of many friends that I offer for commissioner. In making my announcement I do so knowing full well the duties thereof, and I believe I can be of some service to the welfare of the general public. For the past eight years I have served as commissioner of precinct No. 2, which includes East Waco. When I was elected commissioner there was a foot of gravelled road in that precinct, and now there is more than twenty-five miles of gravelled road in that precinct; while commissioner I discontinued the use of wooden culverts and bridges almost entirely replacing them with steel, which has proved a great saving to the county. I feel that my eight years' experience in road building in some degree qualifies me as a street commissioner. I gladly refer the people of Waco to my record as county commissioner. If, after investigation, you think I am the proper man for the place, I will appreciate your support in the coming primary."

In selecting a commissioner voters should consider a man's competency and honesty. Experience is certainly valuable and Mr. Payne's words are to the point and will undoubtedly have proper consideration. The services he rendered this county as a commissioner stand to his credit and at the end of eight years he voluntarily retired from the office. (Adv.)

The Theatres

"The Merry Widow." It was a rather bored "widow" which a good-sized matinee audience saw at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Perhaps the writer was unfortunate in being present at the matinee—but, in passing, it might be remembered that some hundreds of others likewise were unfortunate. Although the Henry W. Savage imprint was present on the scenery, costumes and the general upkeep, it was sadly lacking in the spirit. Most of the performers had that blasé air which almost angers an audience—a "blaseness" which seems to say, "Oh, they've shovelled us on here in an extra matinee and we've got to go through with it, but we'll finish the agony as soon as possible." This may have been partly due from the fact that the different parts have "gone stale" on most of the performers, from having been played through too many seasons. It is a well known fact that after the third or fourth year in a part an actor finally becomes careless and "slurs" his work. But whatever the reason, the afternoon performance drew no enthusiasm from its audience. Only two numbers occasioned even a faint stir, these being the waltz itself and the "Woman" song by the septet—or, rather, a sextette, Prince Danilo resting through the number. The "Vila" song was rendered by Natalie instead of Sonia and although well rendered was received almost in silence. Perhaps the only member of the all-star cast who took any enjoyment in his work was Arthur Woolley, who appeared as Mr. Nish. Charles Meakins as Prince Danilo sings and dances extremely well, but he barks his speaking lines. If "The Merry Widow" company was suffering under the delusion that Waco theatregoers are not up to the minute on what constitutes a well-balanced organization of players, or if they were sore at playing too many matinees and sought to work off their grouch at the expense of a small-town audience—if, in other words, they gave a slipshod performance because it was Waco, they were sufficiently rebuked by the audience, which was one of the coldest this critic has ever seen assembled in the Auditorium. ## CROWDS ON WACO STREETS

Balmy Weather Inviting to Those Who Want to Get Out for Shopping.

The streets of Waco were crowded from noon yesterday until closing time last night. During the early part of the evening the crowd was the largest seen on the streets with the exception of Christmas eve since last fall. The sidewalks were almost impassable and the jam about the entrances to popular stores and picture shows blocked traffic.

At several of the intersections policemen worked in the capacity of traffic officers for more than two hours longer than usual on Saturday evenings. The sidewalks were almost impassable and the jam about the entrances to popular stores and picture shows blocked traffic.

The night police chief, W. J. Pratt, detailed officers several times to clear the sidewalks. The crowd was orderly and only a few arrests were made during the early part of the night.

Every merchant in the city was satisfied with the day's business. Many country people unable to reach the city at the week-end for several weeks on account of the bad weather took advantage of the fair day and came to town. The motor car and local trains brought many persons from a distance.

Viciousness of house movers are numerous, but seldom do they have to contend with such a job as recently fell to the lot of a Jersey contractor. A 40-foot three-story frame building was to be moved to a site on Highland avenue, and as that street was only thirty feet in width, the structure was sawed in two.

The Marshall Manufacturing company of Marshall, which is the largest exclusive basket factory in the south, produced over two million baskets during 1912. Practically the entire output of the plant was consumed in Texas.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WITH BAYLOR STUDENTS

It is now in order for the local musical world to welcome a new organization. This is a student symphony orchestra organized by Professor Navratil from among the Baylor students. About twenty have enrolled and these have been in practice since the middle of January. Great progress is being made and much interest is being shown. Soon the symphony will entertain its friends with a concert. This will surprise all who attend.

THE FRANCES WILLARD PROGRAM FOR TUESDAY

It is the annual custom of the Women's Temperance union all over the country to observe the day of memorial for their founder, that great woman, Frances Willard. This has been arranged for the Waco union to take place at the Columbus Street Baptist church on Tuesday afternoon. The program will be quite elaborate. There will be special music and the church will be appropriately decorated. Mrs. Chester Shumway will touch upon Miss Willard as a teacher and Mrs. T. H. Claypool as a reformer. The public generally is invited to be present.

RECEPTION FOR MR. KING ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

It is announced that a public reception will be held in honor of Reverend R. A. King in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church after 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon. It is well known that this commemorates the fiftieth year, the jubilee, of the pastorate of Mr. King, and this opportunity is afforded by the church congregation for which he was pastor the most of this time, to extend the cordial congratulations. Not only are the members of the present congregation invited, but it is earnestly desired that all personal friends will be present, especially the older citizens who labored with this worthy man in the building up of the higher citizenship of this city.

THE HEART BREAKERS ENLIVEN SOCIETY

Several notes come from the Heart Breakers which show that this popular organization is an inspiration to society in the college set. Twice has Miss Alice Brazelton opened her home to the Heart Breakers and their girl friends for an informal parlor dance. The last came on Friday evening. It was accompanied by all the details which follow an agreeable hostess and a hospitable home.

On Saturday evening Miss Lucy Lazenby entertained with a Valentine party in honor of the Heart Breakers and her girl friends.

The call of last Saturday was made on Miss Mildred Smith. This afternoon Miss Lucile Gooch is the favored one.

THE PHILATHEA CLASS OF MORROW STREET CHURCH

As one feature of their work, the Philathea of the Morrow street church take turns in entertaining socially. The last of these pleasant sessions found the Misses Aiken hostesses at the home of their sister, Mrs. Chester Shumway. The day selected was that which should honor Saint Valentine, and all the details of entertainment bore upon this subject. The young men friends were included in the company, making a gathering of a half hundred young folks. One of the most interesting features was a minstrel show on stage. The highest grade was made by Oscar Hunter. Many compliments were paid the table, which showed a miniature boy and girl fishing for hearts from out a mirror lake. Beverly Lantinger was the recipient of the best ball cheer, hence she made the real "catch" of the evening. Cupid cookies and other features were found in the refreshment corner.

THE ART LECTURE OF MISS KATE FRIEND

It is now definite that Miss Kate Friend will deliver her art talk upon the Twelve Great World Pictures at the library on Saturday afternoon of the incoming week. This will include the twelve pictures which the world has most admired. Some will be shown in their entirety, and then in detail. In all the radiance will throw fifty or more of these masterpieces. The most of them will be colored after the originals. The stories both of the pictures and their painter will be told. Great interest has been manifested among the women since the Christmas talk on the Madonna, and inquiry has been constant as to when Miss Friend would present these Twelve World Pictures. Now that it is Lent and the conflict in engagement not so exacting, it is predicted that the lecture will be generously attended. The Waco women are very much alive to art and what is artistic, not only those who have had European travel but those who are abreast of art information.

THE BAYLOR ROUND TABLE HAS VALENTINE SESSION

In every way the social session of the Baylor Round Table was a success. This was the compliment from the Round Table to the official family of the university, and thus brought into the delightful company nearly the hundred. Mrs. Wright of the Georgia Burleson hall, was the immediate hostess. A committee from the club decorated both elaborately and artistically. It goes without saying that this decoration was done with Cupid's hand. It was multiplication long drawn out when these hundreds and yet more hundreds of hearts were entwined, fringed and otherwise placed about the music room. And Cupid came for his share. Every girl had a place. This was a full quota of greenery, the company was welcomed. The arrangement for passing the time after general greeting was a contest over writing the original valentine. And this was exceedingly clever as well as amusing. The prize award found Coach Glase most under the influence of sentiment, and he was presented a most ornamental valentine, almost as ornamental as his words dedicated to the Unknown. Professor and Mrs. Pool tied for second honor, but as was remarked, they had been "tied" so long they were one and the same. For this award, a tiny telephone which bore the message, "Hello, Sweetheart." But, for the booty, she who could not woo a valentine muse, Miss Martin was awarded a heart, paper to be sure, yet a bleeding heart. After the refreshments, which, of course, were most plentiful, the valentines, all gathered about the piano. With Professor Evans accompanying, all joined lustily in the old fashioned love songs, "Annie Laurie," "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," "Comin' Thru the Rye," and many others. Nothing but abandonment to the sentiment of the day and the fun of the hour marked the Round Table compliment to their Baylor faculty friends.

FRIDAY AUCTION BRIDGE WITH MRS. C. N. SMITH

It was the good fortune of a number who played bridge with Mrs. C. N. Smith on Friday afternoon that the members of the club could not be present. This enabled Mrs. Smith to extend special invitations. Thus, she matrimonized a party rather than a club game. The sunflower valentine hearts marked the games, and the heart appeared on the table, rather than these reminders of valentine day, it was a tilt at auction bridge. The scores ran high and the interest proportionately. But the final two thousand mark also was almost reached by Mrs. Smith. She received a pair of silk hose as her trophy. The consolation, a set of tea tumbler, was won by Mrs. Ralph Turner. Both prizes were tied with valentine ribbons. In this very pleasant event were the Mesdames Money Smith, Robert Coleman, Estlin Rogers, B. F. Dancer, C. M. Chabbe, J. J. Powers, George Tod, Ed Laughlin, Edward Jurney, Merchant Colgin, Ralph Turner, Lon Sparks, Misses Meek of Houston, Carlton of Tyler, Kate Friend and Jimmie Riggs.

HONOR FOR JESSE McLENDON AS CULVER SENIOR

The Heart Breakers as well as the personal friends of Jesse McLendon will be pleased to hear that he is to act as one of the bodyguard to Vice President-elect Marshall on his trip from Indiana to the inaugural at Washington. Young McLendon is now a senior at Culver Military academy. His record there is an enviable one indeed. Not only do his reports come with usually high grades but letters are with them congratulating Mr. and Mrs. George McLendon upon their promising and capable son. He wears a medal which is not for excellence in one line, but for attaining a certain grade in all departments, student life, athletics, and discipline of conduct. It is only through special arrangements that the Culver cadets accompany their vice president, the first time a vice president has ever been so attended. This is doubtless because this military academy is classed by the United States government in the class "university." Young McLendon writes that Culver is visited by distinguished army and navy men from other countries, that last season the commander-in-chief of the English army spent four days inspecting the academy. Culver, this is interesting to hosts here where Mr. McLendon is so recent a visitor home as the past holidays. June Holderman was a cadet at Culver and Nelson Smith, Jr., is now matriculated there.

THE HENRY DOWNS CHAPTER HAS IMPORTANT MEETING

Mrs. Bart Moore opened her home to the members of the Henry Downs chapter for their February meeting. This was one of the most important of the year in that it calls for a new roster of officers, and the arrangement for the annual observance of the George Washington memorial day. In addition, Mrs. Edward Rotan had her final report from the work which the daughters have fostered in reclaiming Waco's local historic spot, the old riverside spring. The work there has been something enormous and what has been accomplished will tell forcefully when the springtime comes. The chapter especially is indebted to the local patriotism of John Sleeper, who has assisted Mrs. Rotan and her committee in both a financial way and in personal supervision. Several applications for membership were received. These are the Mesdames Bolivar Nettles and R. B. Dickey of Dallas, Marie Holway, W. B. Foster and Miss Pauline Foster. Received by transfer from other state chapters are the Mesdames Terry and Hal Moody. The committee reported that Rev. E. E. Ingram of the Central Presbyterian church would be the speaker at the memorial service for George Washington at his morning service next Sunday. The chapter is pledged to attend this service in a body. Special music by the choir is to compliment the service and the chapter. Following this the matter of the chapter elected to serve the following year: Regent, Mrs. M. E. Manton; vice regents, the Mes-

THE SKIN PEELER All the Rage in Society

(From Society World.)

There is a growing tendency among women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygienic means of preserving their charms. The use of mercurized wax doubtless has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexions so natural in appearance, so magnetically beautiful, artificial complexions are no longer desired. Instead of "doctoring" an offensive skin the skin is peeled off. The wax peels the skin so gradually, in such fine particles, no discomfort is experienced. The fresher, younger skin beneath, wholly in evidence within a week or two, is lily white, satiny soft and smooth. It's not a patched-over complexion, but a brand new one. That's why mercurized wax has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings. All druggists have it; one ounce will do. Another hygienic treatment now much in favor is one to remove wrinkles, made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in 1-2 pint witch hazel. Used as a wash lotion it "acts like magic."

No Need to Have Gray Hair

This Simple Recipe, Made Up At Your Home, Solves the Problem.

A good many men and women go through life handicapped by gray hair, believing that it cannot be darkened so as to escape detection among their friends. This is altogether wrong. Of course, the cheap dyes and stains are often unsatisfactory, but here is a simple little formula, which you can put up at home for very little cost, that will be found to meet every requirement: To 7 ounces of water add one small box of Barbo Compound, 1 ounce of bay rum and 1-4 ounce of glycerine, and you'll have a delightfully good preparation for gradually darkening gray hair or beard, as well as a good remedy for dandruff and other scalp disorders. It is to be applied once a week until the hair is darkened, then once every two weeks. It has none of the objectionable qualities of ordinary dyes and stains—stinkiness, rubbing off, and such defects—and is genuinely reliable in every way. If your druggist hasn't Barbo Compound, ask him to order it for you.

DR. AND MRS. IRWIN COLGIN HAVE VALENTINE DINNER

In compliment to their sister, Miss Monette Colgin, and the fact that she was a valentine to the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Irwin Colgin gave a beautiful valentine dinner on Friday evening. Twelve guests, all young folks, formed the company, and an exceedingly jolly one it proved. All the table appointments both in color and in design favored the patronage of St. Valentine. The crimson candle, heart and carnation were in evidence. So were the valentine touches through the nine courses. The place cards found a valentine for each guest. This really was a bridge dinner. The birthday feature found nonsense trinkets from all the guests, collected and presented in a collection after the dinner. Each was accompanied by a valentine-birthday rhyme, and to say that these were original is also to say that they were very amusing as read by Miss Colgin. It needs but to remark that midnight only caused adjournment from this pleasant home, and this pleasant company is to tell it all by way of compliment for Mrs. Colgin as a dinner hostess. Those who enjoyed this birthday with Miss Colgin are Mesdames Rutherford of Oklahoma, Eugene Rouse, Roscoe Burgess, Maydee Caulfield and Dixon Holloway, with Messrs. Tom Moore, Oscar Moore, Bart Moore Jr., John Caulfield, Joe Willis and Edward Patton.

THE SOCIAL CIRCLE TEA WITH MRS. EUGENE EARLY

In placing her home at the disposal of the Social Circle, Mrs. Eugene Early gave possibility for one of the prettiest little church teas poured for a long time. The women took advantage of St. Valentine's day for this pleasant, and they not only received cordially, but arranged appropriate to the day. The tea table was their special care and this found a mound of green underneath a shower of crimson hearts. The hostess, Mrs. Early, presided. Mrs. Lewis Early poured. About the room the hearts, arrow-pierced, festooned the draperies and strings of Cupid's fish cake were seen reflected from the mirrors. It was all a valentine bower for the hostesses. Mrs. P. R. Hengst is president of the society. The piano, directed by Miss Roberta Rogers and Mrs. William Early, enlivened the rooms. The Circle was especially pleased to greet so many strangers and the women from other congregations who came on their way to Lenten service. It is to be noted that when the First Presbyterian church was ready for its furnishing this Circle pledged to provide the communion service, which pledge has been fulfilled. Now, the members hope to make their gift complete by presenting a handsome table. The coin returns from their tea will be used for this purpose.

MRS. FRANK BRELSFORD CALIFORNIA

In a private letter which has just reached Waco friends, Mrs. Frank Brelsford details her first voting experience. Mrs. Brelsford says: "Did I tell you that I cast my first vote for Wilson? I am quite converted to the suffrage cause. I find it does not infringe upon a woman's dignity or sphere. The women here in California voted quietly and then went about their regular domestic and social routine just the same. I must admit that I was a trifle trembling when I approached the polls. Unfortunately, my voting place happened to be the city hall and that tribunal of justice has always been ominous to me; then, too, the hour was late. I had first attended a card party, so routine matters were in sight, but men plenty of them. They were standing around in groups. It is queer to me how men will congregate around a city hall. But I put on a self-possessed front, walked right in and announced myself. Every one was respectful. I received my precious slip of paper and walked alone into the booth. You may believe that I made quick work of it, for I had been reading the many issues involved. I had spent a month studying out the many, many amendments and in getting familiar with the sample ballot, besides asking the opinion of every man I met concerning the different state politicians. Of course the answers were varied and contradictory, but I summed them all up and then used my own judgment. (It does not sound so formidable, and so beneath woman's dignity, does it?)—The Editor."

Society Notes.

It is a pleasing note from the Round Table valentine party that after six months' detention by illness, Mrs. Wilby Gooch is so far recovered as to mingle among her friends. Several of the Baylor girls are spending this week with Miss Hattie McNeill at Valley Mills. The unexpected has happened. The Texas flag is to fly over the ramparts of the old suspension bridge. This will crown the work of the Henry Downs chapter in reclaiming the old riverside spring. There is something in the air concerning the riverside drive. Watch

MILLINERY FOR SPRING 1913

Miss Huthmacher Writes of What She Has Seen in the Markets.

Miss Huthmacher, buyer for the Sanger Millinery department, who is now in New York, in a letter to the advertising department tells of the New Millinery for Spring 1913 from personal observation. The following from her letter will prove interesting to Waco Women, for Miss Huthmacher is a keen observer and has been in the Fashion Centers since early in January studying the new Spring and Summer Fashions at close range, not only in the most exclusive of New York's Millinery Shops, but in the work rooms of the most noted American designers and creators of Women's headwear, and she is therefore well qualified to convey to Waco people "What is What" in correct headwear for the Spring and Summer of 1913.

What She Writes Home.

Miss Huthmacher writes: "Never in my experience have I found the new season's Millinery quite so attractive as for this season. The colorings are beautiful; among the new shadings are Tete de Negre, Coque de Roche, Nel rose, Sand, Electric Blue and Taupe. The shapes are very small and snug fitting and are fashioned from Milano, Hemp, Split Milano, Taguel and Hair braids and are trimmed in fancy new, wide feathers—small fancy ostrich feathers or with

The Shoppers club is looking forward to a full and interesting meeting on Monday, when the new play is begun and old members greet new. Several have intimated that they would enjoy taking up the study of "Othello." The club, with its large membership limit of fifty, has yet a vacancy or two, so these applications will be considered if presented. Especially does the club welcome new arrivals in the city, women who are inclined to literary study.

What a time we do have getting our society parlance absolutely correct. Now it must be the bridge pads, upon which to keep our score. It used to be table markers.

The Herring Avenue Missionary society has in pleasing prospect the presence of Miss Ethel Jackson at the meeting on next Friday.

Mrs. Neale, who has been a visitor to her sister, Mrs. Robert Rogers, for some time, is leaving on Tuesday for her home in Nashville. Since this visit was primarily for recuperation, Mrs. Neale has spent the time quietly, and in consequence is returning home completely restored.

The Joel Westbrook home is closed. The Misses Westbrook are visiting in Beaumont and Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook are in San Antonio. Miss Maydee Caulfield is leaving with the incoming week for an extended visit. She will stop in St. Louis on her way to Washington City, where she spends several weeks with relatives. Annapolis, together with the inauguration excitement, will be some of the attractions. From there, New York, with probably Baltimore and Philadelphia will be visited. It is probable that the return trip will be made by water, with a stop to visit Mrs. McMahon and Miss Clifton in New Orleans.

Miss Helen Rutherford, who has made such an agreeable impression as the guest of Miss Enrique Smith, is spending her last few days. Later in the week she leaves for a visit in Dallas and then her homecoming. Mothers should make special note that the Henry Downs chapter requests the attendance of the school children at the George Washington memorial service next Sunday morning. This is one feature in the work of the Daughters of the American Revolution—that of promoting the patriotic impulse in the American youth. Mothers should assist.

All the Waco women have not come to the realization that it is not self aggrandizement to have newspaper notice. It is not in good taste to parade self publicly, but newspapers are for the purpose of informing and of telling what is in progress. Therefore, any club or society should let it be known at once what is to be done and how it shall be done. Send these notices in promptly.

It is now decided that the dining room shower for the Rebecca Sparks home will take place on Wednesday, February 20.

So Charles Major is dead! This means the loss of some delightful pieces of fiction. We all enjoyed Charles Major.

It is in order to congratulate the Philo club for reaching a twenty-ninth birthday; almost an old bachelor. Did any one of the girls send down a gift? Never before have we observed Len's generally. And we rather like it, do we not?

It is now perfectly proper to begin our homage to George and Martha Washington. They should not have divided honors with St. Valentine, but we are ready to talk about the cherry tree and the little hatchet, with the cap and the kerchief.

Society Personals.

After several weeks in her former home, Cincinnati, Mrs. F. E. Drake of West Washington street is at home. Mrs. H. M. Minier of University Heights is entertaining Mrs. Swannell from Kankakee, Ill. Mrs. M. Holderman of the Kyle has spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Sherwood, in Temple. Mrs. Lee Cowan of Austin avenue is entertaining for a few days Miss Elizabeth Mentheth of Belton. Mrs. J. O. Sloane of South Third is entertaining Mrs. William Gardner of San Antonio. Miss Frankie Dickson of Cleburne is with Miss Jane Moore on South Fifth street for a few days. Mrs. D. L. Davis of North Fifth street is at home from a visit to Morgan. Mrs. Lewis Early of Fourteenth and Chic little Bow or Ribbon off brim at the back. There are also trimmings of satine in Bulgarian colorings and Chinese designs.

"For Dress wear, large, flat hats are to be popular, 'scooped' as in 'ye olden times.' These are to be worn with draped costumes many of which are modes taken from pictures of many years ago.

"The many styles and designs to be in vogue for Spring and Summer cover such a wide latitude that anything more than the general description that I have given is almost impossible, but we are not overlooking a single thing that will add to the richness, beauty and completeness of our Spring Millinery display."

MR. DANIELS YET IN NEW YORK

Laces and Embroideries to Have More Room and He is Buying Full Line.

J. C. Daniels, buyer and manager of the Sanger Lace, Embroidery, Dress Trimmings and Women's Glove and Hosiery departments, is still in New York selecting the new Spring and Summer merchandise for his several departments. He has been busily engaged since early in January in an endeavor to complete his purchases, which are larger this season than ever before because of the fact that the expansion of the store to greater proportions will allow room to carry even greater varieties than heretofore. Many of his purchases are already on display and still others will go on display tomorrow.

IS WAITING FOR THE LATEST

Mr. Fromm Will Not Leave the Market Until He Has Made Full Selections.

Mr. Fromm, buyer and manager of the Sanger Women's, Misses' and Children's Ready To Wear department, who has been in New York since the first of January, will remain for at least two weeks longer in order that he may secure the later creations in Women's Spring apparel from abroad, as well as the later styles that are yet to come from some of the noted American designers.

WORK ON THE NEW ADDITION

Sanger's Store Will Have New Glass Front and Full Equipment New Fixtures.

The big steel girders that are being used in rebuilding the McClelland Hotel Building in extending the Sanger Store to the corner of Fourth and Austin Streets, are being rapidly put into place and with the completion of this part of the work the new addition that will give to this store a ground floor space alone of $1,500 square feet, will soon be finished.

The new fixtures that are to grace the store throughout are ready to install and will be quickly put into place once the remodeling of the building is completed. It is planned to have the new front with its two hundred feet of plate glass windows on Austin Street, as well as those on Fourth street, ready in time to display the new season's merchandise.

leaves were given safe escort to the American side. The revolutionists ordered the closing of all saloons and everything is quiet tonight.

The possibility of the present revolutionary movement along the border in this vicinity reaching more wide scope was indicated tonight by Col. Pascual Orozco Sr. and Col. Andres Garza Galan, who granted a joint interview to the Associated Press representative.

Colonel Orozco's Views.

Colonel Orozco said: "We are going to continue our operations until the overthrow of the present administration is brought about, and the taking of Nuevo Laredo today is but the first step."

"The rebel forces in the Chihuahua district are unanimously for the temporary placing in the executive position of General Geronimo Trevino, at present in Monterrey. I can state also that we firmly believe this to be the ambition of Felix Diaz. We do not center on General Trevino as being the only available man, but as a matter of fact any man who would be willing to harmonize and bring about order throughout the country would be to our liking."

Trevino for President.

"We consider General Trevino a good man and know that in the event of his succeeding to the presidency we could look forward to everything good and nothing bad at his hands."

QUICKEST STOMACH RELIEF KNOWN—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

IN FIVE MINUTES! TIME IT! ALL INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN AND DYSPEPSIA GONE AND YOUR STOMACH FEELS FINE.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if you are gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; if your head dizzies and aches; if belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; if breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and early that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

DEMONSTRATION ON TEXAS FARMS

HAVE MADE BIG GAINS DURING THE YEAR JUST CLOSED.

VIEWS OF BRADFORD KNAPP

Says the Men Who Have Served Texas Planters Have Found Ready Co-operation.

Fort Worth, Feb. 15.—Farm demonstration work in Texas during 1912 made big gains over the previous year and a total of 103 counties, 56 in west Texas and 47 in east Texas, adopted the methods and had agents of the federal department of agriculture to show and instruct the farmers in scientific farming. The results were astonishing and an increase in production of 35 per cent was had generally throughout this territory and in many instances it was as high as 50 per cent. In farm demonstration work last year, $125,000 was spent in the state of Texas, $50,000 of which was appropriated by the federal government and the rest by the counties of the state in which the demonstration farms were maintained.

Approximately 75,000 or 14 per cent of all the farmers in the state are co-operating with the local demonstration agents and are practicing scientific methods of farming to some extent. The number has greatly increased during 1912, and the prospects for a wider scope of scientific farming methods seems certain for 1913.

Cotton Demonstrations.

In discussing the work of the federal demonstration agents in Texas with a representative of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association, Mr. Bradford Knapp, special agent in charge of the farmers co-operative work in the United States, said:

"With cotton 951 demonstrators in east Texas reported on 8,923 acres, an average of 8.4 acres for each demonstrator, an average yield of 1,047 pounds of seed cotton per acre and a total of $6,260,399 pounds. The average yield of cotton in east Texas as estimated by the bureau of statistics, December 11, 1911, was 576 pounds. Thus it appears that the demonstration methods produced an increase of 86.5 per cent, or 498.5 pounds per acre above the state average, which at $3 per hundred amounts to $14.94 or $120,024.88 on 8,923 acres."

Corn Demonstrations.

With corn 546 demonstrators reported on 3,529 acres, an average of 6.5 acres for each demonstrator, an average yield of 21.4 bushels of shelled corn per acre and a total of 75,663 bushels. The average yield of corn in east Texas in 1911, as reported by the bureau of statistics was 9.5 bushels per acre. This shows an increase under demonstration methods of 125.2 per cent or 11.9 bushels per acre, which at 80 cents per bushel amounts to $9.52 per acre, or $33,991.28 on 3,529 acres."

Combining results on these two crops we find a total of $153,715.36 representing the value of increased production of cotton and corn in east Texas, due to demonstration methods on 11,552 acres reported for the year 1912.

In addition to the work reported above, there were about 1100 demonstrators and co-operators in east Texas in 1911, following demonstration methods. From whom no reports were received. No attempt has been made to estimate the effect of the work upon the balance of the demonstrators' crops or upon the crops of their neighbors.

Demonstrations in Cotton.

With cotton 1,171 demonstrators in west Texas reported on 11,972 acres, an average of 10.2 acres for each demonstrator, an average yield of 699.4 pounds of seed cotton per acre. The average yield of cotton in Texas as estimated by the bureau of statistics, December 11, 1911, was 576 pounds. Thus it appears that the demonstration methods produced an increase of 21.4 per cent, or 123.4 pounds per acre above the state average, which at $3 per hundred amounts to $3.70 per acre, or $44,296.40 on 11,972 acres. With corn 582 demonstrators reported on 4,246 acres, an average of 7.3 acres for each demonstrator, an average yield of 23.1 bushels of shelled corn per acre and a total of 98,165 bushels. The average yield of corn in Texas as reported by the bureau of statistics was 9.5 bushels per acre. This shows an increase under demonstration methods of 142.1 per cent, or 13.6 bushels per acre, which at 80 cents per bushel amounts to $10.88 per acre, or $46,196.48 on 4,246 acres."

ported by the bureau of statistics was 9.5 bushels per acre. This shows an increase under demonstration methods of 142.1 per cent, or 13.6 bushels per acre, which at 80 cents per bushel amounts to $10.88 per acre, or $46,196.48 on 4,246 acres."

Money in the Work.

Combining results on these two crops, we find a total of $30,492.88 representing the value of increased production of cotton and corn in west Texas, due to demonstration methods on 16,518 acres reported for the year 1911.

In addition to the work reported above there were over 8,000 demonstrators and co-operators in west Texas in 1911, following demonstration methods, from whom no reports were received.

A law enacted by the Thirty-second legislature of Texas, at its regular session provides that commissioners' courts in the counties of Texas be authorized to appropriate any sum of money not to exceed $1,000, to aid the farmers' cooperative demonstration work along the lines suggested by and in connection with the agents of the agricultural department of the United States.

Counties Working Under the Law.

The following Texas counties have taken advantage of this act of the legislature and have by appropriations maintained demonstration farms: Angelina, Archer, Austin, Bee, Bexar, Bowie, Bosque, Brazoria, Brazos, Brown, Burnett, Caldwell, Camp, Cass, Cherokee, Clay, Colorado, Comanche, Cooke, Dallas, Delta, Dewitt, Eastland, Ellis, Erath, Fannin, Fayette, Ford, Fort Bend, Freestone, Galveston, Goliad, Gonzales, Gregg, Guadalupe, Grimes, Hamilton, Hardeman, Hardin, Harris, Harrison, Haskell, Hays, Henderson, Hood, Hopkins, Houston, Howard, Hunt, Jack, Jasper, Jefferson, Johnson, Jones, Karnes, Kaufman, Knox, Lampasas, Lavaca, Liberty, Marion, Mason, McCulloch, McLennan, Milam, Mills, Montgomery, Morris, Nacogdoches, Navarro, Newton, Nolan, Nueces, Orange, Parker, Red River, Robertson, San Augustine, San Jacinto, San Patricio, San Saba, Somervell, Smith, Tarrant, Taylor, Titus, Tom Green, Travis, Trinity, Tyler, Uvalde, Van Zandt, Victoria, Walker, Washington, Wharton, Wichita, Wilbarger, Williamson, Wise, Wood.

AGREES WITH JUDGE SURRETT

A. M. Kennedy Is Opposed to the Proposed Home Rule Statute.

Austin, Feb. 15.—Representative Kennedy expressed his opinion of the proposed bill for home rule for cities after reading Judge Marshall Surratt's views on the subject in the Friday issue of the Waco Morning News. Kennedy is thoroughly in accord with Judge Surratt's ideas on the subject. He says that the bill as now proposed is the one drawn by the city attorney. He claims that it will work counter to the purposes of the bill in such a measure. Certain essential restrictions are not provided in the new bill, first to prevent confusion in drawing a new charter and second in operating under the charter. He believes that under the proposed bill the charters would have little more stability than general ordinances passed by the city councils.

He said that he had drawn an amendment for the original bill which would have placed certain limitations on the cities and left them footloose to work out necessary details. As now drawn he believes it is too faulty to be allowed to pass without a thorough overhauling, and doubts whether a law worth anything can be made out of it.

Recently the Board of Trade and Retail Merchants' Association of Itasca has consolidated. A fund of $2,400 has been raised for the purpose of employing a permanent secretary and plans have been made for an extensive campaign.

At Edinburg the local Commercial Club has decided to purchase sugar beet seed for distribution to the farmers of that section in an endeavor to ascertain the possibilities of that community as a sugar beet country.

Cleveland's mentally deficient children may be sent to study classes on the city's pauper farm.

MELVILLE CLARK BUILT A SOUL IN HIS APOLLO PLAYER-PIANO

He virtually put human fingers in his player structure, and they play down on the keys just like YOU play the piano.

No other player-Piano has the down-on-the-key touch and finger pneumatics. This a basis patent of Melville Clark's and used only on the Apollo.

When you hear the Apollo you are not conscious of the fact that it is a roll-played piano. Even when you sit at the key board, with the roll concealed by the sliding panels, you are hardly aware that the near HUMAN FINGERS under the fall-board are not your VERY OWN. The NECROMANCY in the Apollo is that its roll-played music is REAL music.

All Apollo owners are musicians—if not in technical training, then certainly in the more important qualities of the musician. The Apollo is a great teacher in all the higher attributes of musical art.

West Virginia Senator Wants to Abolish Court Looking Into Bribery.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 15.—The special grand jury investigating charges of alleged bribery in the United States senatorial campaign did not finish its work today and adjourned until Monday. About fifty legislators and a dozen other citizens have appeared before the grand jury. No indictments other than the six on Friday have been returned.

What was declared to be an effort to block further investigation of the alleged bribery charges was made in the senate today when Senator Silver, democrat, introduced a bill to abolish the intermediate court of Kanawha county, now engaged in the investigation. This alleged attempt failed, for the bill was tabled. Governor-elect H. D. Hatfield tonight said there would be a thorough investigation of the bribery charges. In part he said:

"This investigation will go to the very bottom. There will be no immunity bath for anybody concerned."

NO SESSION UNTIL MARCH 3

Speaker Excuses All Members of the House and Lieutenant Governor
Agrees to Plan—Hunt Is Ill.

Austin, Feb. 15.—Dr. W. B. Goodner, a representative from Erath county, said today that he believed it quite possible that the members who contracted meningitis did so as a result of the practice of the health department in developing the cultures of the germs in the laboratory on the balcony floor of the house.

Committee rooms are located on this floor, and the halls and stairways there are in constant use by members and employees.

J. L. G. Hunt, the last member to be stricken with meningitis, is reported to be improved tonight. He was inoculated Tuesday and the physicians believe that it will help in hastening his recovery.

There was no quorum in the senate today because members of that body are away visiting state institutions. Adjournment was taken until Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, the procedure being to adjourn from day to day. Senator Kaufman says that for one he will favor the senate remaining in session and working despite the action of the house in ceasing work temporarily. He thinks that much can be accomplished in this way. Other members are of the opinion that it will be impossible for the senate to proceed without the house. The majority of the members of the house have signed a sine die adjournment resolution setting forth a desire to adjourn at the end of sixty days, which comes March 11. If the house and senate both cease labor until March 3, it means that practically every bill on the legislative calendar will die unless adjournment is extended. In special session the senate would not doubt decline to submit subjects covering many of the pending bills.

The legislature never faced a more embarrassing situation. It was found in the house that while many were willing to stay and work, it would be impossible to obtain a quorum from day to day. Speaker Terrell says that no other action could be taken.

Representative Hunt, the latest to be afflicted with meningitis, served in the Thirty-first legislature in its special sessions, succeeding J. E. Bowman, who resigned to become T. M. Campbell's private secretary. He was a member of the thirty-second and a candidate for speaker in the Thirty-third.

Lieut.-Gov. W. H. Mayes announced by long distance telephone Saturday afternoon that the senate would stand adjourned from day to day until February 24.

This action met with the approval of the governor, the attorney general, Speaker Terrell of the house and others in Austin, he said, and he placed reliance in their judgment. The period of adjournment will be lengthened if necessary.

Speaker Terrell's statement follows: "Owing to the fact of the death of two members of the house and after an examination showing that Judge Hunt of Randall county is afflicted with meningitis, and after consultation with the governor and attorney general, the speaker excuses every member of the house except the representatives from Travis county until March 3 at 9 o'clock, subject to a change by telegram to each member of the house. The speaker will remain and with one representative from Travis county will adjourn the house from day to day. In case conditions do not improve a longer excuse will be of course given by the speaker."

"CHESTER TERRELL,

TO GET OUT A PAPER.

a Mimeograph.

In the hope of getting some practical as well as theoretical knowledge of a big newspaper game the class in journalism work at Baylor university will on next Tuesday morning issue a paper that will be known as the Baylor Daily Times. This name will be used for the sake of convenience and does not imply that the paper will be issued every day, for it won't.

In anticipation of the event the class has been at work on the proposition for several days and every member of the class has been assigned to some duty on the paper, as follows: W. Roy Christian, managing editor; F. C. McConnell, Jr., telegraph editor; Miss Dorothy Scarborough, who is instructor of the class, copy reader; editorial writers, R. E. Dudley and G. E. Halliday; foreman of mechanical department, Byron Smith; circulation manager, J. Q. Adams; reporter staff, Abe Ethridge, J. E. New York, Feb. 15.—Only a few minor changes in rules were announced here this afternoon by the American intercollegiate football rules committee.

M'GRAW GETS RAISE

SIGNS NEW CONTRACT FOR FIVE SEASONS WITH THE GIANTS.

President Hempstead of the Giants announced today that John J. McGraw, manager of the National League club of New York, today signed a five-year contract to manage the team for the seasons of 1913-1917 inclusive.

McGraw was working under a five-year contract, which had two years to run. The old contract, however, was abrogated and the new one gives McGraw a substantial increase in salary. It is said that McGraw's old contract called for $18,000 a season and that his stipend has been increased to $20,000 a year.

President Hempstead of the Giants issued a statement, saying:

"It gives me great pleasure to announce that the New York National League Baseball club has entered into a contract with John J. McGraw, whom we consider to be the greatest manager of the generation in professional baseball, to act as manager of the team for the seasons of 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917."

Manager McGraw will leave here tomorrow for Marlton, Texas, where the Giants have their training camp, to look over his young players.

How Emmet Wrote Dixie

"Dixie" was written by Dan Emmet, both words and music; it was sung for the first time Monday, September 12, 1859, on the stage of Bryant's Minstrels at 472 Broadway, New York. There has been much controversy over the question of authorship and equally over the music. The known history of the song has been carefully compiled by Gustav Kobbé in his "Famous American Songs," as follows:

"On Saturday night, September 17, 1859, after the performance, one of the Bryant's told Emmet that a new work around was wanted in time for rehearsal on Monday. The minstrel replied that while the time was very short he would do his best. That night after he reached home he tried to hit upon some tune, but the music wouldn't come. His wife cheerfully told him to wait until morning; he should have the room to himself so that he could work undisturbed, and when he had finished the walk around he could play it for her as a sole audience. If she would the Bryant's would and so would the average listeners. Next day was rainy and dismal. Some years before Emmet had travelled with a circus as a drummer. In winter the warm southern circuit was a popular route with circus people, and those who were obliged to show north would say when the cold weather would make them shiver: 'I wish I was in Dixie.' The phrase was in fact a current circus expression. On that dismal September day, probably the beginning of the equinoctial, when Emmet stepped to the window and looked out the old longing for the pleasant south came over him and involuntarily he thought to himself, 'I wish I was in Dixie.' Like a flash the thought suggested the first line for a walk around and, while the minstrel, fiddle in hand, was working out the melody which, coupled with the words, made 'Dixie' a genuine song of the people almost from the instant it was first sung."

NEGRO WITH LONG KNIFE

The dignified peace of the negro Walters and Porters' club near Second and Bridge streets, was seriously disturbed about 12 o'clock last night, when Jimmy Morris entered the front door and whispered a few words to Brackett Barnard, James and Praxley. They found the place in chaos. Chairs and tables were upset in the hasty retreat of members who were there for a social evening.

The police ambulance removed Williams to the Provident Sanitarium, and the officers arrested Morris.

General Jones and Army Delayed and Must March All of Day Sunday.

Burlington, N. J., Feb. 15.—Instead of crossing the Delaware at Trenton and invading Pennsylvania, the "On to Washington army" of suffragettes, under the leadership of "General" Rosalie G. Jones, today hiked down the Jersey shore of the river, and bivouacked in Burlington for the night. It was a hard, weary grind of eighteen miles over alternately hard roads and highways almost ankle-deep with mud.

The Sabbath tomorrow will bring them no rest. Under the original plan, the hikers were to have spent Sunday in resting at Bristol, Pa., but a change in arrangements brought

Make Clean Getaway at Wilmer With the Money.

Dallas, Feb. 15.—Using three charges of nitroglycerine, yegzmen blew the safe of the White Banking company at Wilmer near here about 3 o'clock Saturday morning and made a clean getaway with between $2500 and $3000. Just enough of the explosive was used to blow the safe door and there was practically no damage to the furniture or interior of the bank. This fact leads the officers to believe that the safe crackers were professionals. A telegraph and telephone wire into Dallas were cut.

Indications are that the "yegs" entered Wilmer on a handcar, and it is positively known that they fled from the little village in that manner.

THEIR SUNDAY BEST.

How a Visiting Clergyman Set the Style for an Alaska Mission.

The wife of a missionary long stationed in Africa confessed the other day that she became hysterical with suppressed laughter at the first service that her husband held at a station after arriving in her own state. Had she known that the chapel lest she should disfigure herself by an outburst of unseemly mirth.

The cause of her discomfort, says the Youth's Companion, was an important convert, an aged and venerable chief with snowy hair and countenance of ferocious dignity. The young wife had thrown away the day before an outgrown pair of her tiny daughter's ankle ties. They were of gay scarlet Morocco, and when they reappeared as church buttons neatly through the distended lobes of the old chief's ears and dangling conspicuously against his withered ebony shoulders the spectacle was too much for her—especially in combination with the rest of his costume, which consisted of a dirty blue loin cloth and a headband made of feathers artistically combined with imported shirt buttons.

Missionary gravity is often severely tested by the go to meeting best of an unsophisticated congregation. Even our own country can supply instances in point. The tale comes from Alaska of an Indian settlement, the resident of which was the greater of his people for the coming of a distinguished clergyman who was going to preach to them by explaining that not only would his words be worth hearing but that his character was such that he might be considered an exemplar of all the Christian graces and eminently worthy of imitation.

During his earnest and eloquent address the visiting preacher had occasion to use his handkerchief; having done so, he thrust his handkerchief into a coat tail pocket. He quite failed to observe that the greater portion remained hanging outside and streamed backward as he gesticulated in a manner that the respectfully admiring natives deemed peculiarly elegant and effective.

The next Sunday the decorum of their own pastor was severely strained when he beheld a flock more suggestive of Little Bo Peep's than any other proudly advancing down the aisle. Every man, woman and child had a handkerchief, rag or piece of white cloth of any material from salicloth to muslin and of any size from six inches square to a yard. These they had sewed or pinned securely to the rearward portion of their attire, to waggle as they moved in a manner as realistically taillike as possible.

When it was tactfully explained to them after service that this clerically inspired fashion was the greater of misunderstanding and not the latest and most correct thing of the east, they were greatly disappointed.

A method has been invented for extracting nitrogen from the atmosphere by the use of an inflammable gas instead of electricity.

Book For Men Free

8,000 Words, 30 Illustrations

TO MY READERS:

Of the little illustrated advice book described below, which I gladly send free to all men who fill in the coupon, I beg to say that it represents the very BEST information of a private nature which I am able to offer you as a result of over 30 years' observation and study of my subject, during which time I have personally interviewed many thousands of men, young and elderly, single and married, rich and poor alike, who came to me in confidence with their confessions of debility, lost nerve force and failing strength.

It is, reader, this vast and unusual opportunity which has enabled me to compile this very popular and valuable little free book (over a million of which have been sent everywhere to men who wrote me for them, in a manner to reflect the exact living, breathing experiences and needs of real men who sought information as to the newer ways of self treatment without the use of drugs.

Remember, this book of over 8,000 words and 30 illustrations will come to you by return mail in reply to your request, and in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope, for it is no one's business but your own what the envelope contains. There is absolutely no obligation on your part to buy anything or pay anything, and merely the receipt of this book does not mean in any way that you are to use one of my VITALIZERS (see description below), and, in fact, only a portion of the book has any reference to the VITALIZER at all. Primarily it is a compendium of useful information for private reference, which you and all other men may easily profit by through life.

Therefore, please use the coupon, or, if near by, I should be very glad to have you call.

SANDEN, AUTHOR.

It is a fact, reader, which you and I must recognize and admit, that the whole world admires and is fascinated by strong, vigorous, husky, manly manhood, and we must also admit that it is this same manhood and this alone which is back of the real leaders and producers in every walk of life. No matter where we go, we find it to be the manly, vigorous, vital fellow who forces to the front, who fascinates men and women of his community, who does the really great things. An unmanly man merely means nature's laws gone wrong, for it is he who halts and hesitates, who takes the back seat, who does not fit into the picture in a way that a manly, vital nature should. And yet, reader, it is my firm belief that any man, no matter what his past, no matter what his dissipation or follies, may have left their mark upon his physical and mental being, I say to you that such a man, unless there be some unusual reason, may hope for a complete return of his strength, vigor and self confidence, if he but go about his self-cultivation in a natural, commonsense way.

I make a little appliance which we will call a VITALIZER because I think that is the best word to describe its strange power. I don't want you to think of getting one of these VITALIZERS just now, but I would like you to investigate my claims as to what I believe can be accomplished by almost any weakened man who uses this VITALIZER faithfully for a few weeks. I speak, of course, of him who is willing to give up dissipation and lead a decent, conservative life, not only while using the VITALIZER, but for the future. The other kind of man, the dissipated, can hope for nothing from any treatment, no matter what it may be, hence such a man is eliminated from my consideration.

This little VITALIZER is made to wear upon the body all night. It weighs only several ounces and is so non-unhandy that an ordinary belt, yet it generates a great FORCE that I call VIGOR, which flows into your blood, organs and nerves while you sleep. Men say it often takes any pain or weakness out of the back in one application, and that 60 to 90 days' use has been sufficient to restore manly strength and to put men in the "never felt better in my life" class. Special attachments carry the FORCE of the VITALIZER to any part of the body, for the use of women as well as men in cases of rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc.

Over two hundred thousand of these VITALIZERS have been used or are now being used by men all over the world.

You had better learn more of this VITALIZER. It is fully described in my free book. If you live near me, why not call and test the VITALIZER yourself?

ROBERTSON LAW IS A PROTECTION

TEXAS LIFE COMPANIES ARE DEVELOPED BY OPERATION OF THE STATUTE.

KEEPS TEXAS MONEY AT HOME

Secretary of the Organization of the Home Companies Answers Bishop of Bautrop, Texas.

Dallas, Feb. 15.—Lawrence M. Cathles, secretary of the publicity committee of the Texas Life convention, has made a very emphatic reply to some of the statements set forth in a recent open letter by F. Z. Bishop of Bishop, Texas.

The best interest of life insurance policy holders through the dissemination of information regarding the science of life insurance, the upholding of correct principles in conducting the business of life insurance, the establishment of maintenance of confidence between the managers of life insurance companies and their policyholders, the correction of any abuses which may arise in the methods of transacting the business of life insurance, the promotion of cooperation, acquaintance, and the exchange of ideas among its membership, and any and all other things incident to the welfare of insurers, insured and the public in relation to the business. The president, any vice president, secretary or actuary, medical director, or the general counsel or the general manager of any regular life insurance company organized and licensed to transact business under the laws of the state of Texas, are eligible to membership in the organization.

In his reply, Mr. Cathles says: Dallas, Tex., Feb. 6, 1913. Mr. F. Z. Bishop, Dear Sir—I wrote you recently, sending you data regarding the Robertson Insurance law, expressing the hope that you would find time to read it, but so far I have not heard from you. Instead, I notice an open letter in several of the newspapers of the state in which you urge the repeal of the Robertson law. Of course, there is room for a difference of opinion on most subjects, but I do not believe a citizen of Texas, with the interest of the state at heart, could write such a letter, unless he was seriously misled by outside influences, and I cannot help taking issue with you in some of the statements you make.

Purpose of Robertson Law.
You start by saying that the Robertson Insurance law is a measure enacted some years ago by the state legislature for the regulation of foreign insurance companies. This is not a fair statement, and it is likely to mislead the uninformed. The Robertson law was enacted some years ago for the purpose of keeping Texas money in Texas and for that purpose alone. It was passed in the effort to make foreign life insurance companies reinvest in Texas, approximately, one-half of the premiums which they collect in this state.

You refer in your letter to "those small companies from other states still doing business in Texas." I want to ask whether you consider a company with $100,000,000 of assets a small company? There are companies of this size doing business in Texas. There are sixty-two life insurance companies altogether doing business in this state and only thirty-four companies doing business in New York state. Did you know that?

You refer to loans by eastern life insurance companies in other states and cite an article by Mr. Cox in the effort to prove that because there is no Robertson law in Oklahoma the interest rate in that state has fallen during the same period in which it has risen in Texas. This statement shows such complete ignorance of the forces which govern the rate of interest in Texas that I am loath to believe you agree with Mr. Cox. Further, I have reason to believe that Mr. Cox's figures are based upon the net interest realized by the investing companies, and not upon the rate of interest actually paid by the borrower. It is not an uncommon thing for Texas life insurance companies to obtain thoroughly satisfactory loans in Oklahoma to net 8 per cent. This talk of cheap money in Texas, if the Robertson law is repealed, is, in my humble opinion, nonsense. Do you realize that approximately $200,000,000 of foreign capital is poured into this state every year? New money—not just money that has originated in Texas and is kept here, but new money from outside sources? I do not agree that because half of the money taken out of Texas by foreign life insurance companies during the last five years was not reinvested here as it should have been, the rate of interest has, therefore, increased in this state. But, if that is true, the enactment of the Robertson law is justified because for the future it prevents such a sad condition.

Quotes T. B. Love.
I enclose you herewith copy of an address by Mr. Thomas B. Love, who was commissioner of insurance and banking of the state of Texas at the time the Robertson law was passed, and I refer you particularly to pages eight and nine of the leaflet. Mr. Love states that the investments of the four giant companies in Oklahoma mortgages in 1911 were as follows: Equitable Life Insurance Society of New York, $267,000; New York Life Insurance company, apparently none; Metropolitan Life Insurance company, $40,000; Total, $307,000. This shows that the investments of these four great companies in Oklahoma during 1911 were $307,000, a very significant indication of the way in which these companies invest in a state which does not possess a law similar to the Robertson law.

Mr. Love goes further and shows that out of the twenty-one companies which withdrew from Texas because of the Robertson law, fifteen (including the companies named) are now doing business in Oklahoma, and that these fifteen companies invested in Oklahoma mortgages during 1911 only about $1,200,000, a fraction of the amount invested in Texas mortgages by the foreign life insurance companies now doing business in Texas during the same year.

Policy Holders Now Have Voice.
You admit that the monies handled by life insurance companies are trust funds—which in reality belong to the policy holders, and then you deny the right of these policy holders to have any voice in the matter of the investment of their own money.

Better Is the Home Where Orphans Are Cared For

New Administration in Methodist Institution on Her-ring Avenue Is Following Up-to-Date Methods of Sanitation.

Burdened with responsibility for the moral, health and proper training of 153 homeless children, prodded into activity by the demands of the laws of hygiene and humanity; without funds, but with an abiding faith that God will provide a way, Rev. R. A. Furroughs, manager, and Rev. J. H. McCall, assistant manager, of the Methodist Orphanage, have undertaken important work in connection with enlargement of the dormitories, sanitary handling of the milk, improvement in bathing and toilet rooms, improvement in the kitchen and installation of a large dining room just beneath the new dormitories.

The old, worn bath tubs and the old wooden floors in the toilet rooms for both the boys and the girls have gone by the board under the new management. Porcelain lined tubs having been put into service, an automatic flusher being used for the toilets, and concrete flooring having supplanted the old wooden floors.

A new range has been placed in the kitchen, and tables with sanitary metal tops are used. The food given the youngsters is handled with the utmost care.

In this connection, the present quarters utilized for the dairy department have been found inadequate and so situated that germs may easily be collected by the milk. Hence, it will be removed to new quarters, in a brick building back of the new store room, which is being built. This will be used for nothing except the milk, and will have a cement floor.

A matron at present is in charge of each of the dormitories, in the girls' building, which is also the administrative building, there being separate dormitories for the large girls and for the small ones. Miss Dixon has charge of the large girls and Miss Gaynor has charge of the smaller girls. Mrs. Beamer is in charge of the boys, while Miss Thompson has supervision of the dairy.

While the orphanage has some funds for carrying on the work, it has not enough to complete the improvements already begun, and which are considered, in the judgment of the managers, absolutely necessary at once. They hope to inaugurate other improvements within the near future, when friends of the institution can be made to see the necessity for them. They would have the orphanage a model rather than a laughing stock.

Six grades are now being taught, the same grades taught in the city schools. Those who have completed these grades are sent to the city schools, there being a number in the Brooke avenue school, some in the high school, one in a business college and two girls in Baylor university where they are completing their education.

Donations, in any amount from $5 upward, will be received at the home to be used for making the improvements already begun. This home is under the control of the Methodist conference. It is not an itinerant charity, and its appeal is one of such worthy nature that no doubt many will respond.

THINNEST MAN IN SENATE.

He is Thomas of Colorado—Heaviest Is Hoke Smith of Georgia.

Senator Bristow of Kansas has lost a distinction. No longer is he the thinnest looking man in the senate. That means a record is being made in the senate by Senator Thomas of Colorado, who has taken the laurels from Bristow.

Thomas looks really like a match. He is so thin and so tall, says the Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, that his appearance is striking. More accurately he might be compared to a telegraph pole. However, what Thomas lacks in pomposity of person he makes up in brilliance of intellect. It is said that as a wit the new senator already has taken front rank among the brethren and he has no mean reputation as a lawyer.

Probably Senator Thomas weighs as much as Senator Crane of Massachusetts, who confesses to only 120 pounds. Thomas looks thinner because there is two feet more of him.

Per contra, Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, is the heaviest weight of the senate but he has such great height that his weight does not make him conspicuous. He looks it at about 300 pounds, making more than two tons of Senator Crane.

It is rather noteworthy that the senate has lost many of its heavy-weight men. With men like Kittredge, Heyburn, Elkins and the like in the front row of the senate the chamber looked indeed ponderous, the assembly as thus introduced resembling closely rows of money bags, so unpopular before the people, although in most instances these men were not very affluent.

It might almost be inferred that great avoidpools is not popular before the voters. At all events the senate has become a body of middle-weight men and even of men less in weight. Today is, in the main, the heyday of the skinny and the bony.

The new year is just a little over a month old, but the legislatures of New York, Montana and South Dakota have already passed measures recommending woman's suffrage. So far, seven governors have given their support to the women's movement. In 1898, when Governor Roosevelt recommended woman's suffrage in his inaugural message to the New York legislature, it made a great commotion and he was bitterly denounced. This year, when Governor Sulzer recommended it, his action did not cause a ripple. The difference marks the change in public sentiment in fourteen years.

The Women of Texas

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

BRENNHAM IS WIDE AWAKE IN WOMAN'S CLUB EFFORT

One of the most wide awake club sessions reported for some time was that with Mrs. Hettie Curry, chairman of the state federation club extension committee at her home in Brenham. This was a gathering of the Brenham women to hear some discussions upon up to the moment topics. Mrs. Curry gave a talk upon the married rights of women for Texas. Mrs. John Key, another prominent woman in the state, discussed the homestead law. Following that, Mrs. C. B. Shephard followed in the line of home hygiene. The women present were greatly interested in all these subjects. The social feature pronounced as it was, was not sufficient to take all the interest from these vital questions.

Another incident in Brenham club life is the thorough municipal housecleaning which Brenham will have as soon as weather condition is favorable.

THE Y. W. C. A. OF TEXAS AROUSED OVER SITUATION

Pamphlets of the National Vigilance Association of London containing warnings against the wiles of the white slave emissaries, are being officially circulated among the girls at the London telephone exchange. Girls are warned:

"Never loiter or stand about alone in the street."

"When accosted by a stranger, walk as quickly as possible to the nearest policeman."

The meaning of all of this is that no woman is safe without an escort. Every woman cannot have an escort. The situation is nothing less than horrible. Indeed, not only does this condition affect the city but also penetrates to the rural communities as well. Recently a farmer brought his daughter to the headquarters of a county Young Women's Christian association of our own state requesting the county secretary to see that the Association Traveler's Aid of distant cities protect his daughter on her first trip from home—a trip to a distant school. He was greatly distressed to find that Waco had no such work, but felt comforted when told that the Traveler's Aid of the Young Women's Christian Association in the station at Houston would care for his daughter.

Though the city Young Women's Christian Association of Dallas, Texas, Fort Worth and San Antonio provide Traveler's Aid workers in the city railway stations the state executive committee of the Young Women's Christian Association (with headquarters at Austin) realizes that there is only a tiny fraction of the protective work for young women imperatively needed over this great state. The committee, a year ago, therefore, consented for Miss Mabel K. Stafford, the efficient state executive secretary, to present the demands of this alarming situation to the state convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and to the Mothers' Congress of Texas, seeking their cooperation in undertaking larger plans of work. As a result, a joint committee was formed, composed of an official representative of five state women's organizations. This committee was empowered to execute plans, though all work was to be supervised by the state executive committee of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The committee was as follows: Mrs. J. D. Sayers, chairman, state committee of Young Women's Christian Association of Texas. Mrs. B. B. Chisum, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. William Morris, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. L. P. Lacy, Congress of Mothers. Mrs. William Abadie, State Federation of Women's Clubs. The initial work of the committee was correspondence with the railroads of Texas. With one or two exceptions permission was granted to place a poster of warning in all stations along the line. The poster is now being sent out to railway stations all over Texas, through the assistance of the local organizations of the women's movements represented by the committee.

Attention to Young Women Traveling Alone: On arriving at railway stations at any of the following cities: Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, inquire for Traveler's Aid worker service free to anyone wishing it. These cities have young Women's Christian Associations where all women are welcome at all times. They provide Employment Bureaus, boarding homes, lunch rooms, social parlors, and rest rooms.

Do not accept offers of work either by persons or by advertisement without first asking information, by writing or phoning to the Young Women's Christian Association in any of the cities here named.

Do not start to a strange city or town without safe place to stay. Do not leave home without money for an emergency and sufficient for a return ticket. Do not ask for, or take information or directions except from officials and Traveler's Aid workers.

Such are the grave needs, such is the unprecedented opportunity—no woman loyal to her sex, loyal to herself, loyal to her God, will turn away and pass by on the other side.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL HAS CLUB DEPARTMENT

With the February issue, the Ladies Home Journal opens its general federation department. This department has the hundreds of thousand club women to this means of attaining the latest and the most salutary news from the national club activities. The Morning News has received notice from Mrs. Pennybacker that much of this news will be furnished this department. The editor for the general federation is Miss Mary I. Wood of New Hampshire the club woman who has superintended the General Federation Information bureau so creditably for several years. The enormous circulation of the Home Journal will make this club feature of great benefit to the women as individuals, and this more general dissemination will strengthen the club movement in every part of the United States.

MRS. J. B. DIBRELL PREPARING FOR ART ASSOCIATION

Already active preparation is begun for the annual meeting of the state art association in Austin. As is known this means a meeting of the members of the association for business as well as an opening of the Elizabeth Ney studio to the public, especially the students of the State University, and a spring exhibition of pictures. Mrs. Dibrell who made this museum possible by her purchase and donation to the state is now having the building cleaned and otherwise made ready. However, it is the intention of the association that the studio proper shall be just as Elizabeth Ney arranged and left it. Mrs. Sherwood of Chicago will attend the annual meeting this year. The membership in the State Fine Arts association is now large, and many out of the state are encouraging Texas art by joining. Many of the prominent club women in Texas, and some men, are on the roster. The Austin people, both men and women, have generously responded.

MINERAL WELLS CLUBS DO GOOD THINGS

There is a tree planting epidemic which is well, for Mineral Wells is under the gaze of an intense sun during the hot months. The civic league is furnishing the trees free to those who will plant and care for them.

The History club is working for the rural free library. A coin tea has just been poured for this purpose. This argues well for interest in this cause. The first topic for the Current Event club, not yet one month old, was the High Cost of Living.

How many of the Texas women are reading carefully the reports from Austin. These are very necessary to an intelligent procedure as a club woman.

There is a wee daughter in the home of Mrs. Cecil Smith, Sherman.

Owing to the death of Colonel Holt, the withdrawal of Mrs. Holt from public and social affairs in Houston will be noted generally. While not a prominent club woman, Mrs. Holt as hostess for the Texas building at the World's Fair, and in other public measures, is a power.

Mrs. Hugh Montgomery Coleman, wife of Mrs. Hertzberg's first appointee as chairman of the waterways and forest conservation, is now a resident of New Mexico.

Miss Mamie Gearing, formerly of Houston, but now in the Domestic Economy department of the state university, is pictured in the February number of Good Housekeeping and mentioned as associate editor for this month. Preferment to a Texas woman is always noted with keen interest.

In Great Britain, the suffragists are holding more than a thousand meetings a month.

There is some talk of a suffrage society organizing in Waco.

Have the women of Texas noted the intimation that the chain system of transporting prisoners is under discussion which may lead to the abolition of the custom? Is it not too degrading, even for a prisoner to be chained by the neck? We have always thought so. Why not some club take up the matter, see that every other club writes a letter to Superintendent Ben Cabell requesting that this more humane innovation come with this prison reform administration.

The club out at Midland is just taking up Kate Friend's course on Othello with manifest interest.

The Current Event club of Mineral Wells is just one month old, and already an applicant for state federation. Mrs. E. E. Bramlette, state chairman of education, has been invited to read a paper before the Southern Education Conference in Chattanooga. Whatever Mrs. Bramlette does, she does well, and it is to be hoped that she will represent the Texas women in this important assembly.

The club women should watch closely for the farm college train, give it cordial reception and interest the community sufficient to have its purpose fulfilled. In Dakota a similar train is out with a college band, a cadet guard, and the girls to give cooking demonstrations. The train is arousing a great deal of interest. The Texas train should do the same.

Mrs. G. R. Scott is indefatigable in her club work. She is now president of the city federation for Corpus Christi. Miss Helen Knox, whose work for the Young Women's Christian Association in Texas was so forceful, has been compelled to cease traveling owing to the failing health of her mother in Giddings. Miss Knox, however, is doing all she can by means of correspondence.

In sending in our reports from club session, suppose we do not refer to the "delicious sandwiches" offered. This when in cold print belittles the purpose of the club which meets for serious study or deliberations upon some vital civic question. The outside world cares little whether we eat the sandwich or not. It is rather awaiting a message telling what we do and how we do it something to improve ourselves or conditions.

The club down at the little town of Mission was timely in its discussion of the parcel post as soon as this was inaugurated. Other clubs should follow, since it goes without saying that the Mission club women are now more intelligent patrons of this new postal system.

The Marlin Musical club is following a series of open lectures for February. This is in anticipation of the grand opera season in Dallas, when many of the Marlin women will attend. Other musical clubs should emulate this example set by the Marlin women.

A Texas woman is to be grand marshal of the suffrage parade in Washington. She is Mrs. Richard Coke Burleson, wife of an army officer, and formerly Miss Walker of Galveston. She is reported the most ardent suffragist in the Washington City roster.

Miss Clyde Chandler, the young Texas artist in whom all the state club women felt such pride, is now in Dallas. She will model the Sidney Smith memorial fountain for the exposition grounds in Dallas. Social attention is being shown Miss Chandler.

THE ALTRUIAN CLUB YEAR BOOK FROM SNYDER

Among the first year books sent for review is the attractive one with the name of the Altruian club of Snyder. As is listed, this club is a member of the First district, and is now four years old. The same year it was federated which shows the spirit of reaching out among its members. This is not a large club having only twenty-five on its active list and four associates. The activities are three fold, philanthropic, literary and civic. The study of the Bible and Shakespeare make the study feature for the current year. The motto, if borne in mind, is certainly a stimulant, "He can who thinks he can." Music, a reading or some lighter feature, closes each session. This is well worth while, as it relaxes and at the same time fosters whatever talent the club members may have. Each afternoon is in charge of a leader. Maps are freely used with the Bible study. There is no summer adjournment. Several of the clubs in the high altitude of West Texas pursue this plan. They meet bi-weekly and continue through the usual club vacation. This gives opportunity to the Altruian for the real Fourth of July program. Needless to say this is patriotic.

The Shakspeare study takes the two plays of As You Like It and Macbeth. This fills the latter half of the year. In all, the Altruists have a year of pleasant literary pursuit, and the indication is that much by way of philanthropic and civic endeavor will be placed to its credit when the audit is made at the close of the twelfth month.

MINUTES ARE PUBLISHED FOR STATE FEDERATION

It is to be recalled that the administration passed the rule that the state federation year book should be published only once in two years, that is, a new year book with each administration. In the meantime it was decided that the minutes of the mid year meeting be published and placed in the hands of the working force of the federation. Mrs. Cunningham, as recording secretary, was entrusted with this work, and her efforts are just completed. With the Friday post, a published copy of her minutes was received throughout the official family. Aside from the actual minutes it is important that every club president has these in order that the resolutions passed in Fort Worth can be at hand and the clubs instructed as to just what their delegates committed them.

THE WOMEN ARE ACTIVE OUT AT VALLEY MILLS

Mrs. John Pool, one of the prime movers in woman's activity for Valley Mills, writes that the weather conditions have kept the civic club in abeyance, yet there is determination to do something worth while with the spring months.

In the meantime a Mother's Literary club has been organized. Evidently this is composed of the mothers who combine the school and the literary study features. This club is already looking towards state federation. The study begins with the early American literature, and the one feature in each program is current topics. The idea of combining the mothers and the literary features is a good one, for instances are not infrequent where it has proved too much to keep two clubs in existence in the small town where there is sufficient membership for only one good strong organization. The program for the next meeting is quite practical. This is: Subject, "Amusement for Children."

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS DISCUSSES THINGS WHICH WILL BE POPULAR IN SPRING.

Dresses With Plain Tunic—Crepe de Chine Promises to Return—Poplin is in Favor.

By Florence Fairbanks.

New York, Feb. 15.—One of the most popular new materials last autumn was velour de laine, a soft, silky woolen tissue. Later in the season it was displaced by the new satins and silks, but it is now predicted that velour de laine, as well as drap de laine, will be extremely popular during the coming spring. Both materials are amenable to draping and both are becoming because of their soft surface. All colors look well in these materials; and those in Bordeaux and yellow are especially attractive. The popularity of these yellows is really astonishing. Every piece of stuff seems a shade different. All are seductive save the sulphur and in satin, and worn by a black haired woman, even this is not without virtue.

Clifton is a shade that will go into early spring, also suede. Such tones as chalk, putty and oyster have been modish a long time, but they may be continued through another season, since the fashion dealers appear to have exhausted the whole range of colors. Black was their refuge three years ago, but now with the black are colors, and without doubt the dyes are in despair. But they have never been found wanting and probably shades to be shown next month will differ only slightly from those we have been seeing.

The latest styles show dresses with a plain tunic in front and a draped back, or vice versa. The draping is flat and does not look at all out of place in front. Just so it cuts the figure bias, or straight up and down, that is all that is necessary. It is predicted that all the dressy afternoon costumes of satin or silk for spring wear would have the little train like that of the evening dress this winter. The idea is pretty and extremely graceful, but it is impractical in a frock if one thinks of wearing it on the street.

Crepe de Chine to Return.
Fashion experts say that crepe de chine, after a long absence will return to favor during the coming season. The material is soft and clinging, qualities so eminently suited to the modes of the moment, that it is a wonder the designers of fashions have not called it into service long before this. Taffeta will not be fashionable, although they show some wonderful effects in colors. But the material does not drape prettily, and even the most supple quality has a way of standing out from the figure which interferes with the silhouette.

A new brown yellow, that is beautiful in any material, is that of Oriental tobacco, a rich, brilliant dye that arrived during the winter. It is, of course much lighter than Havana brown, yet has the same general tone. The color is nothing more than a soft, deep, gold, something like old fashioned tan, yet with more yellow. The Oriental tobacco is superb in velvet, also in satin and crepe de chine. It does not go well with other combinations of colors, however.

The very simple effect of blouses and corsets will be modified during the coming spring season and embroidery will be used, not much, but enough to make a change and have things look new. The Grecian effect will be repeated both in afternoon and evening gowns which means that drapery will be used as much as ever.

Where draping is not employed, tiny knife pleats will run straight up and down in the center of the back and front. Sometimes even with these pleats, drapery will fall to at least one side. Corseted as the fashionable woman is, the designer may now loop goods on her form to his heart's content, and this he surely will continue to do.

Poplin to Find Favor.

Poplin in silk, in wool, in cotton—any kind of poplin, in fact, promises to be much used. There are plain poplins and moire poplins and brocaded poplins, and one often finds at least two of these varieties combined in the same costume. Other material to be in demand for elaborate street or afternoon semi-tailored costumes are silk whipcord, heavy bengaline and the still heavier "soie regence." In all of these there is a conspicuous use of buttons, of which there is an avalanche this season, showing the greatest variety and originality. Among the wool materials, appropriate for the simpler tailored suit, the real costume trottier there are serges, Bedford cords, new weaves of whipcords, poplins, raines, drap de laine and some other less exploited varieties from which to choose.

An over blouse affords a clever way of introducing the skirt material in the blouse to a coat suit. Often the material is too heavy to be used for the entire waist, but if the over blouse is developed in the cloth and the under-vest of sheer chiffon or silk voile gives a dainty and light effect.

Often the underwaist is of sheer baste or white net, which can be lathered when soiled and sometimes the over blouse is not attached to the skirt, so that it can be worn on black, chilly days, when such an addition is a decided comfort. The little square shoulder yoke often appears in black as well as in front.

Ribbons will play an important part in the new millinery in the shape of crown bands, streamers, chip loops, bows, ear loops and quill effects in satin, faille, moire and taffeta weaves. Rose, stem and foliage, are seen made of plect edges moire ribbon in the exact shade of the skin of a Bermuda onion. Large pompons are formed of a compact mass of ribbon loops and finished with a jetted stem. These are placed either in the center front or at the side of a draped turban or other small hat, or else poised over the brim edge of a large hat.

Large Sprawling Bows.

Large, sprawling bows are either spread across the back of a hat crown, or are disposed in erect fan effect. Long wired ribbon loops drape from a tight ribbon knot, a conical base of flowers or other ornament, and extend from the side far beyond the back of a hat brim. When velvet ribbon is used, the raised pattern is frequently cut out and applied flatly to satin, taffeta or heavy crepes. Floral designs in ribbons are rich and dainty in color, or gray bright blue, bottle green, yellow and certain beads which are put on in a big stiff design suggesting sprays of flowers. This use of bright beads gives the touch of color which is wanted to make a dull gown look right.

New parasols for southern use show turned-back edges, suggestive of the turned-back brim of a hat, which are faced with a pinked silk ruching the color of the parasol.

The angle of the feather is now very important; it makes for chicness or an unflattering effect.

Manitoba's Premier is 60.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 15.—Receiving congratulations from friends throughout the province, and also from other parts of the dominion, Sir Rodmond P. Roblin, premier of Manitoba for the past twelve years, observed his sixtieth birthday anniversary today.

Premier Roblin is an Ontario man by birth, though he may fairly claim to be one of the pioneers of the great west. Foreseeing the great development which must take place in Western Canada, when a trans-continental railway was built, he settled in Dufferin, Manitoba, in early life, and became associated with the grain trade, eventually establishing a business in Winnipeg.

After two unsuccessful attempts he was elected to the provincial legislature in 1888. At first he was identified with the liberal party, but, becoming dissatisfied, took the other side. When the Greenway government was defeated in 1892 Mr. Roblin was given a place in Hugh J. Macdonald's cabinet, and succeeded to the leadership of the party on Mr. Macdonald's retirement the next year. In 1900 he became premier.

Since taking office Premier Roblin has had some hard problems to solve. The transportation question was one of the first with which he had to wrestle. Again, for years past he attracted the attention of all Canada by his fight for the extension of Manitoba's boundaries, from which long campaign he emerged victorious about a year ago. The premier was a most determined opponent of reciprocity with the United States and delivered a series of trenchant speeches against it in the last federal campaign.

MARRIED WOMEN PROPERTY RIGHTS

SENATOR VAUGHAN EXPLAINS THE PURPOSE OF THE VARIOUS MEASURES.

JOKER IN SOME PROPOSALS

Would Require Wives to Go Into Court to Contest Their Rights for Property.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 15.—Senator Vaughan gave out the following statement today, relative to pending legislation affecting the property rights of married women:

"At the risk of being tedious, I wish to explain just a little more fully pending proposed legislation on the property rights of married women. For I find that, owing to a misunderstanding of the various bills now pending, many persons claiming to favor giving to married women the control of their own property, are advocating the passage of bills for directly the opposite effect."

"Judge Celia Speer of Fort Worth, at the request of the representatives of the federations having this legislation at heart, prepared a bill which, after careful consideration was endorsed by the bar association of the state and by various local bar associations and by various labor unions and other organizations. I suppose Judge Speer was selected to draft the bill on account of the fact that he is the author of a book on the Property Rights of Married Women and the laws of Texas, which is recognized as standard authority. The bill as prepared by Judge Speer was introduced in the house by Mr. Goodner and many others and is House Bill No. 22. It was introduced in the senate by myself and is Senate Bill No. 15. Briefly stated, the only change it makes in the present law is in giving the wife control over her separate property and over the income therefrom and over her personal earnings. It does not affect the status or character of the property itself, leaves separate property that which was so before and leaves community property that which was so before. The income from the wife's separate property is community property, so also are her personal earnings. The law now gives control over the husband and it also gives him control over the separate property of the wife. The bill prepared by Judge Speer would simply give to the wife the control of her separate property and control over the income therefrom, and over her personal earnings, though such income and personal earnings are community property."

"The friends of this legislation, in an earnest desire to secure the best relief possible, agreed to accept an amendment which was embodied in the substitute bill which has been passed by the house, which changes the original bill substantially only in that it provides that the written consent of the husband shall be necessary to a conveyance, encumbrance or lease by the wife of her lands; and also provides, that if the husband refuses to give his consent, the wife may apply to the district court of the county of her residence and the court shall, upon satisfactory proof that such conveyance, encumbrance or lease would be advantageous to the wife, make an order granting her permission to convey, encumber or lease without the consent of the husband."

The Darwin Bill.

Senate Bill No. 35, introduced by Senator Darwin, differs from Senate Bill No. 15, as prepared by Judge Speer, in that No. 35 not only gives to the wife the control over her separate property, both real and personal, but changes the income from her separate property to her personal earnings from community property into separate property. Under this bill the only property that could be community would be the income from the separate property of the husband and his personal earnings. It appears to us that if the income from the separate property of the husband and his personal earnings should be community, so also should the income from the wife's separate property and her personal earnings. If he is permitted to control his separate property and the income therefrom and his personal earnings, the wife should be permitted to control her separate property and the income therefrom and her personal earnings. The Speer bill, Senate Bill No. 15, does absolute equity between the husband and the wife in this respect and Senate Bill No. 35 does not.

Willacy-Astin Bill.

Senate Bill No. 85, introduced by Senators Astin and Willacy, differ from Senate Bill No. 15, the Speer bill, in that it changes the status of the property and the control of it; it makes the income, etc., from the separate property of the wife, separate property free from the control of the husband, but it does not change the personal earnings of the wife and these would remain community and under the control of the husband.

"Senate Bill No. 100, introduced by Senator Morrow, et al., does not change the status of the property, but it does change it and it provides that 'during the marriage the husband shall have the sole management of the property of the wife,' it limits the husband's power of management and proceeds to provide a way whereby the wife may go into court and by showing that the husband is failing to support her suitably, or is disabling the community property, or is incompetent to management, etc., etc., (a great number of conditions being prescribed) after a trial have such part of the community property, 'not exceeding the value of the property,' be sold to her as the court may direct, which she may thereafter manage, etc., etc. Said bill also provides a way whereby the wife may sue for permission to sell her separate lands."

A Committee Bill.

A majority of the senate judiciary committee has reported a substitute bill which elaborates the scheme of bill No. 100, and would make it necessary for the wife, in order to obtain that control which the law should give to her, to employ lawyers and go through the tedious process of a law suit under our pernicious system and practice, under which the laws delay is as odious as it is proverbial. God save the women of Texas from legislation requiring them to sue their husbands in order to obtain that control which their own which the law should give them.

Prizes for Farmers.

Farmers from 157 counties entered the $10,000 crop contest of the Texas Industrial Congress during January, and each day's mail brings to the office at Dallas an average of a hundred entries. This number will no doubt increase rapidly until April 1, after which date no applications will be accepted. At present Jack county leads with 137 entries in the contest. Wise county is a close second, and Fayette county third.

As the prizes offered are substantial cash sums and free to those who secure the largest yields, cost of production considered, of certain specific crops, farmers everywhere are urged to write at once to the congress at Dallas for particulars and application blanks. Boys and girls who join the Texas Corn and Cotton Clubs conducted by the congress will receive a handsome metal stick-pin as a membership badge.

THE CALL OF ABRAM

Today's International Sunday School Lesson.

BY W. L. ROBERTSON, Beaumont, Texas.

The lesson selected is the first nine verses of the twelfth chapter of Genesis. To connect back with the lesson of last Sunday read the tenth and eleventh chapters.

We left Noah, the preacher of righteousness, with his family, standing before an altar which he had erected, and gazing up to the clouds at the resplendent glory of the rainbow. The floods of great waters being dried up, the living things came forth immediately began to multiply. The race of mankind, with an experience of hundreds of years behind it, makes a new beginning with eight souls, four married men and their wives.

The tenth chapter of Genesis "is the most ancient ethnological document that has come down to us—a document of inestimable value, whether viewed from a geographical, a political, or a theocratic standpoint. It is sustained by the historic investigations of all subsequent times. So says the American Commentary. It was necessary thus to show that all the human race are of one blood in the flesh, else there might be some doubt as to the one Saviour being sufficient to furnish a salvation that would give a resurrection for all humanity. One of the evidences of the authenticity of the book of Genesis is the fact that all science is in complete agreement with the classifications here made hundreds of years in advance of the beginnings of scientific research.

The eleventh chapter begins with an account of the Confusion of Tongues. The whole earth had been of one lip and of one kind of words. As the race multiplied men realized that the destruction of the whole earth of mankind had been possible because of the scattered condition of the earlier human race, and that Noah's family were saved because they remained together in the ark. That the earth might not again be separated into communities, the sons of Shem, Ham and Japheth began to build a great city and a great tower for a common center for their activities. God's command to them was that they multiply in the earth. This command did not suit the Lord's plan, so the people were scattered; their tongues became so confused that they no longer enjoyed the society of one another, they could no longer cooperate in their work. The chapter closes with a genealogical tree to the time of Abram.

It is ten generations from Noah to Abram, and more than four hundred years from the flood to the Call of Abram. Terah, the father of Abram, was seventy years of age and to him there were born three sons. After the birth of his sons he lived one hundred and thirty-five years. As Abram was but seventy-five years of age after the death of his father, he must have been a younger son, born when Terah was one hundred and thirty years of age. The first call came to Abram while he was in Ur of the Chaldees, at his birth place. The aged parents of Abram went with him as did others of his kindred and acquaintances on the long journey from Ur to Haran. It seems that Abram remained there for five years, and his father died at that place.

Now, again, comes the call, "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto the land that I will show thee; and I will make thee of a great nation; and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing, and I will bless them that bless thee, and him that curseth thee will I curse; and in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." This is not a loving fancy, but a call of the Almighty. Abram did not even have an intimation as to what his destination was to be. He that would serve God must never make the material welfare of his country the first thing in his life. "For God's cause men must forsake kindred and parents, and go according to Divine directions. Many men grovel all their lives in the dirt and are non-progressive, because they refuse to look up to the skies and to follow the leadership of the Holy Spirit.

It is a wise lawmaker that remembers that all the wisdom of man is not for a moment to be compared to the wisdom of God. If He shall make us a great nation then is there permanency in our development. For Abram's obedience, the Lord promised happiness, a condition of happiness; a blessing and a great name. Verily, this has been richly fulfilled. Many nations delight to claim descent from Abram. The Jews are but one race of his descendants.

The duty, to be a blessing, enjoined upon the father of the faithful, is the supreme duty and privilege of every man and woman of the faith of Abram. The greatest blessing prayer is: "O Lord, bless us that we may be a blessing to all others." No man's blessings belong to himself alone. Legal anarchism is a misnomer, but socialism of the heart is a practical law of life. Many centuries later Jehovah spoke through the prophet Zechariah, saying: "And it shall come to pass that as ye were a curse among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so will I save you, and ye shall be a blessing."—Zech. VIII:13.

To this very day the nations that treat the Jews well are prosperous nations, while a curse seems to rest upon them that curse the Jews. It has been so throughout the history of the world. But the promise and the warning had spiritual import also. The Jews as a nation reject their own blessing and give their Saviour to the Gentile and He becomes a blessing to all that accept him. Without the Christ there would be no resurrection from the dead, no spiritual religion, no hope of a hereafter. In the seed of Abram is all the earth blessed.

"By faith Abram, when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither he went."—Hebrews XI:8. He that has faith shows his faith by his obedience. He that believes, accepts, Abram's nephew, Lot, went with him. His wife, Sarai, and many proselytes which he had gotten in his five years stay in Haran, also accompanied him on his great journey. They started for and came unto the land of Canaan. Here they came to the place where the great central city, Sodom, was afterwards built, and there they stopped at the tree or trees of Moreh.

The Canaanites were inhabitants of this land but nevertheless Jehovah appeared unto Abram and assured him that this was the land of promise, which was to be inhabited by his descendants. This is the first recorded appearance of Jehovah. Hitherto men had but heard His voice, now He appears in some visible form, a token to His servant, Abram, of the surety of His promise. You will notice that Abram had no command to stay there as the promise was to his seed. He showed his faith, however, by erecting on that spot an altar to Jehovah, who appeared unto him. If with every blessing, and with every promise of a blessing in life, we would erect an altar for the worship of Jehovah-Elohim, would not our hearts abide more firmly in the faith?

Not being ready and not being commanded to give battle to the Canaanites, Abram moved his tents to the mountains east of Bethel, and there he built another altar unto the Lord and here he called upon the name of Jehovah. "Whoso calleth on the name of the Lord shall be saved," says Paul in Roman X:13. Doubtless following the Divine directions in response to his call, Abram went onward toward the south; into the southern part of Judea.

Here are three great lessons: 1. Let us walk by faith out into the great unknown; 2. enjoy the blessings of God to the very fullest extent, for we may; 3. if we would continue in the enjoyment of these blessings, we must pass these blessings on to others.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

Meeting To Be Held Today To Discuss State Convention. A meeting of all Sunday school workers and all those interested in this work, will be held in the Central Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Joel Kincannon presiding, at which time the matter of the coming of the state Sunday school convention to Waco will be discussed.

The convention has practically asked Waco to invite it to meet here. It means the bringing of some 1500 to 2,000 delegates to the city, and they ask absolutely nothing in the way of entertainment. The churches here, it is stated, have shown remarkable indifference to the matter and it is for that reason that the meeting is being called for this afternoon. The convention is scheduled to meet in March.

The convention program will be enlivened by several noted speakers among whom are Dr. Howard B. Gross of Boston, who has been connected with the endeavor movement from its beginning, having organized the New York state union; Senator Morris Sheppard, who will deliver his address on "Christian Citizenship," and Mr. Karl Lehmann, field secretary of the United States of Christian Endeavor. Mr. Lehmann has recently completed a tour of the province of Ontario, Canada, and is now at work in the state of Massachusetts. He will come to Texas the first of June and make speeches in a number of the cities of the state, completing his Texas work during the Dallas convention.

It is to be hoped that Texas Endeavorers will take advantage of the liberal offer made by the Dallas C. E. Union and not miss the opportunity of hearing and meeting these noted workers in Christian endeavor.

International Catholic Truth Society

The church-year has its seasons, just as the year of the world has its. Another liturgical year is well along its course—on the first Sunday of Advent we were ushered across its threshold, and now are within one of its inner chambers. That of the solemn season of Lent. Once more the Church Catholic is engaged in commemorating by forty days of mortification her Master's forty days of fasting in the desert. Once more the sons of the Church Catholic are showing to the church their loyalty by prompt obedience to her precept. Of late years the Catholic church has been given a peculiar homage from unexpected sources, because of her discipline of the flesh. Not a few eminent physicians have called her the "friend of the body" because her discipline of self-mortification, instead of being harmful, is most helpful to the body.

We may add to this still further homage, the great majority of non-Catholic churches have acknowledged that she is the "friend of the soul" by the fact of the emulation of her practices. There was a time, not so remote, when the Catholic church was the only one that enjoined self mortification in general, and set apart particular days and seasons for the special practice of mortification of the flesh. The Catholic church is no longer alone in her discipline of the flesh—on all sides she perceives that other bodies are adopting her discipline, she sees that fast days, Lent and Advent are receiving respect in the place of the former ridicule; she sees, even, that in some places her children might be edified by the earnestness of "those outside," and she sees all this with pleasure and gratitude for in it all is a sign of hope.

The practice of abstaining from meat on Friday, in memory of the death of Christ, is most probably of apostolic origin. Devotion in honor of Christ crucified were first practiced in the church. The apostles commanded the paschal fast for the last days of Lent, and the observance of our Lord's forty days' fast in the desert, and of abstention from meat on all Fridays, are generally admitted to be of apostolic antiquity. As early as the second century, there was a custom of prolonging the abstinence of Friday to Saturday, recognized as obligatory.

A Grand Old College. Maynooth, the national ecclesiastical seminary of Ireland, is now by act of parliament an affiliated college of the National University. Speaking of Maynooth, Macaulay said that "its office was to form the character of those who were to form the character of millions." Maynooth was established by the Irish parliament in 1795, in great part owing to the advocacy of Edmund Burke and Henry Grattan, and with the cooperation of the Duke of Lancaster, between whose family and the college friendly relations have been maintained to this day.

Death of Brother Dutton. The recent severe death of Brother Dutton, or Capt. Ira Barnes Dutton, as he was known before commencing his labors amongst the lepers of Molokai, reminds us that Feb. 13 was the twenty-fourth anniversary of the death of that other great martyr to duty, the beloved Father Damien, Brother Dutton, who succeeded Father Damien, was a veteran of the civil war. Enlisting as a member of the Janesville City, VI, Zouave cadets, he rose to the rank of captain. After the war he entered the service of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, subsequently staying with the Dominican Fathers at Memphis, after his conversion to Catholicism. He was in a Trappist monastery when the story of Father Damien's heroic work at Molokai reached him and he volunteered his services. When Father Damien died in 1889, Brother Dutton succeeded him. But for the accident which took Robert Louis Stevenson to the South Seas, the story of Father Damien's life would have reached a much smaller circle of readers. Father Damien has been grossly slandered. With characteristic generosity, Stevenson rushed to the priest's defence, and the open letter in which Stevenson attacked his detractors contains the most bitter invective the novelist ever penned. The heroism of Father Damien thus became known to all the world. Father Damien's life, his entry into religion, his work in the Sandwich Islands, his generous offer and departure for Molokai, his heroic endurance, his herculean labors, his high principles towering supremely above those of the officials around him, his firmness of character that would never bend to their lower standard, his success, his ultimately catching the terrible sickness, his heroic cheerfulness as he faced his doom, his noble death—all serve to tell us that the ages of faith and martyrdom have not entirely passed away. Like most men and women of real sanctity, Father Damien enjoyed an innocent joke. When he was at the point of death he was implored to leave, like Elias, his mantle behind him. He playfully answered, "What is the use? It is full of

"Chips and Whetstones"

(BY D. E. HIRSHFIELD.)

Past weather conditions have not encouraged activity in realty, nor in our "brick and mortar" educational campaign. People in their feelings, will be more or less governed by weather conditions. As a matter of fact, such weather as we have recently experienced in Texas form a financial or prosperity outlook if we will just look ahead, is one of the most optimistic indexes, as a guide to better conditions. The ground (from which nearly all financial blessings spring) is in most promising condition to produce a bounteous crop the current year. Rarely has Texas looked so promising as now at this particular time of year, therefore, the discerning real estate investor should take "time by the forelock" and reap the harvest.

For the benefit of investors or home buyers, or parties looking for business locations, the Hirschfield Real Estate Agency would call attention to opportunities through that agency at this time. There are many splendid investment opportunities to be found in the office of this agency and there are no stairs to climb to get into their office. Simply take the elevator at the Amicable building and ask the obliging elevator young man to put you off on the "fifteenth floor." As you step off of the elevator, just keep to the right and you'll go right.

This agency has a large piece of ground just off from Austin street a little more than one block, which runs from street to street. The improvements on this ground and that soon to be constructed will cost $25,000 and the income assured is $2,500 annually. This property should enhance materially with Waco's growth.

leprosy." He died on Feb. 15, 1889. "At the news," writes Miss Mary Quinlan in her life of Father Damien, "a sudden hush fell on the lazaretto; a pall of sorrow seemed to cover the little island of Molokai. Damien is dead! The leper's death is no more. Like an awe-stricken whisper, the news came to Honolulu, and from there was flashed across the seas. In every European and American capital the street posters proclaimed it; newspapers vied with another in offering tribute to the dead, while a thrill of horror mingled with admiration ran through the listening world. For some time past Damien of Molokai had been regarded as a public idol; and now the great heart was still, and this man who had done great deeds among his fellow men, was at last called to his reward, while his plague-stricken body was let down into a leper's grave. Under the pandanus tree he sleeps, deep down in the yellow sand. It is the same pandanus which gave him shelter during those first months of his exile, that now keeps watch until such time as the graves are opened and the sea gives up its dead. Brother Dutton's death removes the last survivor of the pioneer leper nurses of Molokai and as American nurses should honor the memory of this man who as a boy answered Lincoln's call, and who, in his old age met the leper's death with Christian fortitude.

Moving Picture Machine.
The moving picture machine has at last reached the far off island of Papua in the South Pacific ocean. A poor missionary, Brother Felix of the Sacred Heart missions in Papua wanted a "movie" for the natives, and genius Austrians recently purchased an up to date machine and films for him. Many of the Fathers, Brothers and Sisters over there have not had a glimpse of civilization for from 20 to 30 years; they had few relaxations, and neither Felix was overflowing with the thought of the joy he could furnish, and the delight of these devoted missionaries and the white settlers to say nothing of the natives, in having all the most interesting Catholic events of the world brought before them in the Uganda Protectorate. They say that with his new machine Brother Felix is the happiest man in Papua.

The Sleeping Sickness.
Though the thermometer registers thirty-five degrees above zero outside his window, your correspondent has just received and has had the pleasure of reading a letter from a missionary priest in Uganda, Africa, where it is safe to say that ice skating is not among the accomplishments of the natives. Our missionary correspondent's territory embraces a section of Uganda often visited by the terrible scourge known as the sleeping sickness. He states that the sleeping sickness is an epidemic which runs its deadly course and dies out gradually. The last great epidemic occurred about fifty years ago. After many thousands in the Congo and in the Uganda Protectorate had died of the disease, the sick were gathered into camps in charge of medical men. At the same time the number of victims gradually diminished, and the disease became confined almost exclusively to the borders and the islands of the Victoria

Desides the investment just noted, we have those pretty lots on the north Eighteenth street park and that on Nineteenth and Bledsoe Avenue, in the old T. C. U. district, 100 x 165 south-west corner reserved for pretty home sites. We can recommend that beautiful high class home on the corner of Nineteenth and Sanger, a credit to any city, that splendidly located Washington street home with seven rooms and various other homes, listed with us.

This agency especially calls attention to the green house with home and eight lots just over the line of the city limits with Mary, Franklin and Twenty-fourth street fronts. For a fine large piece of trackage, for factory plant, wholesale concern, or for speculation, our tract on the M. K. & T. Thirtieth and Webster streets, ought to be attractive.

The Dallas-Waco interurban is rapidly approaching completion. When fully finished and the cars are running, in and out of Waco, the business institutions of this city will soon note much improvement. The very atmosphere will bring about a feeling of the metropolitan city. Nothing is so stimulating to a city as these things, traversing the streets and the highways and the byways of a city. Note Los Angeles, Indianapolis, Dallas, Fort Worth and even the smaller towns and the countryside. The whistle of the cars stimulates and awakens one. All hail to the interurban; the maker of communities and the upbuilders of a country. We are truly building her a great city and to be a beautiful city.

If there is anything in real estate, matters that are of importance, in that tall and lofty Amicable building, Waco, Texas.

Nyansa. From the scientific point of view, camps have not produced much practical result, but they have suffered nevertheless, benefited bodily and spiritually. They not only received proper medical attention, but clothing and food were provided and their sufferings. In Uganda, three camps were erected; one at Busoga, one at Buwamupe in the Victoria Nile, one at Kyeume, near Namiliyango. The first was closed a few years ago. In 1906 about 1,000 patients were taken by the Uganda father and his catechists. In Bugumene splendid work was done by the White Fathers. Not only were hundreds of patients baptized for the most part, but they were instructed in the faith, and became good and fervent Catholics. Most of the patients were only too eager to be received, and continually implored the priest to baptize them. When the visitor enters the sleeping sickness camp there is nothing to suggest that it is the abode of the diseased and the dying. The greater part of it is like a typical African village, where each man builds his own little hut of reeds and grass, and surrounds it with his banian trees, and potato and maize fields. The visitor sees the patients at work like ordinary people; some cultivating, others carrying water or firewood, weaving mats or beating their bark clothes. A fine road lined with cape lilacs leads into the heart of the camp, and there one sees the evidence of what it really is—the doctor's house, the dispensary, the hospital, and the houses for the dying. As soon as a patient becomes unable to do his work he is transferred to the hospital, a long building containing native beds arranged on both sides. There he remains until he gets into a dying condition, when he is removed to one of the dying-houses, of which there are two—one for the men and the other for the women, each with eight compartments of the size of bedrooms. Here the poor sufferers remain until carried out to their last resting place. The priest enters the camp every week baptizes for the most part, and performs the sacraments. In the years 1910 and 1911, 607 patients were baptized, 509 received the last sacraments, and more than 1,500 confessions were heard. When the priest enters the camp he goes straight to the houses of the dying for he is sure to find some there in agony. Then he goes to the hospital. Here the baptisms are administered. Then comes the work in the church; confessions to be heard and instructions to be given, and when the round is completed the priest will chat with the patients in the hospital, or visit those in the first stages of the disease.

Though Uncle Sam has been giving away land ever since the passage of the original homestead law just half a century ago, he still has about 700,000,000 acres left. These lands are naturally not quite so attractive as those that were picked by the first comers. But many of them are desirable still. Congress at its last session as an inducement to settlers, reduced the length of time from five years to three years that a person must occupy a claim before he can get a patent on it. And then he need actually stay on the place only seven months of the year, and all he needs cultivate is ten acres of the 160. This new law, according to a ruling just made, also applies to Alaska.

CHANGES IN THE ARMY

REORGANIZATION UNDER THE NEW PLANS HAS BEGUN TO TAKE PLACE.

Officers Will Cease to be Chief Clerks and Will Maneuver and Be in Practice.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Today was taken the first step in the execution of the elaborate scheme for the reorganization of the army, so carefully planned by the war college, when unaltered from the ordinary Stimson, six battalions of infantry troops and one squadron of cavalry, began to take new stations to which they have been assigned, with the purpose of gradually forming the army as a whole into brigades, consisting of three regiments each.

The total number of troops involved in this order, only 2,000, is an insignificant part of the whole army of the United States, but the movement is as extensive as the war department has found it possible to undertake, having in mind the extremely low tide in the appropriations for transportation, and the lack of sufficient barracks at the larger posts to admit of the general concentration desired.

The troops affected by the order are the Third battalion, Fourteenth infantry, moving from Fort Missoula, Mont., to Fort George Wright, Wash.; the Second battalion, Ninth infantry, from Fort Snelling, Minn., to Fort Thomas, Ky.; the First battalion and machine gun platoon, Eighteenth infantry, from Fort Bliss, Tex., to Fort Missoula, Mont.; Third battalion, Fourth infantry, from Fort Logan H. Roots, Ark., to Fort Snelling, Minn.; Third battalion, Ninth infantry, from Fort Sill, Okla., to Fort Logan H. Roots, Ark.; Second battalion, Nineteenth infantry, from Fort Sheridan, Ill., to Fort Sill, Okla.; and the Third squadron, First cavalry, from Fort Baker, Idaho, to Presidio of Monterey, Cal.

To Get Them in Position.

The purpose of these movements is to bring the organizations named into their proper position as part of the brigades into which the mobile army is being formed, two or three of these brigades being located within each of the three infantry divisions of the army, which, in turn, are stationed within three geographical departments. First and most important of these is the eastern department, embracing New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, the posts of Fort Logan H. Roots, Ark., the coast artillery subdistricts of New Orleans and Galveston, the Panama Canal Zone and the island of Porto Rico, with the islands and keys adjacent thereto.

The First Division.

Located within this department, will be the First division of the army, under the command of Maj. Gen. Thos. H. Barry, who will command not only the division but the department, with headquarters at Governor's Island, and included in his command are the following organizations: Infantry—Third, Fifth, Twenty-ninth, Ninth, Tenth, Seventeenth and Porto Rican; artillery—Third field, cavalry—Tenth, Eleventh and First squadrons, Fifth, eighth, engineers—First battalion less Company D, and the coast artillery of the north and south Atlantic coast districts.

The central department, embracing the states of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming (except Yellowstone park), Colorado and Fort Missoula, Mont., where the command of Maj. Gen. William H. Carter, with headquarters at Chicago. In this department will be located the troops of the Second division also commanded by Gen. Carter, comprising: Infantry—Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-seventh, Fourth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Eleventh, Eighteenth, Twelfth, second; artillery—Fourth field, Sixth field, battery D, Fifth field; cavalry—Sixth, Third, engineers—Second battalion less Company A; signal corps—Company D; and field ambulance company No. 3, and field ambulance company No. 1.

San Antonio is Headquarters.

Two other departments, embracing the states of Texas (except the Galveston coast artillery district), Louisiana (except New Orleans coast artillery district), Arkansas (except Fort Logan H. Roots), Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, will be under command of Brig. Gen. Artur H. Bliss, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. Located in this department will be the cavalry division, composed of the First and Second brigades, including the First regiment, the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth; artillery—Fifth, Sixth, Third; infantry—Second battalion, Nineteenth, twenty-second; engineers—Companies D and M; signal corps—Companies A and I.

The western department embraces the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana (excepting Ft. Missoula), Yellowstone Park, California, Nevada, Utah and Alaska, and will be commanded by Maj. Gen. Artur H. Bliss, with headquarters at San Francisco. Located in this department will be the following troops: Infantry—Fourth, Twentieth, Sixth, Twelfth, Sixth, Third; artillery—Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth; cavalry—First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth; engineers—Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z; signal corps—Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z; field ambulance companies—A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z.

Retirees on Age Limit.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Rear Admiral Joseph B. Murdock, a conspicuous figure in the navy, was placed on the retired list Thursday on account of age. His active career covers a period of nearly forty-five years, during which time he has held a wide variety of important commands, both at sea and on shore.

Harford, Conn., is a native of the United States naval academy in the class of 1870. The first few years of his service in the navy were spent on the North and South Atlantic stations. From 1875 to 1880 he was on coast survey duty and during the three years that followed he was instructor in physics at the Annapolis academy. After serving periods of several years each on the Asiatic and European stations and at the New York navy yard, and the naval war college, he was made executive officer of the warship Panther at the beginning of the war with Spain.

He commanded the Rhode Island on the famous around the world cruise of the American battleship fleet in 1903. At the conclusion of the cruise he was promoted to the rank of rear admiral, and assigned to the command of the New York navy yard. In 1910 he became commander of the second division of the Atlantic fleet. A year later he was made command-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, of which command he was relieved a short time ago in anticipation of his retirement from active service.

necessary to give only one order directed to the commander of that brigade, who will himself summon its constituent parts into whole and effective organization.

The next step to be taken under the reorganization plan, will be to dispatch large portions of the regular troops now within continental United States to the Canal Zone and to Hawaii to form permanent garrisons in those places, but it must be left to the next administration to carry out that portion of the plan if it seems fit to continue the new policy just inaugurated.

New Head of Signal Corps.

Washington, Feb. 15.—After having served at the head of the United States army signal corps for seven years, Brigadier General James Allen relinquished his duties at noon Thursday to his successor in office, Colonel George P. Scriven, who has been acting as chief assistant for some time past. The change is due to the fact that General Allen became 64 years of age, and, therefore, under the law was relegated to the retired list.

Colonel Scriven, who succeeds General Allen, as chief signal officer, was born in Pennsylvania in 1854. Upon his graduation from the West Point military academy in 1878 he was assigned as a Second Lieutenant to the Eighth infantry. A year later he was transferred to the Third artillery. In 1890 he was appointed a first lieutenant in the signal corps. A year ago he attained the rank of colonel in the signal corps and was the only officer of that rank in the organization. During that rank in the organization. During the Boxer uprising in China, in 1900, Colonel Scriven served as chief signal officer of the relief expedition and was recommended for the brevet of lieutenant colonel for gallant conduct at Yangtsun and also at Peking.

ORDER OF B'NAI B'RITH.

District Grand Lodge to Start at San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 15.—The district grand lodge of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, the great Jewish and charitable organization, will begin its annual session in this city tomorrow. The session will be attended by delegates representing branches of the society throughout California, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Montana and British Columbia. A large part of the meeting will be devoted to a celebration of the lodge's fifth anniversary.

The Independent Order of B'nai B'rith is the most representative and influential organization of the Jewish people, having grand lodges in every part of the United States, in Austria, Germany and Roumania and, in addition, a system of affiliating lodges in the Orient.

The order was started many years ago by American citizens of German birth, who had emigrated to the United States to better their condition, and who, finding many obstacles in their pathway, concluded to inaugurate an organization that should be of help to the incoming immigrant and to educate him within the precincts of a lodge-room to higher patriotic ideals, to care for the widows and orphans and for the distressed everywhere, and to protect and defend the politically and religiously persecuted. The order has built and endowed orphan homes in San Francisco, Cleveland, Atlanta, New Orleans and other cities. It has also instituted technical and manual training schools, and is aiding and supporting educational and philanthropic enterprises everywhere.

What might be termed an useless refrigerator has been invented by an Oregon man, a double-walled chest, between the walls of which is packed salt to protect its contents from surrounding warm air.

Pays Letter Postage on Bag.

The is a man in the employ of the Westinghouse Electric company who has a very low opinion of the parcel post system recently installed in the United States. When he arrived in New York from Pittsburgh a few days ago he found that he had forgotten a traveling bag in the Pittsburgh office of his company. Having heard a great deal about the advantages of the parcel post, he telegraphed to the Pittsburgh office asking to have his bag sent to him by parcel post. The bag arrived in good order, but its owner was greatly chagrined when he learned that he would have to pay $6.40 postage due in addition to the 64 cents parcel postage which had been affixed to the bag in Pittsburgh. The bag having been locked, was not mailable as a parcel, but only as a letter and as such had to pay letter postage. "I suppose," said the owner, as he counted out the money, "that if the bag had had a strap around it, the postal department would have called it a trunk and charged me $6.40."

HOW SCOTT LOST RACE TO POLE

HE EXPLORED ANTARCTIC FOR SCIENCE WHILE RIVAL DASHED TO GOAL.

LAST WORD CAME JAN. 3, 1912

Englishman Then Said His Return
Would Be Greatly Delayed.

"So far all arrangements have worked out most satisfactorily. It is more than probable no further news will be received from us this year as our return must necessarily be late."

Those were the last written words of Capt. Robert Falcon Scott of the British navy to the world, to be delivered by his own hand. The date of delivery was January 3, 1912, and the place was 87 degrees and 32 minutes south latitude, within two degrees and 28 minutes of the great center of all longitude in the south—the goal of his ambition, the south pole. It was summer in that latitude, a summer with a cold red sun, with occasional snowstorms, blizzards, a summer with a temperature of minus twenty degrees centigrade, and the words were delivered on the great rock pierced plateau of ice and eternal snow which girds the pole, says the New York Sun.

Lieut. E. R. G. Evans, afterward a commander of the British navy, with crewmen Lashley and Crean, were to start back toward South Victoria land and the home base that afternoon. The way lay over 1,350 miles of plateau, over the great ice barrier, across treacherous ice and more treacherous mountains. But they had the knowledge also that at every degree on the trip north there would be found a hut and a supply of provisions up to about 78 degrees latitude south, the main base where the Terra Nova would come for them.

Had Captain Scott known it at that moment of January 3, 1912, just the

Captain Robert Falcon Scott

Captain Robert Falcon Scott was born at Outlands, Davenport, the naval station on the south coast of England, on June 6, 1868. He entered the British navy at the age of fourteen, and completed a three-year cruise on the training ship Britannia. He was then sent to the naval station at the Cape of Good Hope, where he served for three years. Returning to England he elected to enter the torpedo service, and a few years later was promoted to the rank of torpedo lieutenant. At this time Scott's family suffered financial reverses, and while the young lieutenant was trying to devise some means of increasing his income, as the support of his parents devolved on him, he met Sir Clements Markham, at that time president of the Royal Geographical Society. Sir Clements induced Scott to take command of an expedition to the south coast of England, on June 6, 1888. He entered the British navy at the age of fourteen, and completed a three-year cruise on the training ship Britannia. He was then sent to the naval station at the Cape of Good Hope, where he served for three years. Returning to England he elected to enter the torpedo service, and a few years later was promoted to the rank of torpedo lieutenant. At this time Scott's family suffered financial reverses, and while the young lieutenant was trying to devise some means of increasing his income, as the support of his parents devolved on him, he met Sir Clements Markham, at that

He was then sent to the naval station at the Cape of Good Hope, where he served for three years. Returning to England he elected to enter the torpedo service, and a few years later was promoted to the rank of torpedo lieutenant. At this time Scott's family suffered financial reverses, and while the young lieutenant was trying to devise some means of increasing his income, as the support of his parents devolved on him, he met Sir Clements Markham, at that arrival at the great goal, the bottom of the world. He had won a race in which five countries made ready to start. He had gone to the region for nothing else but to reach the pole. Scott, sent in part by the Royal Geographical Society, stopped for scientific observations or investigation. Amundsen, having the form and the will of his own Viking ancestors, had ended a fifty-five day dash from Bay of Whales, Prince Edward VII. Land, by climbing of ice barriers was called for he climbed; if walking was feasible he walked; if skiing could be done he skied, but walking, running, climbing or crawling, he kept his face steadily southward. He won.

New Rival Was in Region. Scott knew that Amundsen was somewhere out on the plateau. Whether he was before him or behind him he had no means of knowing then. Their ways had begun with one at the Bay of Whales off King Edward VII. Land, while Scott had chosen the old Shackleton route, 400 miles to the westward, Evans Bay in McMurdo Sound, off South Victoria Land, both fronted by the 515 mile wide ice barrier which guards the great Antarctic continent as never wall of China could do for its country.

The two routes had focussed at the pole. On January 3 Scott was fifteen days from the pole, and Amundsen, who had left the pole December 17, seventeen days before, must have been within two days journey of him. They must have passed within a few miles relatively of each other.

The despatches mentioned that Scott had come in on the Amundsen trail before he got to the pole, and this led him to the little hut with its flag, recording prior discovery. There may have been records found on Scott's body, but no one will ever know quite enough to describe the feeling of the brave, ambitious, thoroughly equipped man backed by the hopes of a great nation, the day he found that he must follow the other man.

To Amundsen, the winner, must go the prize, but to Scott, some scientists said yesterday, must go the glory from science from the result of his south polar explorations. Amundsen found the pole. Scott located the magnetic pole, established the existence of the ice barrier definitely, although it had been seen by Ross; he established and traced the course of the Victoria mountains, the strange chain which seems almost to wind itself about the pole itself and which is thought by some to be a broken continuation of the Andes of South America. He and the scientists who were with him checked up their steps with observations, geological, floral, if such it may be called, faunal, meteorological, mineralogical. There will be a bare record for Amundsen, there will be countless publications about the discoveries of Scott.

And back of it all the great race in which the loser paid the highest forfeit will always stand out. Not even patriotic sentiment in Peary's successful dash could stir up more general excitement. Not alone were the two men concerned at first, but the five expeditions were in the great Antarctic circle in 1910, all supposed to be making ready for the great dash. Amundsen, the winner, would have been called an added starter on a race course. He had pointed the nose of the Fram north when he set out from Norway and not until he had put in at Cape St. Vincent and Funchal, Madeira, was Dr. Nansen, an Australian, with a small expedition was down there at the time. Lieut. Pilcher of the German navy was there; Lieut. Shirase, a Japanese, was also in the field. It was a five sided race, but only two were in at the finish and only the two held the public eye.

The two expeditions that started in 1910 were not comparable so far as equipment was concerned. The Royal Geographical Society had given $100,000 to Scott and the British navy had added another $100,000 to the sum. The Terra Nova, especially designed and fitted, was his vessel. It was the boast of Sir Edward Markham that Scott went in with the most completely equipped expedition that had ever ventured on discovery. Sir Ernest Shackleton, Scott himself, Sir Edwin Markham, and a host of Antarctic explorers, scientists and sailors had given their best service to its commander.

The Terra Nova, a Dundee whaler, built for backing the ice refitted, rebraced, left London June 1, 1910. Captain Scott was not then aboard, coming on when the ship touched Cardiff, but there were at the time on board sixty men, scientists, associates and crew. When the Terra Nova sailed she had aboard her complete equipment, except the dogs and ponies. Much of Sir Ernest Shackleton's equipment had been copied and improved. There was much that was new to that kind of exploration. First the motor sledges, also there were halibut, seals, walrus. There were Manchurian ponies, hardy doglike little fellows, who were wholly experimental, and there were dogs in abundance engaged at the proper place. There were ample provisions for three years for the men.

Just about that time, a little before, Amundsen's expedition had started in the Fram, ostensibly for the north.

Scott's expedition was known and described at great length; there was little said of Amundsen. It was known that the King of Norway had aided in piecing out the slender resources of the explorer, but his ship, the Fram, came from Nansen. He had no improvements, he depended upon a few men and about 100 dogs. Nansen had advised the placing of dogs above ponies and motors. In the sailing of the Amundsen party but one name could be mentioned; in the departure of Scott there was to be seen a goodly array of well known men. Lieut. E. R. G. Evans, R. N., who was second in command, and destined to lead the western party, as one of the three parties was to be called Dr. E. A. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff, zoologist and artist; Lieut. V. L. A. Campbell, R. N., leader of the eastern party; Lieut. H. L. Pennington, R. N., magnetic and meteorological work; Lieut. H. E. De P. Rennick, R. N., of the western party; Lieut. H. R. Bowers, of the Royal Indian marines; Engineer Lieut. E. W. Riley, R. N.; Surgeon G. M. Levick, R. N., physician and zoologist; Surgeon E. L. Atkinson, R. N., physician, bacteriologist; F. R. H. Drake, R. N., private secretary; C. H. Menzies, dog expert for the western party; Capt. L.

CAPT. ROALD AMUNDSEN, THE DISCOVERER OF THE SOUTH POLE

E. G. Oates of the Royal Inniskilling Dragoons; Dr. G. C. Simson, western party; T. Griffith Taylor, geologist; E. W. Nelson, biologist; D. G. Lillie, biologist; A. Cherry Garrard, assistant zoologist; H. G. Ponting, photographer; R. C. Day, motor engineer; B. C. Day, chemist; C. S. Wright, chemist; Boatswain P. Feather, Boatswain A. Chetnam, Petty Officer Evans, W. Williams, second engineer; W. Lashley, assistant to Motor Engineer Crean, W. Archer, steward. The Terra Nova, proceeding slowly, reached the southernmost point of New Zealand in October, 1910, took on the balance of her equipment, secure in the belief that Amundsen was on his way north. The start for the Antarctic circle was made November 29, 1910, from Port Chalmers, and the Terra Nova pushed her way due south, bringing up at McMurdo Sound in January, 1911, in the fall of the year. Amundsen, who had vanished after leaving Funchal, was found in the Bay of Whales off King Edward's Land in February, 1911. Scott had already established his winter quarters across Ross Bay, or sea, 400 miles to the westward, on South Victoria land. Scott then learned of Amundsen, and Amundsen already knew of Scott. The two men picked their routes and fate cast the prize to the man who, keeping far to the eastward of Victoria mountains, struck good ice on high plateau, and with only his few men and many dogs waited for the winter to break to start on his great journey.

Scott began immediately establishing his stations to the southward. Amundsen planned one main station to the south and one subsidiary station, to be used when his plunge forward should be under way. Amundsen, when he went into winter quarters, set up fifteen tents for his men and his provisions; the Scott party had their portable houses and they even had telephonic communication as far as fifteen miles between station and station. During the winter both parties carried southward supplies to be in readiness for the following summer, which is the northern winter.

Amundsen is home and telling of his great achievement. There are only the occasional letters which were sent by Scott to piece out the narrative of his journey with the tragedy ending.

Scott sent out a message by the

Mrs. Robert F. Scott and Son

The photograph shows Mrs. R. F. Scott, widow of the noted explorer, and her little son, Peter. Mrs. Scott is a great favorite in English social circles, because of her charming disposition, and her many accomplishments. She is a gifted sculptor, and has done some very creditable work in that line. Mrs. Scott had intended to meet her husband at New Zealand, on his return from the south, and is now on the high seas between San Francisco and the Antipodes, where the news of the calamity awaits her.

It is estimated that there are in the United States today 2,250,000 Jews, our country standing second only to Russia in this particular, which has a Jewish population of more than 8,000,000. At a recent council of the Union of Hebrew Congregations, which met in Cincinnati, attention was called to the greatness of the force which the Jews have become in our American life.

IS YOUR LOAN PROTECTED? IS IT SAFE?

1. Where after the death of a grantor in a deed of trust, the county court, in administrative proceedings, set apart the land described therein to defendants, who were the grantor's minor children, as their homestead, and the holder of the debt secured did not file his claim therefor as a claim against the estate, and did not appear in any manner in the administration proceedings, he could not thereafter enforce his lien against the land.
2. The fact that an administrator did not publish notice of his appointment did not affect the conclusiveness of an order of the county court setting apart property covered by a deed of trust to the children of decedent as their homestead, since all parties interested in the estate were required to take notice of the administration proceedings regularly begun. See Tiboldi vs. Palms, 78 S. W., page 726, also 79 S. W. 23.

In other words—you may not be able to enforce your first lien. With a Title Guaranty Policy you would be absolutely protected.

WHAT MEN WHO KNOW SAY ABOUT HIGHLAND PLACE

Austin, Texas, Feb. 12, 1913.

Messrs. Koch & Link,
Waco, Texas.

Gentlemen:

Being a traveling man I have the opportunity of seeing the wide awake cities, and Waco is my choice in Texas.

Several months ago I bought two lots in Highland Place, and while in the city today looking for further investments in Waco I purchased three more lots in your addition.

With the improvements that you are making, in my mind an investment in Highland Place is the best buy in Waco.

Wishing you much success, I am,

Yours very truly,

W. L. DUNCAN.

Terra Nova under date of October 30, 1911, that every preparation had been completed for the real race. He had planned to start with sixteen men and to drop them by fours at certain stages as he went south until there should be left four for the final lap. There seems to have been five according to the last word, but very slowly the other men straggled back and they have sent to the outside world the messages given to them by their commander.

The letter of October, 1911, refers briefly to the trip south, but contains an immense amount of information about the work of the scientific branches of the expedition. All had worked through the winter, studied mountains, rocks, waters, fish, fowl. The photographer had taken marvelous motion pictures of Antarctic life; the ponies had been good, the sledges had worked, the dogs were in fine condition and the men were all in health.

The sixteen had begun their momentous journey by November 24, on that date the first section turned back to bring a message from Scott which told of the start from Hut camp, a station south of the main camp. He had sent messengers ahead and decided to travel at night to give the ponies the benefit of the sun in the daytime for rest. They were at latitude 81 degrees and 15 minutes south on November 24 when the section started home. The motor sledges had been abandoned because of difficulties with the radiators. The ponies then were in good condition.

Out of the south came another message dated December 10, in latitude 83 degrees and 15 minutes south, 6 degrees and 45 minutes from the pole, then with more than 400 miles yet to be accomplished and a maximum of fifteen miles a day for travel, Amundsen then was within 100 miles of the pole, traveling light, meeting with good weather, where the temperature sometimes was as high as 9 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Scott by the whirl of fate then was running into blizzards; the snow was encountering soft ice, soft snow, crevasses. It was firm walking for Amundsen. The message told of the sacrifice of some of the ponies, either because of exhaustion or because they were needed as food for the dogs. The men were in excellent condition and the party now was reduced to twelve men.

Another four turned back on December 21 in latitude 85 degrees and 7 minutes south. Amundsen had then been to the pole and was on his way back. The plateau, still ascending, had then attained an altitude of 6500 feet. Mount Darwin was thirty miles to the westward. The journey had been attended by hardships and misfortunes.

The great plateau, really the mountain chain, was pierced at intervals with deep valleys in which were crevasses and glaciers dangerous to life and limb. The glaciers had been covered with soft snow, into which men sank up to their knees as they walked, and the ponies struggled pitifully.

The party here was reduced to Scott, Lieut. Evans, Dr. Wilson, Lieut. Bowers, Capt. Oates, Lashley, Petty Officer Evans and Crean. The other men were working their way back to the base, resting as they went at the stations which had been established at every degree and stocked with food. Capt. Scott here spoke of one perplexity confronting him. There were eight men remaining and each man of the eight was determined to go forward to the end. It would be hard, very hard to choose. Evidently the insistence of some one man broke up the plans at the next date, the last to come out of the south. This was January 3, 1912, when south latitude 87.32 had been reached, less than 150 miles from the pole and the last lap of the race.

It was all down to the dogs now and with the establishing of the last station provisions remained for but thirty days for the party to go forward. "I am going forward with a party of five men now," Scott wrote. "The advance party goes forward with a month's provisions and the prospects of success seem good providing the weather holds and no unforeseen obstacles arise. It has been very difficult to choose the advance party, as every one was fit and able to go forward. Those who return are naturally much disappointed."

"The weather on the plateau on the whole has been good. The sun has never deserted us, but the temperatures are low now, about 20 degrees minus, and the wind pretty constant. However, we are excellently equipped and the wind undoubtedly improves the surface. So all arrangements have worked out most satisfactorily. It is more than probable that no further news will be received from us this year, as our return must necessarily be late. I am remaining in the Antarctic for another season in order to complete my work."

This was all that came out to the world when the Terra Nova returned to New Zealand with some of the members of the party on March 31 of last year. Lieut. Evans, afflicted with scurvy, returned to England to be invalided and promoted by King George. His figures and calculations enabled the Royal Geographical society to say with certainty, "Capt. Scott will reach the pole on January 18."

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Dates Are Fixed for the Meetings in Williamson County.

Austin, Feb. 15.—Under the direction of the state department of agriculture Farmers' Institutes will be held at the following places:

Florence, Feb. 25, 1:30 p. m.
Bartlett, Feb. 26, 1:30 p. m.
Granger, Feb. 27, 1:30 p. m.
Taylor, Feb. 29, 1:30 p. m.

The place of meeting will be announced by the local committee at each place.

These Institutes will be conducted by R. H. (Bob) Taylor, who will discuss diversification, rotation, seed selection and better cultural methods.

Officers of institutes already organized will assist in getting the farmers out to hear these important questions discussed.

Judge Ed R. Kone, commissioner of the state department of agriculture, publishes, from time to time, valuable reports upon topics of vital interest to the farmers of the state. All institutes will receive copies of all bulletins issued by the department free of cost, and will be placed on the regular mailing list for future bulletins and reports.

These Institutes are farmers' meetings devoted to the upbuilding of the best interests of the farmer. It is urged, therefore, that farmers bring their families and devote, at least one day to a careful study and discussion of the agricultural questions which lie nearest their hearts.

WEEK'S REVIEW IN LEGISLATION

A PANIC FOLLOWS THE TWO DEATHS OF MENINGITIS IN THE HOUSE.

PROS FIX A PRECEDENT

Insist on Allowing Whiskey to Go to Dry Territory Over Protest of Anti Element.

(By G. W. Taylor.)

Austin, Tex., Feb. 15.—Two deaths from meningitis and a subsequent panic which caused an adjournment for two days by the house and the absence of a number of members on committee trips of inspection to the various state eleemosynary institutions so that a quorum was lacking, the senate prevented much legislation being performed the past week.

Monday the house, working under suspension rules, took up the Allison bill, to prevent the shipment of liquor into dry territory. It precipitated a struggle in which, to all appearances, the pros and antis swapped sides. The bill was first attacked by antis who made an endeavor to kill it. Unsuccessful in this, Bagby offered an amendment to prevent not only the shipment but also the carrying of liquor by persons for personal use into dry territory. This amendment had the support of the solid anti faction because they thought the pros because they claimed that it would force the dry counties into the wet contingent at the first election. The bill was carried as the pros advocated it but since its passage to engrossment it has been the subject of a great deal of discussion at the informal gatherings they are in the habit of holding. It is admitted by the most ardent pros that the question is going to rise to plague them in future years and by the less earnest faction as a political expedient forced upon them which will not redound to their credit.

The Kennedy liquor regulation bill passed finally in the house without comment. Its career in the senate is not in doubt but its reception by the governor is a source of uneasy conjecture on the part of its friends. Kennedy issued a statement during the week in which he stated that he was certain that his bill, as first drawn, would meet the governor's approval.

The Alamo Troubles.
The three-cornered Alamo trouble with the governor's views at one angle, the De Zavala at another and the Sevier at another was settled as far as the house is concerned by giving the control of the Alamo property into the hands of the Sevier faction of the Daughters of the Republic. Indications are that this is not satisfactory to the senate. The upper house is willing to compromise the three claims and will either block all legislation in regard to this affair this session or compel the house to accept an amendment that will substitute the compromise for the bill as passed in the house. At least present indications point that way.

The suspended sentence bill, the first important judicial reform bill to pass the houses, was signed by the governor.

Court Reform Bills.
Court reform bills have been introduced in great number this session and during the week attempts have been made to get down to work on some of them.

The Humphreys bill, requiring the charge to be delivered to the jury before the arguments and written objections, if there are any to be made, to be handed by the attorneys to the judge before it is delivered passed the house to engrossment.

The verified pleadings bill was under discussion at the time of adjournment Thursday.

The bill providing for a new court of civil appeals to be located at Beaumont passed the committee favorably and every indication points to its passage through the two houses without trouble.

A bill prohibiting the use of fictitious names in indictments or records of cases passed to engrossment.

The full crew bill was defeated after a struggle lasting a day and a half. This bill was lobbied for and against perhaps more than any other bill that has come up this session. During the debate incriminations against the promoters, and opposition were indulged in freely by both sides and even the motives of some of the members of the house in attacking or defending the bill were impugned.

Redistricting Bill.
The congressional redistricting bill, discussed in the senate committee, the senate acting as a committee of the whole, still occupies the attention of that body and action on this measure is expected when the senate resumes its labors next week. A suggestion by Representative Burges to submit the redistricting to the supreme court, and to abide by the decision of that body may be acted on as members of the senate are anxious to be relieved of the job they have undertaken. The bill as reported back by the committee is not satisfactory and it is current opinion that any bill that is framed will not be satisfactory.

The supreme court put a quietus to the J. T. Adams contest of the Senator Collins seat by handing down an opinion that Collins is entitled to the seat.

The governor blasted the hopes of the pro-merger members Thursday by vetoing the Katy consolidation bill. Immediately thereafter there was talk of carrying the bill over the veto, but while an attempt will possibly be made to do this there is a lessening number of predictions indicating that the bill will be carried over the veto.

Stream Pollution Bill.
The anti-stream pollution bill which was reported out of the house committee favorably some time ago and introduced in the senate, was introduced in the senate, which exempts cities of under ten thousand from its provisions and after a lively discussion reported back to the house unfavorably with a minority report by three members dissenting, which will permit it to be taken up for discussion in the house. It is predicted that when it is taken up the original Collins bill will be offered as an amendment and carried. The fight on the bill narrowed down to the Fort Worth delegation who oppose all measures of the kind, and the Dallas delegation who demand that action in the matter be taken to relieve them of difficulties arising from emptying sewerage into streams. The Beaumont delegation together with a strong following, have announced its intention of getting legislation on the subject.

The Frats and Barbs of the Texas university are to be heard by the senate committee to whom the bill abolishing frats has been referred on Tuesday night. Reservations at all the hotels and boarding houses have been made for large delegations of both factions from the alumni.

The United States navy, according to official reports, last year continued to occupy third rank among the great navies of the world, being outranked only by those of Great Britain and Germany. In the number of battleships, only Great Britain's navy is superior to ours. The powers rank thus as to their naval strength: Great Britain, Germany, United States, France, Japan, Russia, Italy, Austria-Hungary.

Etiquette of the Flag

The etiquette of the drawing room is not more exacting than the etiquette of the flag. The United States government has set down rules explaining how the flag should be treated on various occasions. These rules concern the army, the navy, and the custodians of federal buildings.

An idea of the respect for the flag demanded in the army may be obtained at West Point, when the cadets salute the Stars and Stripes. They even carry their respect for the flag to the gridiron battlefield. When the cadets win a football game, especially against one of the big eleven, the standard bearer carries the flag out to the center of the field. The entire corps of cadets surround him and with hats lifted and with faces turned to the flag they give three cheers for the flag and the army.

When President McKinley was assassinated, thousands of people all over the country kept flags on their homes and business places at half mast for thirty days and nights. That was not according to etiquette. For Mr. McKinley the flag at every army post, naval station and federal building in the country was held at half mast from sunrise until sunset from his death to the day of his burial. On this occasion the rule was extended for the regulations provide that on the death of a president in office the flag shall be held at half mast for only one day.

On Memorial Day the flag is properly displayed at half mast from sunrise until noon. At noon the band is assembled, and while a salute of twenty-one guns is being fired the band plays a dirge. At the end of the ceremony, the flag is hoisted to the masthead and remains there until sunset.

When the flag is to be half masted, it is first run up to the top of the staff and then lowered to half mast. At the end of the ceremony, the flag is hoisted to the masthead and remains there until sunset.

One of the reasons given by President Murphy of the Cubs for starting the games in Chicago at 2 p. m. is that it will allow the ladies to see the entire game, and still be home in time to prepare dinner. Charles puts 'em over so fast that he has the Windy City fans dizzy.

Situated on the South Side of the Katy railroad tracks, directly opposite, just across the road from the shops, round house, and artesian well. High elevation—perfect drainage—NO DUST, NO SMOKE—NO CINDERS—the most desirable homesites in the entire Katy shop district. This addition is named for Tom Murphey, the venerable "KATY" conductor who is held in great love and esteem by all who know him. The demand for homes in the shop district is enormous. There are hundreds of employees and their families ready to move to Waco as soon as they can find a house to live in. EVERY AVAILABLE HOUSE IS TAKEN in East Waco and rental agents report to us that they could rent a hundred houses if they had them. DON'T YOU KNOW that they are building here as large shops and terminals as they have in Parsons, Kansas? HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY—A SMALL CASH PAYMENT down secures a lot—salesmen on the property Sunday. The Independent Telephone Co. management said in Tuesday's paper that they were arranging for 500 telephones at Bell Meade yards. Go see the houses being built over there. Call for Mr. Skinner, Mr. Fannin, Mr. Saunders. Both phones 2342.

TOO MANY HEADS IN CITY BUSINESS

RIGGINS THINKS NEW CHARTER FOR WACO OUGHT TO BE ADOPTED

THEN ALL OFFICERS RESIGN

Outlines His Views on Present Situation in Municipal Affairs—Where People Vote, Politics Always.

To The Morning News:

Referring to my article in last Sunday's News asking the candidates certain questions, a great many voters have asked me if any of these questions have been answered. Some of the candidates have answered them to me personally, but I have said, "Tell the voters your proposition. You had better tell it publicly."

Now, Mr. Editor, it is conceded that Waco has a time-worn, patched, out-of-date charter. We want a charter for a progressive town. There is a way to get at this matter. One thing is certain. Unless we get these candidates committed before they are elected, we can not adopt a new charter for two years. Suppose the commissioners representing the government of Waco should call upon the wards, which I think we should do, to elect from three to five delegates to a charter convention and that this convention makes and submits a charter to the voters of Waco and provisions are made in this charter which do not fit unless the officers we are now about to elect agree to resign, they will be in the way and we will have to live under the old charter for two years. Personally I would not vote for a candidate who is so selfish, who cares so little for his town and the wish of the town that he will not agree to resign if elected if it should become important, and I don't think any other vote should do so.

I consider that the only impediment in the progress of Waco today is her charter and her government, and by a little activity and earnest work we can get a charter that will meet the demands of the present age and the conditions of Waco today. I don't think that the present commission form of government is either businesslike, because it has none of the elements of business in it, or a political organization so that the public will be protected. It is neither one nor the other.

Again, we have too many governments. We have too much government. We have the school board as a government; we have the water commission as a government; and we have the city commission as a government. All independent in a way, with very little or no responsibility, weakening a real government by the people and for the people.

Some men talk about politics. There is no such thing as removing politics from anything that the people vote upon. There is politics in the school board because the people vote. The same is true of the water commission and the same is true of the city commission. Let us make one government and hold one head responsible, but we can't make a charter unless we demand that these commissioners promise to resign in case a charter is made that doesn't fit their cases.

I believe in Waco. I want to see her succeed on broad, progressive lines. I want to see us rise above personalities, above a one-street town, and a one-man town. I want us to rise to the proposition that the success of one is for the good of all. Yours truly, J. W. RIGGINS.

In Australia the lord mayor of Sydney, stung by the reproach that his city was the dirtiest in the southern hemisphere, has organized a special patrol force of a hundred gigantic Australians to capture citizens offending against the municipal bylaws for the preservation of good order, neatness and cleanliness. He mustered them the other day in the yard of the City Hall and said: "Act without fear or favor. Never mind whether the offender is well dressed or shabbily dressed. Do your duty. Many of our citizens have fallen into dirty habits, and we have to teach them to be clean and tidy."

Wool not the product of sheep is being utilized for men's clothing. This is known as "limestone wool" and is made in an electric furnace. A pair of trousers or a coat woven of this material cannot, it is asserted, be burned or damaged by grease.

Waco Water Plant Will Be Finished In Late Summer

Plans for the $400,000.00 Public Works Are Being Pushed—Will Supply Entire City Through Net Work of Mains.

A waterworks plant equal to that of any in the state of Texas will be completed and in operation in the late summer. It will cost approximately $400,000 and will be located in the intersection of Vermont street and the Brazos river, bounded by North Third street on the west, Kentucky avenue on the south, the river on the east, the Delaney tract on the north, which is virtually Indiana street. Work has already begun on the construction of an intake conduit and excavating for a storage well. Excavation for the filter plant will start in March, according to Water Superintendent S. J. Quay.

The excavation going on now gives the ten-acre tract the appearance of most anything save a site for a waterworks plant with sufficient capacity to furnish Waco water for the next decade. About one-third of the tract is bottom land and in the balance is included a bluff that overlooks the river. The intake will be sunk in the river opposite the bluff. The intake will be in the nature of a reinforced concrete shaft built on an elevation of 366 feet, which is four feet below the bottom of the river. It will have three openings extending into the river at different levels to suit the height of the water. Each opening will be fitted with a sluice gate.

From the intake the water will be conveyed to the filter plant by a conduit built on a level of 366 feet. However, before the water reaches the filter plant it will pass into a suction well, which will be excavated at the edge of the bluff. The walls of this well will be extended up several feet above any possible danger of high water.

Immediately west of the suction well, and on the summit of the bluff will be erected the pumping station. Its elevation will be 418 feet. The building will be about 50 x 100 feet. A boiler room will be attached and will be about 50 x 50 feet.

At the east end of the pump house a pit will be excavated to a level of 385 feet, in which will be installed two six million gallon centrifugal pumps. On the floor level of the pump house will be placed the two five million gallon crank and fly wheel high duty pumps, with all their accessories.

Immediately west of the pumping station, at an elevation of 366 feet, will be the settling basin and filter plant. The building will cover a space of approximately 120 feet north and south and 100 feet east and west. Work on this plant will begin about March 1. The centrifugal pumps will take the water from the suction well and deliver it to the settling basin where on entering the coagulant will be applied. The large capacity of the basin will enable six hours of sedimentation when filtering five million gallons every twenty-four hours.

The water from the settling basin will go direct into the filters. Thence the water will pass through beds of sand, that will collect all of the bacteria and other impurities not taken out by sedimentation. From the filters it flows by gravity to the clear water reservoir situated north of the pump house. It is pumped from this well by the high duty pumps into the city mains.

The plans call for a clear water reservoir that will hold 1,200,000 gallons to be constructed of reinforced concrete and covered with the same material. Leading out from the pump station a twenty-four inch delivery pipe will be laid west on Vermont street to convey the water to the network of city mains. This same pipe will continue out Vermont street and connect with the standpipe, the location of which is still undecided. Some large connections will be made. A sixteen-inch main is contemplated down Eighth street and another one at Fourth street, giving direct connection with the business district of the city. This should give ample pressure for fire protection for many years.

The small tract of ground that will separate the plant from the entrance to Cameron park may be utilized for park purposes. The buildings at the new plant will be very substantial and an effort made to make them attractive. The grounds will be beautified and kept in good condition the year round. Considerable excavation has been done, but the unfavorable weather has stayed the work to some extent. When weather permits the contractors are keeping a force of men at work day and night doing the excavation work.

Significance of 1913

There has been some alarm on the part of the superstitious over the "13" in 1913. They fear that the new year augurs trouble.

According to the Cabala, this 13 has no significance when picked out of another number. If the number 1913 has any meaning whatever it is as a whole and not as arbitrarily divided. The right way to discover its hidden portent is to add all its digits. The result will be 5. This number is the sign of harmony. Therefore those who are alarmed may take heart of grace and go serenely on their way. The world will smile through the coming twelve months, according to cabalistic lore. The year which has just passed, 1912, is the real culprit. Its digits count up to 13, so the trouble is all over.

According to the Cabala, the number 13 means the power of overcoming through hard work and many changes. Certainly this last year exemplified the meaning attributed to it. There is a peculiar thing about the number 1913. It is indivisible. This, according to the ancient mystics, has a special significance. It means that there will be no great changes throughout the year. The world will have a breathing spell. As its number, 5, means harmony there should be a recognition of peace everywhere.

It has the science of letters and numbers, perfected before the children of Israel marched out of Egypt. It was so widely recognized at one time that it formed a division among the Jews.

The Cabala was developed by the Jews. Pythagoras evolved a system of his own, slightly simplifying the original Cabala. The latter method never goes beyond the number 9 in counting. The original picked out numbers here and there beyond 9 as having special significance. All others were reduced down to one number by adding the digits.

For instance, 100 stands as in the Jewish system, but is 1 in the Pythagorean. Also, 13 having special meaning, stands as it is in the Jewish system, but is 4 in the other. Fourteen is reduced to 5, as in itself it means nothing in either system.

This science gives to every letter in the alphabet a number, a meaning and a color. Thus from one's name can be found one's number and during the process of addition one's character can be drawn and one's future foretold. Likewise the color of a person's aura can be determined, if the seer is an adept at its interpretation.

The method by which one's personal future for the year is obtained is to add one's number to the digit of the year. Thus is the keynote struck.

The year 1913 ought to be full of the white light of bright hope, according to this system. It will be objectively happy like a child. Next year, 1914, the world will look to its wounds. In 1915 it will seek for its happiness through deep spiritual researches, and a great change will occur.

Thus saith the Cabala.

Farm Life in McLennan Co. Shown By Census Reports

The need of home owners in this country is vividly presented in the federal census reports of McLennan county recently given out from Washington and there is an element of alarm in the percentage of gain of the tenant farmers over the farm owners. Many of the most substantial farmers desert the farms annually for the advantages and comforts of the city and the opportunities of the city lure many of the brightest young men from the farm. Their places are filled by the tenant farmer and the hired hand, but another half century of rural transition and the farm population in this county will be a land of peasants.

In McLennan county the federal census reports for 1910 show a total of 5,994 farms. Of this number 2,983 farms were operated by owners, 2,751 by tenants and 26 by managers. The form of tenancy was divided into four classes. 3,594 farms were worked on shares, 85 on a cash basis, 87 on crop and share basis and 191 on basis specified. The census for 1900 shows 5,249 farms and 1,960 were operated by owners and 3,289 by tenant and managers.

Taking the entire state there are 125,843 farms operated by owners, 212,575 operated by tenants and 2,332 by managers. The tenant farmer has increased at the rate of over 5,000 per year and the farm owner less than 3,000 per annum. The study of this subject has aroused many thoughtful citizens who have the interest of Texas at heart and the Texas Farm Life Commission was organized to suggest a solution for the problem as relates to the state as a whole, but the difficulties of McLennan county are peculiarly of the county and the progressive citizens of this county should organize and solve them in so far as local action can meet the situation.

There are many difficulties that stand in the way of the tenant farmer becoming a land owner which requires co-operative action to surmount. The rate of interest is too high; the method of marketing too uncertain and our economic system has many other defects which must be corrected. Likewise, to hold our successful farmers on the farm country life must be as satisfactory as city life and the business of farming must be made more remunerative.

The greatest thing a human can do is to build a home and those who own homes should assist in making it easy for others to secure them.

PHILO CLUB PLANS

SEVENTY-FIVE MEMBERS MEET ON ANNIVERSARY AND DECIDE TO IMPROVE.

Will Have Larger Quarters and Add New Features to the Life of the Organization.

Following an enthusiastic meeting of 75 members of the Philo club held Friday night, the twenty-ninth anniversary of the organization, it was decided to secure improved club rooms, install a gymnasium and baths, have a finished dancing hall, and, in brief, take a new lease on life.

The meeting was called to consider the financial condition of the club at this time and to lay plans for the future. The matter was discussed at some length.

Property owners of the city are to be seen and an effort will be made to see whether a modern, three-story building can be secured for them, the owners of the present building also to be seen, the club to guarantee the rental of two floors of the building for a stated period of time.

The third floor will be used, if the plans do not miscarry, exclusively for a dance hall.

The second floor will contain the gymnasium, baths and club rooms proper.

It is intended to continue the social features of the club just as in the past.

ARC LIGHTS AT CITY HALL

Will Be at Each Entrance—A Better Lighted Public Square.

The arc lights on the city hall tower will be displaced soon. They will be used as arc lights on the four corners to the city hall. Two lights will be placed at the west entrance from Austin street, one at the east side, one at the south entrance and one at the north entrance. Wire connections already have been made and the steel poles are ready to be placed.

The work of installing the arc lights is being done by the Texas Power and Light company. The lights will be the same as those on Austin street. Some time ago the city commission discussed the advisability of removing the lights from the tower and placing them where they would do more good. The light company agreed to do the work if the city commission so ordered.

The lights that will be removed are not the ones that light the city clock. They are above the clock and were placed on the tower to illuminate the city hall square. It is believed this can be better accomplished by placing the lights at each entrance.

LECTURE AT Y. M. C. A.

Physical, Mental and Moral of Man Being Looked After.

A lecture upon the physical department of the Young Men's Christian Association was delivered last night in the rooms of the organization by W. H. Ball of New York, member of the international committee, in which he approved the installation of a swimming pool in the local association and the better equipping of the gymnasium.

He declared that through perfecting the physical man in the gymnasium his mental apparatus is strengthened, and he showed that the Y. M. C. A. takes care of the whole man, mental, moral and physical, through its various departments, beginning with the boy and being interested in him, though he reach a ripe old age.

Mr. Ball's series of lectures in Texas will be concluded with the opening of the state convention in Corsicana next week.

Waco Boy Who Played With Fort Worth, and Not His Brother.

Oscar Drucke, son of L. J. Drucke of 911 North Eleventh street, and brother of Louis Drucke, the New York Giant pitcher, who was recently sold to the Sacramento club, is critically ill in a Fort Worth hospital. Instead of the brother with the Giants, as reported yesterday morning, Oscar played the major portion of last season with the Fort Worth club.

Several days ago he was operated on for appendicitis. He continued to grow worse, and little hope is entertained for his recovery. His father, mother and brother of Waco are at his bedside.

AUTO STRIKES A WOMAN.

Mrs. Ground Is Knocked Down on Fifth and Austin.

An aged woman who gave the name of Mrs. Ground and is visiting Mrs. I. Goldberg at 901 North Tenth street, was knocked down at Fifth and Austin streets by an automobile owned and driven by G. G. Tarver of Big Springs, who is temporarily residing at 523 Dallas street. He stopped his machine before it could run on the woman.

At the instance of a physician Mayer Mackey called the police patrol. The woman, who was slightly injured, refused to be taken home in the public conveyance. She would not accept the attention of a physician and consented to be taken to Mrs. Goldberg's home in the same automobile that collided with her.

Witnesses say the automobile was going very slow and did nothing more than push the woman over.

WACO SHADE TREES ARE THE PRIDE OF THE CITY

People coming to Waco universally remark about the beautiful trees and lawns which surround the homes. There are several foes to the lives of these trees which should be destroyed at all hazards, before the trees are killed. There is a small worm which secretes itself in the bark, then commences to eat at the inner lining of the bark until it kills the tree; there are several other insects which destroy trees, all of which could be avoided if the people would only secure Ottwell's tree paint and paint the body of the tree. This utterly destroys all insects, also prevents rabbits from eating the bark off fruit trees, thereby saving the trees. Every person having trees should see William Cameron & Co. about this wonderful paint. (Adv.)

SON CLAIMS FOUL PLAY.

Investigating the Mysterious Death of His Father in Houston.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 15.—Jacob Friend, Jr., is here from Los Angeles, Cal., investigating the death of his father, Jacob Friend, Sr., who, according to Justice Crocker's verdict, committed suicide in a hotel about the middle of January while on return trip to his home at Williamstown, Mo., after a visit to the Rio Grande Valley. Young Friend claims his father was the victim of foul play, and in his assertions he is backed by reports from Missouri, where his father's body was sent for interment. An unusual feature of the case is a suit by the hotel against Friend's estate for the damage done to the room by the elder Friend in, it is alleged, ending his life.

Early Morning Fires.

Fire totally destroyed two frame houses near 723 North Sixth street at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. They were owned and occupied by negro families. When the firemen arrived and tapped a water plug they found the pressure very low and were thus handicapped in fighting the blaze. Before the department left this fire another call came from East Waco. A house occupied by a negro family and located on Elm street was damaged by fire.

The houses on North Sixth street were five rooms each, and the loss on the two is estimated at about $2000. The house in East Waco was not damaged over $200.

Dr. Nash Moves Here.

Dr. C. C. Nash of Palestine, assistant chief surgeon of the International & Great Northern railway for the last six years, has been transferred to Waco. The change is due to the increase in the number of men employed here by the railroad company. Dr. Nash is an old McLennan county boy, having lived at Mart for several years.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

We, the undersigned citizens of East Waco, desire to call attention of our fellow citizens of other parts of Waco to the very rapid growth and development of that portion of the city east of the river. We are now a small city within ourselves, and while the organization of the city government does not require that a commissioner shall come from this part of the city, still custom and democratic usage sanction and support our claim to representation.

It may be true that patriotic men—all residents of the west side of the river—can be found who would be broad enough to safeguard the interests of any and all parts of the city, still we feel that the rapid expansion of East Waco incident to the building of the Katy shops, the construction of the interurban and other projects of considerable importance, call for the direct and immediate attention of the city government to the consideration of our interests.

With these ends in view and with a desire to contribute our share to the progress of Waco as a whole, we hereby petition our esteemed fellow citizen, the Hon. R. E. Payne, who was for years county commissioner of McLennan county, to become a candidate for the office of Street Commissioner.

Mr. Payne is well known in this county and city, and probably has had much experience in building roads as any other man in the county. Straightforward and conservative, Mr. Payne has always shown a keen interest in public affairs and a spirit in accord with the citizens of the community in which he lived.

We feel sure that if elected Mr. Payne will reflect credit on the administration of the city government.

Island of Crete Passes from the Protecting Powers.

Athens, Greece, Feb. 15.—The island of Crete was finally evacuated by the protecting powers, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy, today and the Greek flag was hoisted amid enthusiastic demonstration by the Cretans.

A British cruiser landed a detachment of blue jackets in Suda bay and these men hauled down the flags of the powers, which have flown since 1898, as well as that of Turkey.

The flags were handed over to the consuls of the respective countries, that of Turkey being placed in charge of the German consulate.

SNEED NERVOUS THE NIGHT BEFORE

WITNESSES SAY THEY HEARD HIM PACING THE FLOOR OF HIS COTTAGE.

NEW EYE WITNESS IS FOUND

Sneed Gets Valentines From His Two Little Girls In Waco—Paper Hearts.

Vernon, Tex., Feb. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cantrell, who occupied a cottage next door to the cottage on Polk street in Amarillo where John Beal Sneed secluded himself for two days prior to killing Al Boyce September 14, testified in Sneed's trial this afternoon that they heard some one pacing the floor all Friday night, the night before the killing. Cantrell said he was restless that night and that every time he awoke he heard the walking next door. He had just returned from a trip to the east. Mrs. Cantrell testified she heard the walking Thursday night and that when she entered the house Friday morning through a back door, believing that the hobo had taken possession of it, she heard some one walking in the front room and ran out, frightened.

Besides the Cantrells, O. K. Gilvin, Amarillo real estate man, and M. H. Harden, district clerk of Potter county, testified this afternoon. Gilvin rented the cottage Sneed occupied to R. B. Epting, who was acquitted last month in his trial at Memphis as an accomplice to Sneed in the Boyce killing.

Epting may testify Monday. If so, he will be the state's star witness.

Sneed himself will admit practically all that state's witnesses so far have testified. Harden testified that he had custody of Sneed's firearms and suitcase and he identified them.

Capt. T. S. Snyder of Clayton, N. M., father of Mrs. Lena Sneed, will be the defense's first witness Monday, and he will be followed by Henry Bowman of Plano, Sneed's brother-in-law.

Sneed this afternoon received valentines from his two little girls in Waco. They were two paper hearts, fashioned by the children themselves, bearing love sentiments.

A new eyewitness to the killing of Al Boyce at Amarillo September 14 by John Beal Sneed, on trial here, was introduced by the state today. He was A. O. Pickens, a laundry wagon driver, who said he was driving up Folk street four hundred yards from the scene of the killing when Sneed opened fire. J. M. Proctor, another laundry wagon driver, who was a new eyewitness at the Epting complicity trial at Memphis recently, has not appeared, and District Attorney Spencer today asked Judge Nabors for an attachment for him. Pickens testified today that Proctor was driving immediately behind him. "When I heard the first shot," Pickens said, "I looked up and saw a man with a shotgun leveled and shooting. I did not see who he was shooting at. The shooting had ceased when I drew near the scene. I jumped from my wagon and went over to the body. Beecher Harris was the first person to arrive at the body and I was the second. Proctor, I think, was the third. I told Harris that the man was still breathing and to phone for a doctor. Boyce was lying on his left side and his right leg was crooked up. I could see a letter protruding from his right-hand coat pocket."

Sneed wore blue goggles while in Fort Worth the last three days in August, just two weeks before he killed Boyce, according to testimony of Sam Bass, night clerk of the Mansion hotel, Fort Worth, today.

CASTRO IS TO STAY

FEDERAL JUDGE HOLDS HE CAN COME AND GO AT WILL.

Has Never Been Convicted of Crime and Evidence He Is Guilty Will Not Bar Him.

New York, Feb. 15.—Cipriano Castro is free to come and go in this country at will. Judge Ward in the federal district court this afternoon sustained the writ of habeas corpus in his behalf, overruling the immigration authorities.

Castro has been out on bail for some time pending a decision in the case. The government bitterly opposed the entrance of the former Venezuelan president on the ground that he was undesirable in that he refused to answer certain questions concerning the affairs of Venezuela and the murder of Faredes, a political opponent.

Sustaining the writ, Judge Ward said:

"Aliens have the right to enter the United States, except so far as the right is restricted by our statutes. . . . The burden is upon the immigration authorities to show that any alien denied the right to enter falls within one of the exceptions to the general privilege. Although an alien who has not yet entered may not enjoy the constitutional guarantees of citizens, he has rights under this law which must be respected."

"Congress has required in respect to this particular class of aliens proof of a specified kind and no other, viz: either a conviction in the country where the crime was committed or an admission by the alien. There is no pretense of any conviction and I think ordinary proof is not sufficient."

Gen. Castro said tonight that whatever else he might do, he planned to be in Washington for the inauguration on March 4.

NAMES A COMMITTEE

DALLAS MEETING WANTS THE LEGISLATURE TO CALL CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Dr. Brooks Urges the Prohibition Question and Hurls the Gauntlet at the Feet of Delegates.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 15.—The meeting held today to discuss the advisability of holding a constitutional convention ended in the appointment of a committee of nine instructed to prepare a petition to be presented to the present legislature asking it to call a convention to revise the present state constitution.

The committee: Cullen F. Thomas, Dallas, chairman; T. N. Johnson, Tyler; M. E. Foster, Houston; Senator W. J. Bryan, Abilene; Thomas B. Love, Dallas; O. W. Gillespie, Fort Worth; Cato Seila, Cleburne; E. W. Kirkpatrick, McKinney, and S. P. Brooks, Waco.

The call for this meeting was issued February 8, its signers styling themselves progressive democrats.

The prohibition gauntlet was hurled squarely at the feet of the delegates by President Samuel P. Brooks of Baylor university, chosen chairman of the meeting. He said:

"We are here to plan the calling of a constitutional convention to draw up a new constitution for the state of Texas. The greatest of the questions which will be considered by the convention is that of statewide prohibition."

FIREMEN TO STRIKE

REJECT THE PROPOSITION OF RAILROADS FOR SIX ARBITRATORS.

Insist on Provisions of the Erdman Act, Which Requires Three to Decide the Trouble.

New York, Feb. 15.—"The railroads need a strike in their business to embarrass Woodrow Wilson, and for other reasons, and I am afraid they are going to get it," declared W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and Enginemen tonight. Mr. Carter made this statement in a talk with newspaper representatives at the close of a long conference with his associates, who with the president of the organization has been handling the 34,000 firemen's side of the dispute with the eastern railroads over demands for higher pay and revised working conditions.

Notwithstanding Mr. Carter's statement, the lack of any further proposition from the railroads, and indications that issuance of a strike order already prepared by the firemen's leaders might be imminent tonight, assurance was given by the head of the firemen's organization that no action would be taken, as long as the federal mediators were on the scene. This meant postponement of any definite break in the negotiations for at least thirty-six hours.

The firemen earlier in the day had rejected the latest proposition of the railroads, suggesting arbitration under the Erdman act, but with six arbitrators instead of three, as the law provides. The rejection was on the ground that the proposed board would have no legal status because of the variation from the provisions in the Erdman act.

NORTH MEXICO DEVASTATION.

Damage Is Being Done to the Property of Railroads.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 15.—Damage wrought by the rebels operating in the territory between El Salado and Saitillo, Mexico, is astonishing and financially will reach a high figure.

Summarised, all stations and cars have been burned between Wadley and Lula, a distance of 58 miles. Lula is 314 miles south of Laredo, Texas. Intermediate stations include El Salado, where a freight train was destroyed by fire Tuesday; San Vincente, La Truena, Vanegas, a junction point where connection is made for Cedral, state of San Luis Potosi, and the station, a stone structure, and the eating house and hotel owned by W. J. Russell, an English subject, is reported to have been destroyed; Poblacion, Catorce and Wadley are the following stations in the order named.

A further statement reiterates that Victoria, Tamaulipas, has been captured and that the twenty-eighth regiment of infantry and the tenth regiment of rurales revolted. The line between Monterey and Tampico is now closed on this account. There are no trains west of Monterey on the Gulf and Monclova division on account of burned bridges, and for a like reason there are no trains south of Saitillo. Reliable information states that five stations were burned south of Saitillo yesterday. A report states that a passenger train was held up at Cardenas Tuesday and over half a million dollars in bullion secured. Cardenas is on what is known as the Rason Mountain division of the National, between San Luis Potosi and Tampico.

Banks of Central Texas in Prosperous Condition

CENTRAL TEXAS IN FINE CONDITION

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS OF THE WACO TERRITORY MAKE A GOOD SHOWING.

BANKERS ARE TO MEET HERE

Prospects Good for the Crops This Year—Money for All Purposes.

Preceding the meeting of the Bankers' district association to be held in this city Tuesday, February 18, the Waco Morning News takes pride in presenting to its readers the financial statements of some of the largest banking institutions in this city and surrounding towns, as made to the comptroller of the currency on February 4. Each and every one of these reports shows a healthy growth and increase in deposits and assets and reflects the continued growth and prosperity of the people of this section. The Waco Morning News also desires to extend to the members of the Fourth District Bankers' association the glad hand of welcome, and believes it voices the sentiment of all Wacoans when it says, "Welcome, Bankers, to the best city in Texas."

Waco is the center of population in Texas. It is the center of the richest agricultural section on earth, and to many of those who will attend the coming meeting, its growth and development within the past few years will be a revelation. Its business interests have magnified tenfold during the past few years, and its trade territory has been extended further and further each year until today it occupies a commanding position as a commercial center, equaled by only a few and excelled by no cities in Texas.

There can be but two factors in this great growth. One of them is the hustle and enterprise of its loyal citizens and the other is the prosperity, growth and expansion of its trade territory with its unequalled richness and fertility of soil.

The bankers and members of the association the people are in a large measure indebted for these promising conditions. Texas has a reputation of having the best and most competent bankers in the world, and Central Texas is right up with the procession in this regard. Take up any of the statements published on this page and note that they show good increases in both deposits and assets. Their patrons have that confidence in them that tends to promote the growth and development of the country, and the banks are all liberal, safe and conservative, and ready to lend their assistance to all meritorious enterprises.

The News knows it would be impossible to find a better town in which to hold this meeting or a better or more prosperous country surrounding it or a happier or more contented people. With prospects better than ever before for the coming crops, with the era of development just dawning for Central Texas, with the banks full of money, belonging to depositors and with renewed faith in the future of grand old Texas, Central Texas, McLennan county and Waco, the Morning News again bids you welcome.

I was honored with membership in the firm of Clark, Clark & Saunders. That as a member of that firm and as an independent practitioner since its dissolution, I have practiced both civil and criminal law in all our courts, and I think it not boastful to say that I have had success in my practice.

I have tried to equip myself generally and particularly in the law for its successful and efficient practice in all lines. For the past three years I have been assistant city attorney, and the experience as such, in my judgment, will be valuable in the handling of all phases of the city's business, should I be elected. I have had charge of the prosecutions in the city court and for a long period of time have met regularly with the board of commissioners and have advised them from time to time upon all legal questions upon which they desired advice; and have prepared and assisted in the preparation of the many contracts, ordinances, bonds, and other papers required to be drawn by the city attorney. I have, for a long time, had occasion to investigate all questions of municipal law that have arisen in the transaction of the city's business. My record as a practicing attorney and as assistant city attorney is an open book and it is on this record that I ask the voters of this city to support me in my candidacy. I believe that my experience, as the records will disclose, in the handling of the city's affairs and as the dockets of our courts will show, in the trial of important litigation, both civil and criminal, make me qualified to successfully defend and protect the interests of the city of Waco in all its business affairs and in any litigation that may arise.

Again, the ordinances as revised, compiled and codified by me have been accepted, adopted and are now in force here in Waco; consequently, I believe that I have a thorough knowledge of all ordinance and city laws, as well as the city charter, which knowledge is indispensable to the successful handling of Waco's legal business.

Finally, if I have succeeded, as I think I have, and have shown myself capable and efficient, trustworthy, courteous and considerate, as I think I have, I feel that I am not asking too much of the voters of Waco to elect me city attorney in accordance with the time-honored democratic principle of promotion to worthy city officials. In this connection I will state that I have not before been offered for public office. Very truly yours,

W. R. SAUNDERS.

JUDGE W. H. POPE DIES ON BIRTHDAY

ONE OF THE MOST PROMINENT
ATTORNEYS IN STATE OF TEXAS.

HAD DISTINGUISHED CAREER

Served the State in High Positions.
Last Illness Shows Remarkable Vitality.

On the anniversary of his sixtieth birthday occurred the death of District Judge W. H. Pope of Jefferson county. The end came at 9 o'clock last night at the Curtis and Witte sanitarium where he was taken last Monday. His condition was critical at the time he was removed from the Natatorium hotel and he continued to grow worse. No hope was entertained for his recovery since Wednesday. Early yesterday he rallied and appeared to recognize relatives, but was too weak to speak above a whisper. He soon lapsed to unconsciousness.

A strange coincidence in connection with the time of his death is the fact that his older brother, Dr. James W. Pope, died in Marshall February 3, 1909, the anniversary of his sixty-seventh birthday. Judge Pope lingered from 12 o'clock Wednesday until 9 o'clock last night without an ounce of nourishment.

Dr. J. H. Pope of Marshall, a brother, and Alexander Pope of Dallas, a nephew, were at his bedside. The body was removed to the Puckett Undertaking company and sent to Marshall at 4 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held there this afternoon. Judge Pope's wife has been at Marshall since he became critically ill.

Sketch of His Life.
William A. Pope was born at Washington, Wilkes county, Georgia, on February 15, 1847, the son of Alexander Pope, a man who was distinguished in public life of Georgia, and who had served his state as solicitor general and as state senator.

While a boy not yet in his teens young Pope accompanied his father and family when they removed to Texas and located at Marshall. Here William H. Pope spent his boyhood days until 1863, at the age of 16 years, he joined Terry's Scouts, a cavalry company, and saw gallant service in the state of Louisiana, Texas, and Kansas until the close of the Civil war.

Return to Marshall, William H. Pope a few years later became a student of the University of Virginia, and, graduating with distinction, he returned to Marshall, Texas, to study law, and in 1871 was admitted to the bar. The profession of the law afforded a medium for the quick development of Judge Pope's remarkable talents as a lawyer and pleader, and in a short while he became known as one of the greatest criminal lawyers of Texas, and his fame, extending over the state, caused him to be engaged as associate counsel in many of the famous trials of the state.

Elected to State Senate.
In 1882 he was elected to the state senate from the Marshall district, and continued to serve his people with signal ability for ten consecutive years.

While in the senate Judge Pope was the author of the law requiring separate compartments for white and negro passengers on railroad trains and street cars, and known as the "Jim Crow" law, and left stamp and impress of his personality upon much other important legislation that was written into the statutes of Texas.

During the administration of Gov. Ross Judge Pope was named as commissioner to represent the state of Texas in prosecuting certain claims against the federal government growing out of services rendered by the Texas State Rangers in suppressing Indian uprisings on the Texas frontier. To prosecute these claims Judge Pope went to Washington and remained four years. The fact that he was successful and secured the payment of these claims in full, formed one of the crowning achievements of his career.

In 1898 Judge Pope removed from Marshall to Beaumont, where he engaged in the practice of the law and soon took front rank in his profession. In 1902 he was elected judge of the

J. MITCHELL NASH IS A CANDIDATE

IS GIVEN PLACE ON MOTHERS' CLUB TICKET FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

DR. H. F. CONNALLY RETIRES

Gives Out a Statement Regarding the Much Discussed Compromise Matter.

J. Mitchell Nash has been nominated by the executive committee of the Mothers' club, as a candidate for the Waco school board, taking the place on the ticket made vacant by the withdrawal of the candidacy of Dr. H. F. Connally, who announced yesterday his reasons for asking that his name be no longer considered.

The new candidate, J. Mitchell Nash, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Nash. He is treasurer of the First Baptist church, a graduate of Baylor University and a member of one of the strong social societies of that institution. He is an active business man of the city, his family is identified with Waco and Waco affairs, and they are well known to the people here. Mr. Nash came rightfully by his interest in educational affairs. Back in 1876, when the state of Texas, through a legislative commission, was seeking to locate the Agricultural and Mechanical College, under the endowment provided by the federal government, the people of Brazos county put in a bid. Col. J. Harvey Mitchell, the father of Mrs. E. R. Nash and grandfather of the young man who is now a candidate for the school board, was on the committee. He abandoned his trip, went to work on the college location and secured it for his county. Because of his interest and his activity in the history of the college, the last dormitory built at College Station was named "Harvey Mitchell Hall."

J. Mitchell Nash continues to take an interest in educational affairs. He maintains his membership in the Baylor society to which he belonged, and goes often to visit the institution. He will be a strong candidate in the field.

Mothers' Club Statement.
In announcing the new candidate, the Mothers' club issues the following statement:

"Since one of the members of the Mothers' club ticket for school trustee has decided to withdraw his name from the ticket, we the committee, submit to the voters of Waco, the following ticket for regular school board election to be held in May next.

"Mr. W. W. Lastinger
"Mr. J. Mitchell Nash
"Mrs. W. C. Harman
"Mrs. T. H. Claypool
"Mrs. S. P. Brooks
"Mrs. F. A. Peck
"Mrs. William Foster
"Mrs. H. D. Knickerbocker
"Mrs. J. W. Downs
"Mrs. R. S. Lazenby."

This action was announced yesterday after Dr. Connally had advised the ladies that he would withdraw from the ticket, following the controversy suggestion of recent date. In talking with the ladies, Dr. Connally said he would make a public statement regarding the proposed compromise, and would state that he had submitted to it at least one member of the school board.

Dr. Connally's Statement.

Dr. Connally's statement is as follows: "Facts concerning the compromise which has been charged against the school board."

"After there has been so much said concerning who should run for the four vacancies on the school board, I thought of a compromise proposition; first, I talked it over with Mr. Lastinger, second, I talked it over with Mr. Rotan. The latter said he did not know what view the board would take of the proposition, but said he thought there would be no harm in my submitting the proposition to the Mothers' club, and if they so desired, they could submit it to the school board. I called the committee from the Mothers' club in conference with Mr. Lastinger and myself, and submitted the proposition to them. They declined to submit the proposition to the school board. Neither the Mothers' club nor the school board were in any way responsible for the origin of the compromise proposition, which was as follows:

"To the Honorable School Board of the Waco Public Schools, Waco, Texas:

"Dear Sirs—After a careful deliberation over the matter of placing a ticket before the people of Waco for the selection of four trustees for the public schools, we have decided that in order to keep down a public controversy that might prove disastrous to the public schools of the city, we would submit to you the following proposition:

"Whereas, the news has come to us that you, Dr. Ayneworth and Mr. Brazelton have retracted their remarks, if they ever made them, they were unwilling to serve on the school board with ladies, and whereas there were two vacancies on the school board that will have to be filled by new members, and whereas we have no other object in view save the improvement of the various workings of the school and realizing that this can be best accomplished by perfect harmony among the members of the board and unanimous support of the citizenship of the city, we therefore propose that if the board will agree to two ladies whom we have on our ticket, Mrs. Claypool and Mrs. Harman, then we will agree to accept on our ticket Dr. Ayneworth and Mr. Brazelton instead of the two men mentioned. This proposition, if accepted, shall be signed by the school board and the executive committee of the Mothers' club.

"In submitting this proposition, we would like to be understood as standing for publicity of the proceedings of the board so far as the business interests of the school is concerned."

"I would like to say that I think it is best for me not to make the race for trustees, and I hereby make the announcement of my withdrawal from the ticket.

"H. F. CONNALLY."
The fact that the Mothers' club rejected the above compromise has been published.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

Some Facts About Dr. W. B. Georgia & Co., as Told By E. A. Goodman of China Springs.

In the court of laws it is the facts that count; not big words and big statement; and likewise in the court of public opinion. It is easy enough to make a broad statement; it is easier still to doubt them. But you can't doubt the kind of endorsements that we publish from time to time in evidence of the expert work that is being done and the good results accomplished by our Dr. Georgia. You can't doubt the kind of testimony that comes unolicited and unbiased from the very best citizens of Texas; from the many distinguished business and professional men—solid, unswerving witnesses. The kind of evidence that comes only from "making good"; from substantial, satisfactory merit. It can't be bought, imagined or created—it must be earned. It is the product of "value received."

If you have headaches, nervous pains in the temples, pains in the back of head extending down into the shoulder blades and spine, read what E. A. Goodman of China Springs says and then consult our Dr. W. B. Georgia.

Dear Sir—A few months ago I began wearing the glasses you prescribed for me. I can not tell how much thankful I am to you. I can now drive eight or ten miles from home and read the kind of endorserments that you send me. I am sixty odd years old and I cannot remember of riding or going to a public gathering without coming home with a sick, nervous headache. I consider this relief alone worth many times the price I paid you for the glasses. No amount of money could buy my glasses. E. A. GOODMAN.

WHEREIN RIGGINS WRITES LETTER NO. 7

Tells a Short Story—Asks a Question and Answers It—Gives Warning to the Men of Waco Who Have Money.

Mr. Editor:

So many things have pressed upon my mind for attention that I am unable to give your readers the statement and information in this letter that they reasonably expect. I want to suggest to the Young Men's Business League and Business Men's Club that we are losing a great deal of valuable time by not giving the facts about Waco to the public.

A gentleman told me today that a few weeks ago seven men sat down in a restaurant in New York; and out of the seven, four had in their pockets a clipping from one of the newspapers of Texas containing an article of mine giving some comparative figures of the cities and trade territories, and discussed the matter with the consensus of opinion that it put Waco in the most remarkable situation and would do it great good.

Now, Mr. Editor, the weakness of this whole situation is that I am only one individual in Waco and while the figures and statements I make are true, the question is raised, "Why don't the business organizations of Waco put these facts before the public under the suggestions and authority of these organizations?" I am not throwing bouquets at myself but I am deploring the fact that Waco is doing so little publicity work when there is so much to be done and such great and valuable returns to be had. I know from several sources that my articles have been extensively read and I know of great good they have done, yet that good is minimized when it might be maximized by the business men getting behind these facts and giving them to the world. The facts are here. Memorials and arches and normal schools may be good in their places, but will not build a city.

The old Pennsylvania Dutch farmer's idea was that a good barn would make a good farm but a fine dwelling never.

Let us get practical, let us quit any sentiment, let us get down to cold business. Let us look squarely into the facts that confront us. We are building a city. Waco has the opportunities. We have the goods. Let us let the world know what we have. We have rich land. Let us build a barn. These will take care of the fine houses. Tell it.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have promised some parties that I would write an article on woman's suffrage in the near future. I will tell a little story and promise something more elaborate in the future.

A very largely attended woman's suffrage meeting was held on the Pacific coast. A gentleman of distinction was invited to address them and he began by saying: "It gives me supreme pleasure to have the honor of addressing the arms that rock the cradles of this glorious nation."

Those and said, "Sir, certainly you do not understand this large audience of Equal Rights Women. I know them all. This, sir, is a modern, up-to-date audience of women. There is not a mother present nor do I think there is an arm that has ever rocked a cradle and if the Woman's Suffrage movement succeeds I think I can promise you, sir, that the help of God there never will be an arm in this crowd that will rock a cradle. With this information, sir, you may proceed." Unnecessary to say great applause followed this announcement.

Now, Mr. Editor, this is sad. Women vote in California. A short time ago there was an election on prohibition in Los Angeles. The records showed that three out of every four women voted against prohibition.

Fourth—Again, I will take a bid on the Hogan home on the corner of Austin and Eighth streets, either to sell it or move it to a lot I have on North Sixth street. Look at the house and bring me your bid for the dwelling.

IN COTTON MARKET

OFFERINGS ARE HEAVY, BUT ARE WELL ABSORBED AT START, PRICES RALLYING.

Closing Figures Are the Lowest of the Day--Big Longs Were Supposed to Be Sellers.

New York, Feb. 15.—Today's cotton market was nervous and unsettled, owing to continued realizing or liquidation and more aggressive selling by local or southern buyers. The close was easy at a net decline of 18 to 23 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 10 to 12 points, in response to lower cables than expected. Offerings were comparatively heavy, but they were well absorbed at the start and prices rallied 4 or 5 points from the lowest on covering of shorts for over the week-end and support from leading trade interests. This buying seemed to be limited, however, and as soon as the demand of the selling shorts became less active prices showed renewed weakness under continued selling for both accounts. As the market worked off a number of step loss orders were uncovered and there was a very sharp break in the late trading on rumors of the spot situation becoming easier and predictions that the liquidation movement would extend from futures to the southern markets for actual cotton. Closing prices were at practically the lowest of the day. Some of the big speculative longs were supposed to be among the heaviest sellers both yesterday and again today, and there was considerable selling through houses with southern connections.

A report from Memphis claimed that holders of small lots of spot cotton, who had been demanding higher prices, had given their brokers orders to sell at the market this morning and this may have increased the bearishness of local sentiment to some extent. The Mexican news was considered more favorable, but there appeared to be no improvement in the Balkan situation, and private cables from Liverpool reported heavy cotton selling in that market as well as of slack demand. Weekly reviews of the dry goods trade were encouraging, particularly with reference to business among the western distributors, and the early trade buying here was accompanied by reports that spinners were becoming interested in the market around 1 1/2 cents for October contracts.

New Orleans, Feb. 15.—Cotton futures opened steady at a decline of 7 to 10 points on seasonally poor cables which private advices said were due to heavy selling by spot houses. There was a decided tendency in the local market to take profits on the part of the shorts and this kept the tone fairly steady, but did not bring about a reaction from the initial decline in the early trading.

The weather over the belt also was called bearish as no rain was reported and the prospects for Sunday appeared to be for continued bright weather and somewhat higher temperatures. At the end of the first half hour prices were 11 points under the final quotations of yesterday.

The market became very active around the middle of the morning and selling became general. Weak longs let go. Much bearish comment was caused by the small mill taking this week and this feature appeared to be the real basis for the aggressiveness of bearish traders. But for the buying of covers by satisfied shorts, the market would have had little support and buying for the long account did not last very long after the opening. Prices were sent to new low levels for the week and the total volume of business done during the short week-end season probably exceeded the trading of any two of the preceding days of the week. At the lowest the trading months were 21 to 24 points under yesterday's final quotations. The close was at a net loss of 18 to 22 points.

N THE GRAIN MARKET

POSSIBILITY OF WET WEATHER TEMPTS WHEAT OWNERS TO REALIZE PROFITS.

Although Forage Is Reported Scarce, Corn Eased Off With Wheat—Selected Investors Lifted Oats.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Possibility of rain or snow tempted wheat owners today to try and realize profits. In consequence a fresh advance was more than wiped out and the market closed weak at prices ranging from last night's level to 1/2c down. Corn finished 1/4c to 1/2c off, oats at a decline of 1/4c to 1/2c, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 1/2c.

Buying of wheat was quite brisk for a while, so much so that many of the shorts were forced to cover. Dry weather in the American winter wheat crop belt and lack of snow protection in Russia gave most of the courage to the bull side. Nebraska reports told of the ground being cracked and in bad condition for seed to stand a freeze. Moreover, the forecast indicated no moisture between now and Monday. On the other hand, leading experts declared that fall sown wheat was dormant from December to March and that fears regarding the plant were premature. In addition, receipts at primary points were liberal and rain had visited the Punjab.

Despite alleged scarcity of forage, southwest corn eased off with wheat and because of limited shipping demand more than 6000 cars of corn were reported as being held back from elevators here by a blockade on the belt line. Selected investors lifted oats for a trifling but subsequently the market was slow to absorb the offerings. Provisions averaged higher throughout the day. Most of the impetus came from an advance at the yards.

N STOCK MARKET

REFUSAL OF ARBITRATION BY FIREMEN WEAKENS RAILROAD STOCK.

No Pronounced Changes in the Money Situation—Weekly Trade Review Optimistic.

New York, Feb. 15.—Railroad stocks sold off sharply in the last five minutes of trading today after it was made known that representatives of the firemen had rejected arbitration on terms proposed by the railroad managers. Previous to this time the movement had been narrow and unimportant with heavy tone at intervals. Lack of definite information from Mexico and concerning the prospects for a strike of firemen had restricted speculation until the final drive and as bear operators seemed in no haste to cover the market was dull.

Pennsylvania was one of the weak issues, selling down to 118, the lowest since 1908. It was influenced not only by fears of a strike, but by the reiteration of unconfirmed reports which have been circulated recently to the effect that a large block of the road's treasury stock will be sold. The total unused capital stock which is free to be offered to stockholders is $80,920,000.

Although it was reported that leading selling interests had fixed their prices of refined copper for future deliveries at 15 cents, the copper stocks did not reflect the weakness of the metal market.

No pronounced changes in the money situation were indicated by the bank statement, which was a marked improvement over last week. The actual table showed only a nominal cash loss of $600,000, and there was a small gain in excess reserves.

The weekly trade reviews were fairly optimistic. Despite cross currents in trade in disquieting events in various parts of the world it was asserted that conservation expansion of business continues.

The bond market was irregular. Total sales, par value, $954,000. United States 4s coupons advanced 1/4 and Panama 5s declined 1/4 on call on the week.

Poultry, Butter and Eggs. Chicago, Feb. 15.—Eggs are selling in Chicago today for 19c, a figure lower than that for any time in 20 years at this season. The markets were swamped with thousands of cases, which resulted in a 3-cent break in the price. Retailers in many instances sold them for 21c, although most of them held out for 23 and 24c. Storage eggs were quoted at from 12 to 13c wholesale.

New York, Feb. 15.—Eggs weak, receipts 11,123 cases; fresh gathered extras 23 @ 24c, dirties 16 @ 17c, checks 14 @ 15c.

St. Louis, Feb. 15.—Poultry—Chickens 13c, springs 14 1/2c, turkeys 18c, ducks 16c, geese 10c. Butter—Creamery 28 @ 35c. Eggs 19c.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Butter steady; creameries 28 @ 35c. Eggs weak, receipts 7,480 cases, at mark, cases included, 17 @ 18c, refrigerator firsts 15c, firsts 18 1/2c. Potatoes steady, receipts 36 cars, Michigan 48 @ 52c, Minnesota 48 @ 50c, Wisconsin 47 @ 52c. Poultry alive steady, turkeys, chickens and springs 15c.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—Butter, eggs and poultry steady.

Kansas City, Feb. 15.—Butter—Creamery 35c, firsts 33c, seconds 21c, packing 19 1/2c. Eggs extra firsts 15c, seconds 13c. Poultry—Hens 12 1/2c, roosters 8 1/2c, ducks 15c.

The Money Market. New York, Feb. 15.—Money on call nominal, no loans; time loans strong, 4 @ 60 days 4 1/2 @ 5 per cent, 90 days 4 @ 5, six months 4 1/2 @ 5 per cent. ## ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln said that "you can fool all the people part of the time and some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." It seems to me that many merchants try to build up their business by trying to fool the public. It is almost a daily occurrence that you see merchants advertising their goods at and below cost. Going out of business sale, reducing stock sale, etc., intending to fool you and get the usual profit on their goods.

I always make a reasonable profit on my goods or keep them, but I am honest about it, and do claim that I always give good values. I furnish homes completely and give you easy payments. I am the exclusive dealer for SEALY MATTRESSES, LEGGETT & PLATT SPRINGS and BOHN-SYPHON REFRIGERATORS. They are at the head of the class.

FOR BOXING CARNIVAL.

Charleson Has a Number of Features Scheduled for Tuesday.

Arrangements for a boxing carnival and wrestling bout combined have been made by Manager M. Charleson to take place at the Majestic theatre Tuesday night. The bill calls for thirty-five rounds of boxing and one finish wrestling bout.

Hank Tate and Frank LaRue, two heavyweights, will meet in a sparring match. They went four rounds in the semi-final preliminary last Wednesday night with honors about even.

The main boxing match will be between Kid Wright and Herbert Thompson. Wright weighs 135 pounds and Thompson balances the scales at 137 pounds. These two lightweights tangled up in a fierce eight-round engagement about a month ago. The referee gave Thompson the decision, but the crowd called it a draw.

Gunboat Aulsbury and an unknown will box six rounds. The wrestling bout will be between Blondy Kemp and Bobby Walsh, two lightweights who are evenly matched and well schooled in the mat game.

Record for High Kick.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15.—What is claimed as a world's record for high kicking was made last night in the annual Charter Day indoor athletic meet at the University of Nebraska. Meyers, a big sophomore, succeeded in elevating his toe to a height of 9 feet 9 inches, half an inch better, it is claimed, than the previous record.

Breaks Shot Record.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—Ralph Rose put the 24-pound shot 39 feet 4 inches at the annual indoor track and field meet of the Pastime A. C. last night, breaking the former record of 38 feet 10 inches made by Patrick McDonald of the Irish-American A. C., New York.

June 2 has been set as the date when Toronto will raise the International league pennant. The Rochester Hustlers will help the Maple Leafs to celebrate the event.

Navigator Manager Popular In Waco and Texas Circuit

Starting in College Baseball, Carson Is Made Coach, Thence to Professional Ball—Caught for Portland, Who Won Pennant.

Towering above terra firma about six feet with muscles knotted about his erect form; a face that is always decorated with a smile, and a head for baseball is a meagre description of the man W. R. Davidson has selected to pilot the Navigators through the season and he has wonderful confidence in the ability of the man who did a major portion of the back-stopping for the Waco club last year. Carson is a ball player through and through. He was born in Minerva, service with the Navigators for two seasons, and Carl Gardner, candidate for second base. All of the veterans have signed save O. J. Ducey, demon second sacker of the Texas League. Carson entertains no fear that Ducey will hold out. "Katy park" is in the best condition ever for the start and the boys who have flocked to the city before the spring practice begins will start loosening up their muscles this week. All of the squad will be here and ready for practice March 1.

Practice Season Two Weeks Off. With only two weeks until the beginning of the Texas league spring practice season and the first squad of the St. Louis Browns, due here this week, the local baseball bugs are beginning to become alive to the diamond sport. They are peering about to see just what is what and occasionally offering suggestions to the big catcher who will manage the Navigators. They are willing for the break to come and await the beginning with interest and confidence.

BROWNS' QUARTERS IN SHAPE

Waco Will Welcome St. Louis Recruits Sometime This Week—Veterans Here March 1.

Waco is ready to receive the advance squad of the St. Louis Browns, Henry Fabian, ground keeper and advance man for the club, has been in Waco for three weeks preparing the Cotton Palace park for the Stovall aggregation. He left Friday for St. Louis satisfied that the grounds were in as near a perfect condition as possible.

The Chicago White Sox used the Cotton Palace park in spring practice last season and the grounds were very satisfactory. However, the Sullivanites changed their minds about coming to Waco for a second preliminary muscle soreness relief.

The grounds have been covered with a thin coating of sand that will quickly absorb all the rainfall that generally marks "a bad weather period" in Texas during the spring.

It was through the secretary of the Waco Business Men's Club, E. F. Drake, that the St. Louis club was induced to come to Waco. He has left nothing undone to make the city an attractive spring training place.

The first squad of the Browns are expected here this week and the veterans will arrive by March 1. George Stovall, who took the managerial duties of the club late last season, will arrive about the middle of the week according to reports from St. Louis.

The Portland club of the Pacific coast league, has purchased Pitcher Stanley of the Atlantic City team. He was the leading twirler in the Tri-State league last season.

Jim Flynn, the heavyweight pugilist has refused an offer to become a baseball umpire, Jim says he doesn't mind fighting, but umpiring is a bit too rough for him.

A new western Canada league is being talked of, the circuit to include Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Prince Albert.

Francis Connolly, who is a brother of umpire Tom Connolly of the American league, has signed a 1913 contract to officiate as an umpire in the American Association.

Manager John McGraw of the Giants has decided to give up his pool room in New York. The pool emporium was a great club room for New York fans.

TOM CARSON
Popular Manager of the Waco Navigators.

Ohio, in 1880. He played town ball on the home lot before many youngsters his age could toss the horseshoe sphere from one base to another. His first appearance in amateur circles was with Eddie Poole. Poole was pitcher and Carson was receiver for the Mount Union college. The next season Carson went to Bethany college of West Virginia and coached the ball team there.

The first appearance of Carson in semi-professional ball occurred in 1903, when he caught 170 games for the Zanesville, Ohio, club. He would have played in the entire 186 games save for an injury that disabled him for a short period. His wonderful record attracted professional scouts and the following year he played with the Charleston, S. C. club in the Atlanta league. He was sold to Columbia, S. C. the following year and the next season he went to Augusta, Ga. He worked behind the bat in 135 games, until drafted by the Portland club in the Pacific Coast league. In all the games Carson never missed a time at bat and a substitute was not asked to run the bases for him, and the Waco manager chased around the circuit many times that season.

Carson With Winning Club. The catcher finished the 1906 season with the Portland Club which won the Pacific coast league pennant. He remained with the club the following year and in 1908 he was repurchased by the Augusta, Ga., club, where he played for two seasons. At the end of the 1909 season he was purchased by the Chattanooga club. He remained there one season and was sold to Waco, where he has performed since.

There is no one in Waco more pleased with Carson for manager than W. R. Davidson, president of the club. In addition he has worlds of confidence in him and says he will give him the material for a winning ball club. So far Carson has gotten along nicely with his managerial duties. During the last week he has received the contracts of Ollie Jost, big right-handed mound artist who has been in

Carson Sends Transportation.

Late last night Manager Tom Carson of the Waco ball club announced that transportation would be sent to the players who are signed to report for spring practice March 1. This will include about thirteen veterans and fifteen recruits.

After negotiating for several weeks Carson has finally signed W. L. Crosby, of Gilmer, Tex., a young catcher who showed form in the Oklahoma-Texas league last season.

Hank O'Day says that the Cincinnati club owes him $1,000 as a bonus because he landed the Reds in the first division last season.

Norris L. (Tip) O'Neill, president of the Western league, is in California, making arrangements for the spring training trip of the Chicago White Sox.

GIRLS! GET A 25-CENT BOTTLE OF "DANDERINE" AND TRY THIS. ALSO STOPS FALLING HAIR; DESTROYS DANDRUFF.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you the most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair, growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

GEO. E. KORST, Manager.

the time now since Uncle Tom McCarty, Southland's shrewd promoter, gave out that in deference to the trend of public opinion he had given over signing negroes and white men for ring contests.

It is no fallacy to say that there has always been more or less prejudice against the pitting of colored pugilists against whites. Whenever a negro triumphed over a paleface adversary in an important engagement the repugnance against such events increased.

The feeling became intense after the Johnson-Jeffries bout at Reno. It manifested itself mainly in indifference to Queensberry happenings in general, irrespective of whether the matches arranged were mixed or unmixed.

For quite a while the great unwashed displayed apathy towards their ring men and their fortunes, but after a while things righted themselves. Interest in boxing was revived but the aversion to black and white contests remained.

When Jack Johnson behaved in a manner to merit the condemnation of right thinking people, the fight promoters of the world were practically united in deciding that it was proper to oust the big negro from the pugilistic field.

Then the sporting men and critics in the various portions of the United States voiced opinions to the effect that it was high time to begin segregating the races so far as pugilistic pastimes were concerned.

Some of the rising heavyweights who had been posing as "hopes" took interest in the existing sentiment and declared themselves in favor of inaugurating a tourney to decide who was the white champion of the world. Tom McCarty, of Los Angeles was the first of the promoters to grasp the situation. He had a championship belt manufactured and the girdle is now worn by Luther McCarty, who, by virtue of his victories over Jim Flynn and Al Palmer, became entitled, in McCarty's opinion, to hold and defend the belt against all comers, whose complications are of the required tint.

McCarty, by the way, said recently that while he had stated at the outset of his career he would never box a negro, he would relinquish his objections if the public wanted him to tackle Johnson.

This may have been a little "bluff" on Luther's part, and if so it was a perfectly safe one. The public in its present temper towards mixed matches is not likely to clamor for a Johnson-McCarty fight.

And if the public should be so inconsistent as to lend its countenance to a Johnson-McCarty scrap, its "all Lombard street to China orange" that Tom McCarty's belt would hang in the balance. Trust Uncle Tom for that.

To get back to the New York commission. Before the gentleman composing that august body declared themselves steps had been taken in other cities towards framing rules for bidding the making of mixed matches. With the example of New York before them the places referred to will be more determined than ever to frown upon such events, and as the movement is one that meets the approval of the public other places again will follow the lead established. It looks indeed if the day when negroes and whites were at liberty to mingle in the Queensberry enclosure is passing rapidly.

It will work hardship to some of the colored gladiators—Sam Langford for instance. Sam has made Australia his stamping ground for a year or so, and during that time has wonlop everything in sight. He has had no less than five battles with his color mate, Sam McVey, at the Antipodes, the score standing Langford 4, McVey 1.

Langford is probably homeward bound by this time and he will do the drop of white hopes that has sprung up in his absence. But with Los Angeles and New York already closed against mixed matches and with other cities evidently determined to adopt similar measures, Langford's prospects for work will be slight unless he brings McVey with him.

If the new order of things becomes general, and it begins to look as though it will, there will be interminable arguments in the years to come in regard to the respective merits of champions of different colors.

It may be thought that there will be some spot on the earth's surface where a white champion and a black can get together without breaking any house rules and determine who is the champion of champions.

With the Boxers.
Tom Ginty and Al Ketchel will meet in Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 17.
Digger Stanley and Eddie Morgan will box for the bantamweight championship of England in London next month.

Manager Dan Morgan says that it is a cinch that Knockout Brown will defeat Joe Rivers in Los Angeles on Feb. 22.

Ed Clark, formerly of the Bloomington Three-I league team, has signed with the Saginaw team of the Southern Michigan league. Clark shares with Otto Burns, the former Decatur winner, the honor of pitching the longest baseball contest on record—the twenty-six inning game between Bloomington and Decatur played on May 31, 1909.

Next October will be the tenth anniversary of the world's series between the Boston Americans and the Pittsburgh Nationals. Will the Red Sox and the Pirates celebrate that event by playing for another championship next fall?

In a recent game at Havana, Cuba, the players taking part were: Villa, Gonzales, Regino, Mendez, Castillo, Almeida, Cabrera, Viola and Moran. That's a fine bunch for a Moran to be mixed up with.

Pitcher "Lefty" Russell, who was a sensation with the Baltimore team a few years ago, and later a member of the Athletics, has decided to quit the game for the present at least.

WHAT IS FUTURE OF JIM THORPE

JUST NOW IT IS A GAMBLE WHETHER HE WILL BE GREAT BALL PLAYER.

NOT DEVELOPED ON DIAMOND

McGraw Has Taken the Chance—Has a Fine Record for His Past Successes.

BY W. J. MBETH.
New York, Feb. 15.—Jim Thorpe, the most wonderful athlete of history, will try for a regular position on the New York Giants this year. He may make the team. He may not. But whether he does or not, he will prove a draw—more business affair to reward the manager, John J. McGraw, for all the trouble and expense to which he was put in securing him.

McGraw has turned any number of clever tricks in his career as a baseball manager. None of them showed more business sense than the signing of the aborigine who is just now the talk of the entire world. McGraw came to the Polo grounds when the Giants were the laughing stock and the joke of the sporting world. He delivered the goods. He gathered a bunch of real ball players. He put New York on the baseball map. He laid the foundation for financial returns which made possible the wonderful Brush Stadium and the modern Polo grounds, at once the envy and the pride of organized baseball. No one better than McGraw realizes the advantage of advertising. Perhaps he had some motive along this line when he decided to go out after Glen Warner's wonderful Indian. He realized that Thorpe would prove a great drawing card for several months whether he was much use as a player or not. He would afford a chance because of the peculiarity of baseball law which binds talent to a club indefinitely, but which allows that club the privilege of casting adrift from undesirable talent on ten days' notice.

Hopes to Develop Ball Player.

Still behind it all McGraw appears most sincere in his move. He hopes to make a baseball player out of Jim Thorpe. I do not think that the little leader of the champion Giants would have bothered with the Indian if he had not thought there was hope of developing him into something worth while. Doubtless the advertising possibilities appealed to him more or less. But at the same time it is a good bet that John J. McGraw would never have trifled with the greatest modern athlete if he had not been reasonably certain of latent possibilities in this prospect.

The very fact that Thorpe signed with the Giants is a grand testimonial to McGraw's shrewdness. Nearly every major league club had made overtures to the Indian before the leader of the Giants decided to enter the market. Six or seven clubs had already sent scouts to Carlisle empowered to offer exceptional inducements. McGraw did his own business personally, by wire. It is doubtful if he paid as great a salary as other rivals had offered. But Thorpe—or his mentor, Glen Warner—appreciated the fact that the Oklahoma redman could not possibly go to a better instructor.

Thorpe's Future a Gamble.

Getting right down to hard pan, Thorpe's baseball future is more or less of a gamble. He is not a great player now. He could not be expected to be such. Baseball has been a side line with Thorpe ever since he deserted the reservation in search of an education. He paid some little attention to the game when he first went to Carlisle because he loves this sport. But Warner never permitted him to develop his talents along these lines. Thorpe was too great an all-around athlete to waste on any one specialty. Warner had talent him out and persuaded him to sacrifice the baseball opportunities for track and field sports. Big Jim was allowed to sub on the nine of the Indians when not engaged in track meets and did very well indeed as a pitcher and first baseman. He was good enough to go out in the summer time and earn a fair salary in the obscure minors. Then Carlisle taboed baseball and Jim dropped the sport entirely.

He stands today where he left off at the end of 1909. In three years he has been idle, so far as the diamond is concerned. "I'll not fail because of disinterestedness, you may be sure," says Thorpe. "I might have gone to other clubs where I would have had a better opportunity to play regularly. But I would sooner sit on the bench under a real manager than to play regularly for some one who could not bring out the very best that is in me. I am determined that if I possess ability it shall be developed to the utmost degree. They tell me I have gained my share of fame in athletics and in football. If I have, I did not do it by means of hustling. I shall hustle for McGraw because I wish either to be the best ball player in the world or step down from the profession."

That is the Thorpe situation in a nutshell. If the great Indian is possessed of the proper talent he will take his place among the great stars. McGraw possibly did not realize Thorpe's sentiments when he began to negotiate for him. But now that he has been apprised of them, you may be sure that Jim Thorpe will not suffer through lack of opportunity.

PRIMARY TICKET HAS BEEN MADE

CITY COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING TO GET READY FOR THE ELECTION.

ALL PLACES ARE ASSIGNED

George Gregory Elected to Fourth Ward Vacancy—To Be a Single Primary.

A single primary was decided upon; George Gregory was elected a member of the committee from the Fourth ward; the arrangement of the ticket to be voted upon was ratified and practically the same list of election officers that served before was adopted.

The arrangement of the ticket announced is as follows:
Commissioner, Place No. 1—T. A. CAUFIELD.
Commissioner, Place No. 2—STEPHEN TURNER.
GABRIEL J. WINTER.
D. E. HIRSHFIELD.
BOB PAYNE.
T. B. BARTON.
JOHN DOLLINS.
Commissioner, Place No. 3—J. A. LITTLEFIELD.
DAVE MAY.
Commissioner, Place No. 4. JOHN W. FOSTER.
I. FRIEDLANDER.
City Attorney—HILL SAUNDERS.
JOHN MAXWELL.
City Secretary—JOHN DAVIS.
City Tax Collector and Assessor. R. L. STRIBLING.
Water Commission—(Three to be voted upon.) W. M. SLEEPER.

R. L. CARTWRIGHT.
ROBERT H. ROGERS.
The fees charged the candidates were as follows: Commissioner paid $14; city attorney, $25; city tax collector and assessor, $30; city secretary, $25.

The committee was called to order at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by Chairman Howell Taylor and the first matter taken up was that of the election of a committee from the Fourth ward. J. R. Stricker, M. L. Garrett and George Gregory were placed in nomination, Gregory being elected. His election later was made unanimous.

The chair then suggested that the committee take some definite action upon the matter of holding a double or single primary. In view of the fact that all of the candidates have expressed preference for the single primary and it could not affect the candidates for any office except those for commissioner from Place 2, the vote was unanimously in favor of holding one primary.

The list of election officers adopted is as follows:
First ward—Judge, W. D. Rondthaler; assistant, Ike Mayfield; clerks, John Hopkins, Ben Adelman, Sol Taylor, J. W. Sacket, H. W. Hawk, Jiles Lester.

Second ward—Judge, George W. Jones; assistant, Cal Shelton; clerks, J. Frank Trau, F. H. Kinsbury, J. A. Lempe, Stark West, J. H. Baugh, G. H. Smith.

Third ward—Judge, T. P. Jewell; assistant, M. H. Standifer; clerks, W. H. Gramling, Rev. W. H. Hill, Johnson, Rev. W. M. Bowden and A. D. Adams.
Fourth ward—Judge, Cliff Torrance; assistant, not selected; clerks, W. T. Coleman, T. C. Smith, Joe Kemendo, J. D. Willis, Charlie Willis, J. E. Stock, J. G. Lowrey.

Fifth ward—Judge, William Reese; assistant, R. G. Wright; clerks, P. M. Mullen, H. C. Dumas, H. J. McGee, S. H. Smith Sr., William Wade, R. A. Ousley, C. M. Mueser.
Sixth ward—Judge, George Bird; assistant, W. H. Deaton; clerks, Walter Weaver, Jim Dudley, Whit Adams, Whit Davis, John Beckley and Mr. Scott.

The members of the committee present at the meeting yesterday were: Chairman Howell Taylor, Secretary Battle and Committeemen Seales, Smith, Foreman, and Francis Winter.

An Indorsement

Waco, Tex., February 2, 1913.
Capt. Stephen Turner,
Waco, Texas.

My Dear Sir:
When I saw it announced in our daily papers that Mr. P. A. Gorman would under no circumstances run for city commissioner again, I wondered who we could find here to take his place. Among the men who came to my mind was a man who came to me as a competent, honorable and upright man, and the man we need now, since Waco is rapidly growing. There is a great deal of street paving and sewer work ahead, and we must have a reliable man, who is a practical engineer. Your many years of service in Waco and other places is well known to all Waco tax payers. Every man who has announced for the office of commissioner is honorable and I have nothing disparaging to say of them. We have all a preference and it gives me pleasure to pledge my support and influence in your race for city commissioner. I haven't the least doubt but what the majority of voters think as I do. Yours truly,
(Adv.) E. W. BLINN.

Richness of Materials, Distinctly Different Styling and Designing Characterize the Spring Apparel for Women and Misses

EVERY WOMAN who is interested in Fashionable Gowns, Suits, Waists and Skirts for Spring should visit the Second Floor during this week for an inspection of the many pretty garments that are assembled for the Spring season of 1913. The display now being made does not cover all that we will show for Spring, but you will find it larger and more comprehensive even now than that shown by any other store, and the large majority of the garments throughout our Ready-to-Wear Department are exclusive and individual in style. The prices that we have appended to Spring Apparel will interest you, too, for they clearly demonstrate the advantages that Sanger Brothers of Texas enjoy as the largest purchasers that visit the Fashion centers from the South, and they also prove to you how these buying advantages result in a saving of money to you, for with our buying prestige we not only procure the best the market affords at lower prices than those paid by smaller concerns, but we share this advantage with our customers by selling for less.
